Last week the noted Jim Warner and his cousin Frank came to the city bent on a high time. Word was telephoned Sharp that they were on the road to his gallery, and to look out for trouble, as they "felt their oats." The danger alarm was turned on and the Mayor detailed part of the police of the first ward to hang around near the bridge in case of trouble. Frank, the older of the two, a strapping big fellow, came in with his fists doubled up in a manner that showed that he would run things about to suit himself. Jim was more quiet, but his actions showed he was ready to back his cousin should there be a scrap. Their manner seemed to change and they became interested when they were shown up-to-date photographs at such remarkably low prices. They left their orders for six dozen cabinets, took a pull at their bottles, smiled and quietly left.

Advertising Fraud.

The Pilot desires to warn its contemporaries against accepting advertising from one W. J. Bailey, 1049 N. Clark street, Chicago. He placed a contract for the Peffer Medicine Company, of which he is probably the proprietor, and after the completion of a yearly contract he pleads a technical irregularity as an excuse for non-payment though at no time during the year did he or the medicine company suggest that the work was not strictly according to contract.

Obituary.

William E. Adams.

The subject of this sketch was born in Miami county, this state, April 1, 1851, being at the time of his death 45 years and 24 days old. At the age of six years he removed to Jasper county with his parents, Isaac and Anna Adams, now deceased. He was the sixth of eight children, of whom two brothers and three sisters survive him. He was married to Anna Abbott, only daughter of John and Louiza Abbott of Johnson county in 1876 and has since resided there. He leaves a wife and seven children in comfortable circumstances, have a good farm and house three miles south of Franklin. He united in 1871 with the Baptists, and later became a member of the Young's Creek Christian church, and has lived a consistent Christian life. He was one of the trustees of the church and also of the conference, and was to have been ordained a deacon at the next regular meeting.

Friday morning last the sad news reached his Rensselaer relatives that he had met with an accident and could not recover. His brother Joseph left for his bed side but arrived too late to see him alive. He died Friday evening in great pain.

It appears that in tearing down an old house preparatory to building a new one, the heavy frame fell in an unexpected direction, crushing down before he could escape. The funeral which took place Sunday was attended by fully 2,000 people and was pathetic in the extreme, as he was truly beloved by all his neighbors. His brothers, Joseph and Marion, and sister Mrs. Wm. Hoover, were present at the funeral.

The Coming City Election.

The Populists, not being sufficiently strong in Rensselaer to warrant the naming of a municipal ticket, the voters of that party will wisely exercise their best judgment, regardless of party, and choose from the two tickets now nominated those citizens of whom they have reason to expect the most satisfactory service. It is desirable that the city's finances be most judiciously administered, that without injury to the commonwealth the present high taxation shall be reduced. It is now, beyond cavil, oppressive and detrimental to the future growth and development of the town.

It is true that the one item of taxation prevented negotiations looking toward the location of a manufacturing plant here this year, an institution that would have given employment to from 100 to 200 people. The factory went to Burlington, Wis., where taxes are much less than they are here.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Frank B. Meyer's drug store.
