ANSON STEWART.

Mrs. Emma Mont. McRae, Professor of English Literature in Purdue University, will lecture in the opera house March 13th, Friday night, for the benefit of the school library. Subject, "The Land of Evangeline." Mrs. McRae has traveled extensively in Arcadia and her theme will be thoroughly well treated and interesting.

Miss Lizzie Southard, aged about twelve years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Southard of Milroy township, died at her father's home Tuesday, March 3, of scarletina and inflammatory rheumatism. The funeral will take place from the house to day at ten a. m.; the remains will be taken to Gilboa Mound for interment.

The final entertainment of the Rensselaer Lecture Club was given Monday night, consisting of a very excellent program rendered by the impersonator, J. Arthur Loining. The promoters of the series, George E. Marshall, J. J. Hunt, B. F. Fendig and J. F. Warren, are said to have realized a nice little surplus after paying all expenses, though insufficient for an extra entertainment as was at first proposed.

Simon Fendig fled from his drug store in Wheatfield to see that his friends had fair play at Monday's round up.

Editor Knotts champion of the north end attended the excitement Monday in the interest of Mr. Scott.

There are some awfully raw spots as the result of Monday's Republican nominations.

There are people so ungenerous as to say the Republican convention last Monday was a local Louisiana lottery.

Death of Little Neil.

One of the saddest events it has ever been the function of the Pilot to record is that of Little Neil, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Goff, who was taken sick while with his mother at Chicago, and died of typhoid fever at the home of his uncle, F. M. Sigler, 3525 Grand boulevard, at 7:54 p. m., Saturday, Feb. 29, 1896, aged about eleven years.

The remains were taken to Crown Point Monday, and the funeral occurred at 9:30 of that day.

The Pinkamink Overflow.

To the Editor of the People's Pilot. I desire, through your paper, to call the attention of our esteemed co-operator in the development of Jasper county, Benjamin F. Gifford, whose great work of reclaiming the wet lands of this locality is fully appreciated, to certain conditions that have resulted from the changing of the channel of the Pinkamink, and which greatly damage lands situated in Marion, Barkley and Union townships, in the valley of the Iroquois river. The lands have not only been inundated where they were previously free from water, but travel has been almost made impossible at the crossing at Burk's bridge. The grades at this bridge have been quite impassable and dangerous most of this winter from overflow of water and ice.

Landes along the Iroquois have now become worthless, though they were good hay and pasture tracts before said drainage was done. The county has

A HANDSOME COMPLIMENT.

Mrs. McRae's Lecture at Monticello Won the Cordial Approval of Competent Critics. Mrs. Emma Mont McRae lectured at Monticello at the May festival given on Monday, and the Herald of that city says: "If all the faculty of Purdue University measure up to the same standard intellectually as Mrs. Emma Mont McRae that institution is well equipped. Our people had a demonstration of her fitness for the chair which she holds at Purdue in her lecture Monday night in the opening of the May School course. Her subject was 'The New Democracy in Literature,' and while it was more didactic in style than if designed purely for popular entertainment, it was a delight to all who followed her from beginning to close. Her purpose was to show the growth of the humane idea in literature or how the brotherhood of man, almost unknown as the theme of song or story in early ages, had developed in books from 'The Gentle Shepherd' of Allen Ramsay until it now pervades modern literature. Mrs. McRae speaks without a leaf of manuscript or any notes whatever and with a charming and easy delivery which carries her hearers with her whether the fields are new or old into which she leads them. She is evidently a lady of wide reading, and her lecture showed a power of generalization which is said to be a rare element of the feminine mind. It was an effort of very high order and reflected credit not only upon her but the institution which she represents. She expressed herself privately as much pleased with her audience, saying she had never had better attention or more intelligent appreciation."

See notice of her engagement here in another place.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and 100 per bottle at Frank B. Meyer's Drug Store.

New Upholstering Shop.
