

Will the Republican's legal department please cite the law for the assertion in this week's issue that the commissioners cannot assess but one per cent on assessment of 1895 for the purpose of building a court house? If any such law is in existence it seems mighty hard to find. We are of the impression that this county can assess $175,000 for this purpose and there is no recourse whatever.

The cold snap of yesterday morning brought along its usual fire alarm accompaniment. This time it was a fire burning out in the house of Simon Phillips. It was quite accidental that Mrs. Phillips went into the upper rooms just in time to prevent the destruction of the house, as the flames had forced out two fire caps and were pouring into the rooms. In another minute the ceiling would have been ablaze, and as it was the paper near the fire holes caught fire, Mrs. Phillips burned her hands in pushing the hot caps back in place, but undoubtedly saved the house.

Headley Brown Dead.

Hon. George H. Brown, Sr., died at his home in Rensselaer at 7 a. m., Tuesday of this week, at the advanced age of nearly eighty years, of inflammation of the stomach combined with calcification of the arteries and heart trouble. He was taken sick Saturday and the attack being very severe the local physicians called Dr. H. N. Moyer of Rush Medical College, Chicago, to assist them, and he was in attendance when the end came. Though for twenty-four hours before he died it was known that he could live but a short time, the end came much more abruptly than was anticipated, his vital powers collapsing so suddenly that he was gone before the watchers could call the household.

Mr. Brown was a man of exceptional standing in the community, and it is said he had not an enemy in the world. He was successful in the acquirement of property being one of the wealthiest men in Jasper county. He served two terms in the state legislature; was treasurer of the Indiana State Grange at one time, and served in other public capacities. He came to Jasper county 1840. The funeral will probably be held next Saturday as it is expected one of his daughter's, Mrs. Carsener, will have arrived from California by that time.

A DAY OF INCIDENTS.

LIVELY SESSION OF UNITED STATES SENATE.

Grave and Dignified Statesmen Indulge in Personal Controversies—Agricultural Bill Passed by the House—Pacific Railroad Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The session of the senate Tuesday furnished a succession of breezy incidents. Little actual work was accomplished, but brief debates on a number of subjects developed frequent sharp personal exchanges between the senators. Mr. Hill of New York had a lively tilt with Mr. Tillman of South Carolina during the debate on Mr. Peffer's resolution for a senate investigation of the recent bond issue. Mr. Allen of Nebraska took issue with Mr. Gear of Iowa and Mr. Wolcott over the course of the Pacific railway committee in conducting their inquiry. Mr. Chandler and Mr. Cockrell had an animated but good-natured colloquy and Gen. Hawley and Mr. Allen had a difference somewhat less good-natured.

Two appropriation bills, the military academy and the pension bill, were passed during the day. Efforts were made to amend the military academy bill by increasing the number of cadets by two from each state, ninety in all, but after a debate of three hours the plan was defeated. The pension appropriation bill, carrying $142,000,000, was passed after ten minutes' debate.

When the senate met at noon Mr. Allen (Neb.) asked the finance committee what steps were to be taken toward a conference with the house on the silver-bond bill. It was explained that the house had not asked for a conference on its non-concurrence, and no further action was taken.

Mr. Peffer sought to secure action on his resolution for the creation of a special committee of five senators to inquire into the circumstances of recent bond issues.

Mr. Sherman moved to refer the resolution to the finance committee.

Mr. Peffer declared that public indignation alone prevented the last bond issue from going to the syndicate which made such enormous profits at the previous bond sale. Mr. Peffer referred to the vague suggestions of scandal as to this last sale, including the late submission of one of the largest bids.

Mr. Stewart advocated an inquiry and strongly criticised the recent bond issues.

Mr. Lodge briefly stated that in view of the charges of irregularity, involving the credit of the nation, he believed that an investigation should be made.

Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) was opposed to any investigation at this time by the finance committee, or any other committee. The senate had heretofore dignified such rumors by serious investigation. It was a pandering to idle curiosity. The senator (Peffer) who proposes this inquiry did not make personal charges against the president or the secretary of the treasury. "But I make the charge," exclaimed Mr. Stewart, rising and moving down the middle aisle. Mr. Hill waved Mr. Stewart back and declined to entertain the interruption. He proceeded to argue against the senate inquiries into rumors when he was interrupted by Mr. Tillman (dem., S. C.). A lively exchange of personalities ensued, stopped only by the chairman's gavel.

The Peffer resolution was finally sent to the calendar.

The military academy bill was then taken up. The debate proceeded on the amendment of Mr. Vilas (dem., Wis.) for an increase of military cadet appointments by two from each state. The discussion took a wide range, many senators participating, and the committee included comparisons of West Pointers and officers appointed from civil life; also the relative rights of officers and enlisted men. There were frequent evidence of personal feeling.

After a debate of three hours Mr. Vilas' amendment and all propositions connected with it were defeated—24 to 27.

The pension bill was then taken up. Mr. Gorman took occasion to state that the vast amount of the pension bill was one of the several sums which hung over the treasury like a pall, swelling the expenditures of the government beyond the revenues. The bill was then passed.

Mr. Call (dem., Fla.) offered a resolution which went over providing that lapsed bids under the recent bond issue be assigned to the lowest among the other bidders.

HOUSE DOES SOME WORK.

Agricultural Appropriation Bill Debated and Passed.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The house Tuesday passed the agricultural appropriation bill. It carries $3,153,192. The section of the revised statutes for the purchase and distribution of "rare and uncommon" seed, which Secretary Morton declined to execute in the current appropriation law, was repealed, the appropriation for seed was increased from $130,000 to $150,000 and its execution was made mandatory upon the secretary.

Mr. Cousins of Iowa introduced his amendment to reduce Mr. Morton's salary until he expended the appropriation in the current law, but the amendment was ruled out on a point of order. Several amendments to the meat inspection act of 1891 recommended by Secretary Morton, which would have given him additional power to enforce regulations and have strengthened the law by the imposition of penalties for violations, were stricken out.

A resolution was adopted directing the committee on ways and means to investigate the effect of the difference of exchange between gold and silver standard countries upon the manufacturing industries of the United States.

The house then went into the committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the agricultural bill. The amendments to the act of 1891 for the inspection of live cattle, hogs, carcasses, and products thereof which had been incorporated in the bill, were stricken out on the motion of Mr. Baker (rep., N. H.). The amendments refused clearance to vessels exporting meats not found sound upon inspection, and provided for the certification and stamping of cattle, sheep, and swine found free of disease, and made counterfeiting of such certificate or stamps punishable by a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year.

The secretary of agriculture was authorized by one amendment stricken out to make regulations to prevent the transportation of condemned carcasses or meats from one state to another, or to foreign countries. An amendment to print 80,000 copies of the report of 1892 on diseases of cattle was ruled out. The bill as amended was passed.

Mr. Lacey then called up the bill to extend for five years the time for bringing suits to vacate and annul patents to public lands under the railroad grants. The bill extends the time five years. Without action on the bill the house at 5 o'clock adjourned.

DROPS UGLY HINTS.

Senator Morgan Asks Unpleasant Questions of Huntington.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The hearing on the refunding of the Pacific railroad's debt by the senate committee on Pacific railroads continued Tuesday. Senator Morgan resumed his inquiries concerning the destruction of the papers of the finance and contract company. He intimated that he believed the papers were burned for the purpose of destroying the proof of the individual liability of the stockholders, but Mr. Huntington insisted that they had been destroyed for the purpose of cleaning out a room and because the business for which the company had been organized was closed.

Questioning developed that the Central Pacific organizers had built three other roads in California connected with the Central Pacific, and had bought twelve which had failed. Mr. Huntington said that the roads built had cost about $40,000 per mile and the construction companies had been paid with bonds at this rate which were issued by the Central Pacific company.

Taking up the question of the government indebtedness, Senator Morgan asked Mr. Huntington if he considered the interest which had been paid by the government on the guaranty bonds a part of the Central Pacific indebtedness to the government. Mr. Huntington replied that he did and that his proposition was to calculate the entire amount up to the maturity of the bonds, including interest as well as principal, and count it all as interest. He did not, however, understand that he was to be expected to pay interest on interest. He did not think the company could pay more than 2 per cent interest on this extension.

Replying to an assertion made at a mass meeting in San Francisco that he, Stanford, Perkins and Crocker had accumulated a combined fortune of $200,000,000, he said it was "a lie," as was the statement that they had received from city, county, state and nation property of four times the amount of the cost of building the roads. The hearing will be resumed again next Thursday.

WOULD EXCLUDE ILLITERATES.

Committee on Immigration Reports an Important Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee on immigration, on Tuesday reported a bill from that committee for the restriction of immigration. The bill provides for the exclusion of all persons who are so ignorant as to be unable to read and write any language. The committee says that there can be no doubt that there is a general and earnest desire among the people of the United States to restrict immigration. "It is obvious that immigration in its present unrestricted form," the report continues, "threatens to injure the quality of our citizenship and lower the rates of American wages."

What the Government Costs.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania on Tuesday reported to the house from the appropriations committee the bill making provisions for the expenses of the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the government for the fiscal year 1897. The amount carried by the bill is $21,444,195. The bill of last year carried $22,069,778. The estimates submitted by the treasury department were $22,365,051.

Minority Report on Dupont.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator Turpie, from the committee on privileges and elections, presented the report of the minority of that committee on the petition of Henry A. Dupont to be given a seat in the senate by virtue of the vote cast for him by the Delaware legislature on May 9, 1895. The report takes the position that Mr. Dupont was not elected by that vote.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Illinois is seriously ill at her apartments here. Col. Morrison left this city for the west three or four days ago. DEADLY WORK OF GAS

FIFTY-FIVE MINERS LOSE THEIR LIVES.

Explosion in the Vulcan Slope at Newcastle, Colo.—Work of Rescue Being Pushed, but Little Hope Held Out to the Friends of the Victims.

Newcastle, Colo., Feb. 19.—An explosion in the Vulcan coal mine, two miles from this place, at 11:20 o'clock Tuesday morning resulted, it is believed, in the death of fifty-five miners and in damage to the mine that is estimated to amount to thousands of dollars. It is thought that the disaster may have been caused by the breaking into an immense pocket of gas generated by subterranean fires.

Following are all the names of miners known to be at work that could be obtained at a late hour last night: William Hagerty, John Scalfie, Joseph Dorr, Alex Scalfie, Will Dorr, Philip Rache, James Harrison, Peter Becker, Thos. Lawigan, Fred Stigmual, George Ward, Antonio Patricio, E. Welch, driver, John Coughlin, late of Rockvale; John Funke and 13-year-old son, Emil, William Webb, Charles Merchant, Samuel Jones, Thomas Addison, Ben. Cottle, Jr., Louis Gnotti, Alexander Remo, F. Rodanski, home Frank Simonie, in Illinois, leaves Robert Setiger, wife and nine children—John Jenkins, dren; Domenic Rosetti, Peter Patricio, Peter Tappero, Daniel Morris, Antonio Tappero, Gabriel Leece, Andrew Rollando, Frank Tossio, Peter Magento, Baptiste Chowchett, Antonio Martino, Domenic Matteno, David J. Evans. August Matteve.

The usual calm that pervades this village was at 11:20 o'clock broken by a report as from a hundred cannon fired in concert. The earth trembled from the concussion. Thus was announced the frightful disaster that has thrown this town into mourning.

People rushed out of their homes and places of business to see what had happened, and one look toward the Vulcan mine was sufficient, for a dense cloud of smoke issuing from the mouth of the slope met the eyes of the gazers and told the tale of death.

A throng of people was soon at the scene of disaster. A glance was enough to dissipate any hope for the lives of the entombed men. The force of the explosion had caused a cave-in and the tunnel and the air courses were filled with the fallen rock, earth, and timbers. Both fanhouses were wrecked and the slope and vicinity were so full of debris and gas was so bad that it was dangerous work to begin the rescue. Nevertheless five men went down as far as possible to ascertain the condition of the slope and found the gas was so bad that they were compelled to retreat.

The construction of a temporary fan-house was commenced at once, and the work of pumping fresh air into the mine begun.

The only man who got out of the mine at the time of the explosion was Edward Welch, who was near the mouth of the tunnel, and was blown out. His skull was fractured, arm was broken, his face badly cut and burned, and all the hair was burned from his head. He was breathing when found, but expired shortly after without showing consciousness.

As soon as the news of the explosion reached Newcastle Superintendent Blount closed the mines of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and, taking all his miners, left here for the Vulcan mines, to attempt a rescue. There are two shafts in addition to the one in which the explosion took place. In the upper of these two the rescuers penetrated about 300 feet and it is through this that air can be forced into some of the rooms. But none of those who were working in the mine have come out, and it is thought that this is conclusive evidence that all are dead.

GLASS WORKERS ALLIED.

Will Gather a Strike Fund of $2,000,000, It Is Said.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 19.—A defensive alliance was formed here Tuesday by the flint, bottle, and window glass workers' unions, which is expected to have a decided influence on their future existence. The plans provide for the accumulation of an immense defense fund, to be raised by a per capita tax, said fund to be used in a contest with the manufacturers should there be occasion. Each union is to retain its present autonomy, but the mutual defense fund may be drawn upon by either when in need. It is not announced what the fund will be, but it is understood from a reliable source that it will not be less than $2,000,000. The per capita, it is said, will be $1 per month, and as there are in the United States and Canada about 75,000 workers affected by these unions, it will be a comparatively short time until the limit is reached.

Franz Schwab's Triple Crime.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Crazed with jealousy because his wife and sons had left him, Franz Michael Schwab, a German laborer, 56 years old, last night visited the home of his married son, Bernard, and after gaining admittance by trickery, fired four shots from a 44-caliber pistol. Two of the bullets lodged in the body of his wife, Katrina, 53 years old, killing her almost instantly. The third ball struck his grandchild, 9 weeks old, over the heart, and the fourth struck his son Bernard in the right eye. The police believe Schwab is insane.

SUSPICIOUS ROBBERY.

SAN FRANCISCO BANK THE SUFFERER.

Officials Tell a Strange Story of a Daylight Holdup—Police Discredit Their Statement and Can Find No Evidence of the Attempt.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 19.—The boldest and cleverest robbery known here for some time occurred Tuesday when three masked men entered the Market Street bank and held up the cashier and bookkeeper at the point of pistols, shut them up in the big vault, raked all the coin in sight, and then vanished without leaving a trace behind.

The Market Street bank is a small concern, recently opened in the Spreckels' building, on Market street, right in the busiest section of the city. Cashier Hopkins and Bookkeeper Hayshorst were the only ones in the bank at 9:45, when three masked men entered. Pointing their pistols at the heads of the bank employees, the robbers ordered them to throw up their hands. Hayshorst obeyed, but Hopkins endeavored to get a pistol from a drawer. A shot from one of the robbers stopped him, and he threw up his hands. The bullet did not hit the cashier, but the shot was fired at such close range that his face was burned by the powder. The robbers then went behind the counter and hustled their prisoners into the vault. They shut, but could not lock the doors, and then raked the coin from the money trays into a sack.

No one saw them go in or come out of the bank, and although an officer arrived in less than a minute after the robbery had been committed, not a trace of the thieves could be found. The bank people will not say how much money was taken, but the amount does not exceed $700. The police express doubt that any robbery was committed.

Canadians Want a New Canal.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 19.—Projectors of the Ottawa and Georgian bay ship canal interviewed Sir Mackenzie Bowell with a view to obtaining Dominion government aid. They pointed out that to deepen the waterways of the Ottawa and French rivers and Lake Nipissing to a depth of fourteen feet would necessitate the construction of but sixteen miles of actual canal work. It was pointed out that the new route would shorten the distance between Montreal and Lake Superior by 365 miles, as compared with the St. Lawrence and Welland canal route. As compared with the route to New York via Buffalo and the Erie canal, a decrease of 435 miles would be effected.

Wisconsin Apportionment Row.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—The republican leaders who set about the work of a speedy enactment of a new apportionment law for Wisconsin are finding the road to harmony hard to find. The trouble began with the consideration of the various schemes of apportionment. The original proposition was that the bill would be agreed upon in committee as to assembly districts with regard to senate districts by to-night, and reported back so as to be passed on Thursday. Now numerous well-posted and prominent republicans admit a fear that no bill can be framed to satisfy the majority which will also satisfy the courts when put to that crucial test.

Chairman Carter's Decision.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator Carter of Montana, chairman of the republican national committee, has rendered a decision that will be of interest in congressional districts in the selection of delegates to the St. Louis convention. The decision is as follows: "Any departure in selecting delegates to the national convention from the usual proceeding followed in any district heretofore in nominating a candidate for congress would violate the rule prescribed in the call for the St. Louis convention."
