THE WEEK AT HOME.

Marior Adams wants to buy ten fresh cows.

Winter seems to have gone into camp for sure.

A grand variety of Dolls at Long, the druggist.

Ten fresh cows wanted at once. MARION I. ADAMS.

B. Forsythe had business with his wholesalers at Chicago Tuesday.

Long, the druggist, has the largest line of Xmas novelties in town.

Mrs. Mary Fendig is in Wheatfield, visiting her son, Simon Fendig and wife.

Miss Leota Alter is learning the art of type setting, at the Republican office.

C. D. Nowels was in Chicago Monday and Tuesday in the interest of his store.

Anywhere except on the gravel pikes the roads are very rough and frozen hard.

D. A. Stoner is closing out some good cockerels cheap, if taken within the next week.

Save money by buying Rogers Bros. knives and forks for $3 per set, at Long & Hardman.

We have a special line of books, at special prices. A. F. Long, the Druggist. See him.

Clark was selecting holly stock for his jewelry store in the big city the first of the week.

If you want Plymouth Rock or Langshan cockerels, call on D. A. Stoner soon, as he is closing out.

Charles C. Warner is in Remington this week in the interest of the big Christmas souvenir edition of the Pilot.

Long, the druggist, wants you to see his novelties in toys, handkerchief boxes, glove boxes, cuff and collar boxes.

Musical instruments of all kinds. Also violin and guitar strings, violin bows, etc.

A. F. LONG, the druggist.

Did you know that Long & Hardman were selling Rogers Bros. 1847 knives and forks for $3.00 per set.

Ex-treasurer Mark Hemphill has been kept at home for a few days suffering with some very painful boils.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bartoo entertained several friends at their home last Thursday evening, in their usual clever manner.

H. L. Gamble, of St. Louis, spent Sunday and Monday in Rensselaer, the guest of Dr. M. B. Alter and others.

Miss Cary Gibson, of Rose Lawn, spent Thanksgiving with Miss Bertha Parcells, remaining with her until Monday morning.

Miss Mabel Doty is absent at Bellevue, Iowa, this week upon business for D. C. Heath & Co., the book publishers of Chicago. She will return next.

Skates are again in demand, and sleighs soon will be from present appearances, as a genuine snow storm put in its active presence yesterday morning.

Henry Percupile and family removed, last week from the Mrs. Nellie Leomming house, near the railroad, to the Mrs. Ludd Hopkins house near the river bridge.

The best plated knives and forks are Rogers Bros. No. 1847. See that you get them. LONG & HARDMAN.

The Rensselaer football team is figuring on a "gridiron tussle" with the Goodland team for next Saturday, and the Pilot feels safe in predicting for the home team a brilliant victory.

Isaac and Louie Leopold, who conduct a thriving general store at Walcott, spent Thursday with parents and friends here, and attended the dance Thursday night.

Mrs. Ambrose Willis was called to Mason, Illinois, Thursday of last week, by the serious illness of her brother-in-law, Mitchell Dewey, and will not return until there is some change in his condition.

The Hamilton & Phillips dramatic company, of which our popular and clever former young townsman, Gus Phillips, is the junior partner, is this week at Frankton, Ind. The troupe is reported by a reliable dramatic paper as being the only company of its class that is playing to paying houses. Mr. Phillips is corresponding with Manager Ellis relative to arranging a date for the near future for Rensselaer.

A Shoe Factory for Rensselaer.

From Messrs. A. Leopold and Valentine Seib the Pilot is informed a matter of interest to this city, viz., the contemplated establishment here of a manufactory for infants' shoes and other shoe specialties that will give employment to seventy-five or more people. The party referred to has similar factories now in successful operation in Wabash and Frankfort, this state, and will locate another in the near future in some place similar to Rensselaer. The product of these factories are as staple as any goods on the market and have been handled by local merchants who know the value and staple-ness of the articles. The reasons for locating these factories in different towns is to secure cheaper operating expenses, and to take advantage of such inducements as towns seeking manufactories are willing to give. The gentleman will be here in a short time, and as he is perfectly familiar with the city and its advantages, he will ask a conference with the citizens interested in securing manufacturing enterprises, and make a proposition. It is understood that he asks $10,000. This sum, or even $100,000, can be raised to get manufacturing plants located here, but in these hard times, the fullest value will certainly have to be demonstrated. If it can be shown that the shoe factory will give constant employment to seventy-five hands, the manufacturer will interest Rensselaer people at once, and he can do business with them. If one factory is located here others will more readily follow.

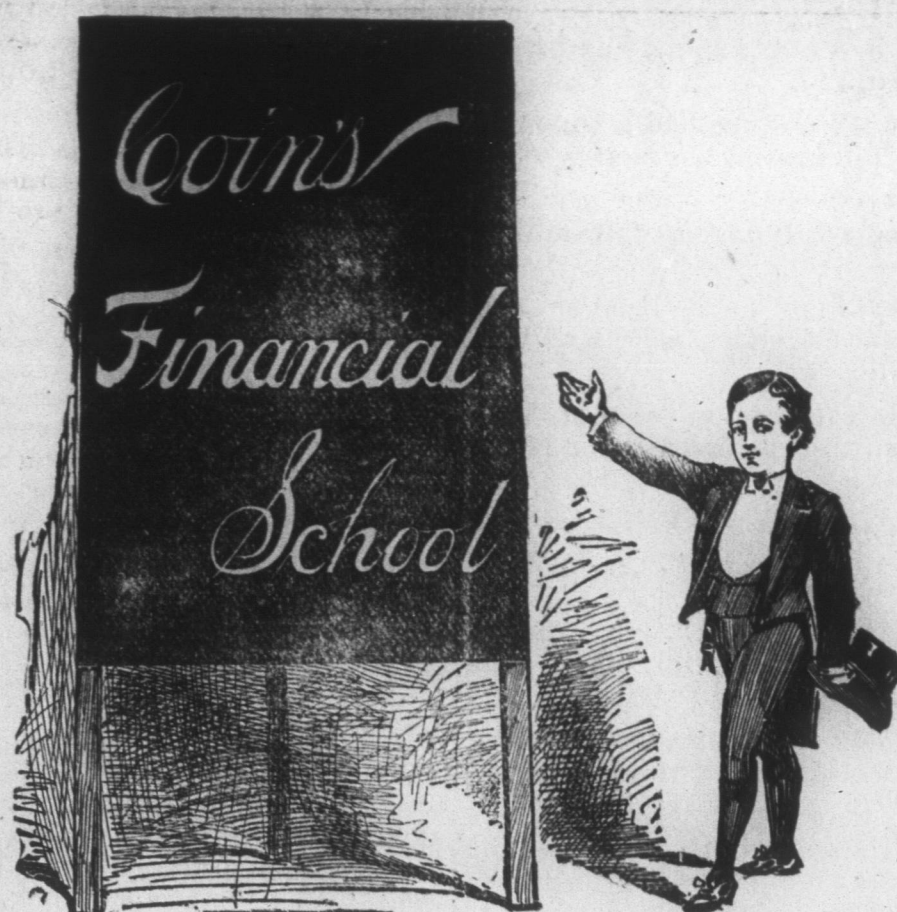

Miss Nellie Traugh, of Remington, one of Jasper county's best young lady school teachers and society favorites, attended the County Teachers' Association last Friday and Saturday, and was the guest of Miss Nellie Moss.

Some of the young men are arranging for a number of club dances to take place at intervals through the winter, and expect to be able to give the first dance next Tuesday night. Prof. Muerato, who played the Italian harp at last Thursday's dance, will probably be engaged to furnish the music for all the club dances.

Farmer Hopkins, who, in July last, booked a date for Rensselaer for December 13th, will be on hand next week Friday. Evidently he has had a successful run or is well fixed financially, for about nine out of every ten companies have canceled their dates per force of circumstances. Possibly the attraction has sufficient merit to make a winner. At least the big company is coming to render the celebrated comedy.

A telegram sent out from Lexington, Kentucky, Nov. 24, tells of the distressing circumstances of Lewis George Clark, better known as George Harris, who furnished the "Uncle Tom" for Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Clark is now 84 years of age, and the story of his destitution is pitiable in the extreme. He was for several years on the stage, later a lecturer in behalf of his race and now lives in the negro hovels of Lexington off the philanthropy of the public.

A swell society event, gotten up by some of our progressive young men, was given at the Opera House Thanksgiving night. It was the annual ball, and in point of costume and music was one of the best ever given in our town. At 9 o'clock the grand march took place, led by Mr. Little, of Wolcott, and Miss Nellie Hopkins, of Rensselaer. Mr. Chamberlain had placed an arc light in the center of the dancing hall, and as the promenade passed under its glare, the effect was indeed beautiful. The orchestra, under the direction of Signor Marrati, of Chicago, was stationed on the stage, and pleased both dancers and spectators with the sweet strains of music. The harp solo is worthy of mention. In the gallery was stationed a phonograph, conducted by a gentleman from abroad, who, not to be outdone, gave several "phonograph solos" in a becoming manner. Among the visiting guests may be mentioned the names of Nellie Ward, of Monticello; Love Crampton, of Delphi; Maud Mullen, of Remington; Blanche Brown, of Danville Illinois; Mr. Little, of Wolcott; Mr. Rauch, of Kentland; Mr. Galloway, of Monon, and Mr. Raub, of Chalmers. At 12 o'clock supper was served at the restaurant, after which the dancers returned to the hall and tripped the light fantastic into the "wee sma' hours."

Mrs. Aaron Pearson, a sister to Deputy Sheriff Ben McColly, died Tuesday evening of last week, at her home in Union township, near Alter's mill, after an illness of two weeks. She was buried Thursday in Weston cemetery, the services having been conducted by Rev. Brady, from the Christian church. Mrs. Pearson leaves a husband and twelve children.

Rev. C. E. Voliva filled the pulpit at the Missionary Baptist church last Thursday, preaching the union Thanksgiving sermon. J. L. Brady, who was announced to lead, was deferred from doing so on account of taking charge of a funeral at that hour. The sermon was very interesting, and was well attended.

Wedding invitations were this week issued by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thrawls inviting friends to the marriage, on December 18, of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Kline, to Mr. Rodney Crain, of Logansport. Miss Kline is a very pretty young lady, and is possessed of many close friends in Rensselaer. Mr. Crain is assistant superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and is recommended as one of the best young business men of that town. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple will go to Logansport, where they will begin housekeeping. The Pilot extends congratulations in advance of the happy union.

think that these letters have done more to draw us together and unite us in the bonds of Christian fellowship than any other one thing. And they have encouraged us in that they have shown us that there are more of us than we had thought for. In my simplicity I thought that we were dwindling away, fast dying out. That the little handful in Indiana, in Michigan and a few scattered ones in the west were all that were left of the faithful. So many of the old people were dying off, and so few young people were coming in to take their places. I thought it forcible that we would soon cease to exist as a church.

I think I felt something as the prophet Elisha did when he went to the cave Adullem in Mount Horeb, and I began to think seriously what I would do if I were left alone in a community where there were none of our people? I am not well calculated to run the Christian race alone, would I conclude that I was wrong, that I had given a wrong interpretation to the Scriptures? But after a careful review of the testimonies I felt more "set in my way" than ever. There is nothing plainer to me than that the Scriptures teach that "Eternal life is the gift of God to the righteous." That God will fulfill his covenant with Abraham.

"In thy seed shall all the world be blessed." That that seed which is Christ is the nucleon who has taken his journey into a far country to get for himself a kingdom. And that his return will be the consummation of our hope. But I am weary. But when the Christmas letters began to appear in the Restitution and kept coming and coming from the east, the north, the south, and the great west, I realized that God is able to take care of his truth, and that "He had yet a reserve of seven thousand." "Who have not bowed the knee to Baal." I also learned indirectly from the letters that I am not so isolated as I have thought. Brother and sister Upton live within two miles of this home. Sister U. and Miss Elton (daughter of Bro. George Elton, of Collinwood, called on me last June. Their visit was short but very pleasant, and Mrs. Elton showed a motherly interest in me by instructing her daughter to ask me if this was a good home and a good place for sick people. Mrs. U. has visited me since and brought me flowers and fruits, and we have had some pleasant visits together. But I am wearying myself and must bring my letter to a close. Like all of my letters now it has been written at intervals, days when I am feeling the best; some days not more than a half dozen lines. There is something about human nature that makes us cling to the associations of other days. We shrink from the thought of dropping out of the places we once occupied in the lives and interests of other people. I am not able to write personal letters to all of my friends much as I would love to do so, but can reach all who are readers of the Restitution in this way, and will be glad to hear from any of you who feel disposed to write me.

The winter and spring months are so hard on me that it takes me all summer to get ready to recuperate. It seemed at one time that I would never again recover the use of my arms enough to be able to write, and I feel very thankful that I am permitted even a limited use of the pen. I began to improve about the first of September just as I did last year at this time; but I am much more comfortable than I was through the spring and summer. And that is great deal to be thankful for. The coming of the Savior means a great deal more to me than it can possibly be to you who are living among your friends and associates. When I came here I left all my kindred and the associations of thirty years to come and spend my last days among strangers. The prospect before me now is not a cheerful one. The tendency of inflammation of the spinal chord is to paralysis.

It may come soon, in my case or it may be that I shall suffer for years. No one can tell how or how soon it may terminate. I do not worry over this, in fact I seldom allow my mind to dwell on it, knowing that it will do no good and only make it worse for me if I give way to forodings. I trust that I will be given grace for whatever comes upon me. If I am never able to write again think of me as looking and longing for that blessed hope even the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Yours in love. MOLLIE W. BABCOCK.
