California Letter.

The following letter is from Elias Strong who left the twenty-seventh of Nov. enroute to California by way of Chicago, Atlanta and New Orleans.

LOS ANGELES, CALA., Dec. 10.

Dear Brother and Sister.—I arrived here about 1:30 p.m. not much the worse for the trip. I had no chance to get a sleeper at Atlanta and rode on a chair car all night which was very tiresome, had sick head ache all next day. Arrived at New Orleans after dark and can tell you but little about Louisiana and north of New Orleans. What I saw of Mississippi seemed from car windows to be very poor; the products were corn in small fields and cotton in large quantities. Cotton bales was the most common sight at the stations. The teaming is done largely with oxen, some driven as we used to drive, others by rope lines fastened to their heads as halters. Occasionally would see one ox to a small wagon with rope attachments and nondescript drivers and various traps for the load. I spent one day and two nights in New Orleans; saw the Henry Clay statue where the mob was organized to kill the Italians in the jail, which made such a sensation a few years since. Went to the French Market where the main city market is kept. There was abundance of meat, of all kinds, even venison, new potatoes, onions, tomatoes, fruits and almost every thing needed to make variety, but the surroundings were filthy as is the old or French part of the city. The sewers are all open, muddy water and soap suds running along by the curb and every little way a pile of mud which has been fished out of the sewer, to give the dirty water the right of way. The streets are paved with flag stones as are the side walks also and are very rough. The trolley and horse-car make rapid transit convenient and comfortable; of course went on the levy which presented an animated and interesting scene. There were steamers large and small from all countries agitating the bosom of the father of waters; cotton bales, barrels of sugar, and molasses, loading and unloading darkies by the regiment steering barrels down an incline to the boat, others rolling barrels of sugar, to and from the scales, men testing and sampling the sugar. Teams of mules going and coming was an object lesson illustrating the importance of commerce. Far different was the impression left on the mind, by a visit, to the cemeteries which have attained a wide notoriety on account of their peculiar and rich architectural features. They are built above ground in solid masonry, some of stone, the older ones of brick, some are polished granite costing thousands, some belonging to different clubs or associations containing places for 25 or 30 coffins. A statue given up to the cattle industry is fit for nothing else and am not satisfied to say, it is fit for that. From San Antonio, Texas to India California a distance of 1300 miles, is a dreary waste of sand and gravel broken for a short interval at Devil's river region with a little romantic scenery but the native Texan says, the range in his state is good. I saw no fat cattle and doubt if they know what fat cattle look like. The weather has been quite warm since arriving in New Orleans. They had snow at Atlanta the night I left there. Los Angeles has improved since I was here before. The streets seem to be thronged and building is going on rapidly.

OBITUARY.

MILLER—Died, at his home near Rensselaer, Sunday, December 15, 1895, after a long protracted illness, Wesley A. Miller at the age of 45 years, 1 month and 2 days.

Wesley A. Miller was born in Addison county, Canada, Oct. 13, 1850. He was the only son, and next to the youngest child, in a family of six children. One of the sisters lives in Canada; the others in California. When Wesley was about seventeen years of age, the family moved from Canada to Illinois. The father died at the home of his son, about five years ago, at Rose Lawn, Indiana. The aged mother lives with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Job Wood, at Silmar, California.

Wesley A. Miller and Miss Sarah E. Wadley, of Kankakee, Illinois, were married December 27, 1871. Ten children were given them, namely: Blanche, Eva-line, Allen, Nellie, Callie, Wesley, Josie, Fred, Hugh and Paul. The husband and father, was first of the family to be taken. The deceased was reared in a farm-house. A devout mother gave him religious instruction from his infancy. While yet a youth he gave his heart to God, and was happily converted. Last August he became a member of this (Trinity Methodist Episcopal) church by certificate from the church at Rose Lawn. The last few years he had become somewhat negligent of his religious duties and privileges, and, on several occasions, during the last few months, he expressed to me the profound sorrow he felt on that account.

Recently, at two different times, he assured me that he was greatly comforted by the Gospel promises to which his attention had been called. His last words to me were, "I'll cling to Christ. He passed away, as I doubt not, fully prepared for the better life.

R. D. U.

BURK—Died, December 10, 1895, at her home in Balbec, Indiana, Mary Imogene, daughter of Eliot R. and Sarah Jane Burr, aged 27 years, 5 months and 8 days.

Miss Burr was born in Missouri, July 1868. She was married to Dr. W. W. Swarts, March 6, 1890, and to them was born two children, Thadeus A. Samantha J. the daughter having preceded her to the spirit world. She leaves a husband, one son, a broken-hearted father, stepmother and several brothers and sisters with a host of friends to mourn their irreparable loss. She was happily converted and united with the Methodist Protestant Church when quite young. A few years ago she, with her husband, united with the United Brethren Church in Christ, and so faithfully honored her blessed Master that the church was only the better for her being in it. In early life she accepted Christ. Her sickness commenced a year ago, and at times she suffered greatly, but she bore it with great patience. She was a devoted wife and loving mother, and had gathered about her many friends. It seems hard to give her up while in the prime of life and height of her usefulness, and while her family so much needed her care. We know that she hath made her peace, calling and election sure, and while she hath preceded us, we still trust in Him who doeth all things well.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. O. Jaris, at Gilead Church, Balbec, Indiana. Interment at Gilead cemetery.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and 1.00 per bottle at Frank B. Meyer's Drug Store.

Piles of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. When promptly applied it cures scalds and burns without the slightest pain. Long, Druggist.

Mrs. Alfred Hoover will spend the holidays with her parents in Boone county, while her good husband remains at home to wrestle the pots and kettles.

Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, indigestion, constipation. A small pill, a prompt cure. Long, Druggist.

The window dresser at Ellis & Murray's, Chase, has done himself credit for the very pleasing appearance of the front window.

Fred Phillips has received his line of samples and is now ready to take orders for suits, overcoats, pants, and shirts, made to measurement. His line embraces all the latest styles and fashions. prices no higher than for ready-made goods. Office with Val Seib, opposite the "old court house."

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief. Long Druggist.

Rev. M. R. Paradis resumed his French class last week. They meet Mondays and Fridays with the view of acquiring the language to be able to visit the Paris Exposition in 1900.

From the German Christmas come "Santa Claus" and "Kris Kringle." The latter is a corruption of Christkindlein, or Christ child, of whom they have the beautiful fable that with his own hands he places Christmas toys in the stockings of good children, while in the stockings of the bad ones a birch rod is placed by one "Pelsnichol," literally "Nicholas with the fur"—that is, St. Nicholas dressed in fur. The dread of getting the rod from old Pelsnichol on Christmas keeps many a German child in order the whole year round.

Christmas Stockings.

A street urchin stood peering into the window of a toyshop one evening just before Christmas watching a prosperous father buying presents. Bigger and bigger the boy's eyes grew as the purchasing went on. Finally, when it was all over and the man left the store, the lad sidled up to him and with great diffidence asked:

"Wuz all them things you bought for one boy, mister?"

"Why, yes, certainly," said the man impatiently as he turned away with the bundles under his arms.

The street boy's eyes grew bigger yet. "Gee whiz!" he whispered under his breath. "Rich men's boys must wear awful big stockings!"

RETIRING THE GREENBACKS.

President Cleveland, as was expected, recommends the retirement of the government notes which, he says, are used to draw gold out of the treasury. We have before this alluded to the brilliant policy of maintaining a gold standard by simply making it a barren ideality. Nothing can more clearly show the absolute dishonesty or stupidity of forcing a gold standard and gold redemption than this attempt to do away with the legitimate demand upon gold.

The government is finding it impossible, of course, to redeem from 300,000 to 400,000,000 of paper with 100,000,000 of gold. In all the banking of the world that was based upon gold, this impossibility has existed. There is not enough gold to redeem our paper, and for the government or a bank to issue millions of paper promises to pay gold, when it knows that it has not and will never have enough gold for their redemption, is a clear-cut confidence game, worse than has been played by many men who are now in the penitentiary for their crimes. A gold basis for a circulating medium is a fraud and a lie, and the President's message proves it.

The window dresser at Ellis & Murray's, Chase, has done himself credit for the very pleasing appearance of the front window.

Fred Phillips has received his line of samples and is now ready to take orders for suits, overcoats, pants, and shirts, made to measurement. His line embraces all the latest styles and fashions. prices no higher than for ready-made goods. Office with Val Seib, opposite the "old court house."

One Minute Cough Cure is a popular remedy for croup. Safe for children and adults. A. F. Long, Druggist.

What folly it is to pray, "Give us our daily bread," if we have devoured widows' houses, and go to church with the cash in our pocket.
