A. E. & H. A. ALTER.

Only a Word This Month.

I get a detailed official financial statement from the Treasury Department at Washington each month and most of the months show a decrease of money in circulation. All the details for the past year are not now at hand so I will take Bradstreet's October report which shows that the money in circulation has decreased over sixty-nine millions of dollars in the past year. Money is the blood of commerce and this is a young and growing country; but the policy now in vogue is to reduce the circulating medium. Would you bleed a growing boy and expect him to thrive on it? This policy is pursued in deference to the moneyed interests and the reason is easy to see. To diminish the number of dollars that remain; and the man that has the dollars is better off at the expense of the producer, who must give up a progressively increasing amount of his produce for the dollar. This process has been going on for a long time. We need in this country a patriotism that will place the general good of the country above the interests of self or party. Doctors find that the getting of dollars is becoming more and more difficult, and the above is the cause or one of the causes. Have you raised your voice against it?

The heart may beat ever so perfectly, but if it were not for the sympathetic system of the nerves including the vesomotor, reaching every part of the body, the circulation would be imperfect. Our neighbor on the North, Canada, is progressing very nicely with its Postal Savings Bank system. It was begun in 1868 with eighty-one post-office banks; the following year there were 231 postoffice banks, and the number has now grown to 731, carrying 120,628 accounts, averaging $222.22 each. The interest paid is 3½ per cent, and the cost of running averaged last year only $68 per bank! I have mentioned to you several times the many advantages of a Postal Savings Bank system to the masses of the people—and consequently to you. Have you raised your voice in favor of them? The moneyed classes will, as a rule, oppose them; but which do you care most for, the moneyed classes or the masses of the people—the people who, by their labor, create the vast wealth of this great country? Don't you think that it is time that the moneyed classes were taking care of themselves, and that our legislation should be directed toward the greatest good to the people? A man with a bank account of $222 in a United States bank is quite sure to be a good citizen and a desirable patron. Let his kind multiply. Let us so legislate that his kind may multiply.—Dr. C. F. Taylor in The Medical World.

Did you ever think that England has a sort of referendum? When the government fails to command majority of the House of Commons the Prime Minister and Cabinet resign. Parliament is dissolved, and the question or questions at issue are referred to the people in the new elections. As a consequence England is making more progress toward government by the people and justice toward the masses than we are. They already have Government Telegraph Government Savings Banks, etc., and if we had any way to get the expression of the voters on these questions. Why can't we have a way?

We have had many "boodle" Congresses, "boodle" Legislatures and "boodle" City Councils that should have been dissolved. But no; we elect a man for a certain term, and all the legal powers in the country can't get him out until his term expires.

Here is where the Imperative Mandate comes in. It gives the people the power to recall any public officer at any time in the following way: Any constituent may, at any time, draw up a document demanding the removal of said officer. When this document is signed by a majority of the voters in the territory which elected such officer his office shall be declared vacant. It can be filled again by appointment or by a new election. Shall we have it?—Dr. C. F. Taylor in The Medical World.

For Governor of Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—Lieut. Gov. Baenich has formally announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor. He is a representative German-American, and will doubtless prove a strong candidate in the field. He was elected Lieutenant governor in 1894, receiving the highest plurality of any one on the republican state ticket.

Rensselaer 4th July Celebration

A blue sky, soft breezes and strains of music floating through the air, helped to render the 4th of July celebration, which was held in the shady grove south of Mt. Calvary cemetery, an ideal one. The work of the several committees on arrangements had been done in a very thorough and praiseworthy manner; the opportunities for enjoyment were many and various and freely indulged in by the joyous throng. Rev. Bonaventure, in his splendid salutatory, described the grand chord of peace and harmony which swells the breasts of the American people on this glorious day and hushes the voice of religious, political and private dissensions.

The audience then sang "My country, 'tis of thee" in chorus, and the band boys gave a spirited rendition of patriotic and other choice selections.

Mr. Frank Maloy's address was an excellent composition, treating eloquently on the significance of the 4th of July celebration; on our dearly bought but priceless boon of liberty, and our consequent duty to preserve and transmit it to posterity.

Those who perhaps regretted the absence of Rev. M. Walz, who was to have been the orator of the day, but who was called to New York for urgent reasons, thus, at least the local papers stated, were most agreeably surprised, for Rev. B. Boedner more than amply met the emergency and delighted every one by his patriotic utterances, notice a bly coming from an intensely patriotic heart. The world-wide significance of the event, with which no other country's day of jubilee can compare, and the noble and divine virtue of patriotism were themes eloquently dwelt upon by the Rev. orator. His happy allusion to the patriotism of Christ and St. Paul showed that the patriotism of a Christian should ever excel that of the Greeks and Romans.

In the contest between Mrs. A. Leurs and Mrs. K. Owens, Mrs. Leurs received the greatest number of votes and was awarded the prize. The dancing bear and elephant was a unique feature of the program contributing no little to swell the mirth of the crowd.

Miss Rose Beck read a bright little paper, "The Review," edited by herself and other members of the Stanislas literary society. Besides being replete with wit and humor, the paper contained some well written essays on topics relating more or less to the glorious fourth.

The fondness of the people of Rensselaer for the merry-go-round was again manifested at this picnic.

Between the different parts of the program the band boys kept up the enthusiasm by playing a favorite composition or singing some national song with their usual ardor which was well seconded by the people. Various races and other pastimes were also not wanting.

Despite the fact that there were no fire works at night, every one who attended the celebration went home with the satisfaction of having spent the hundred and twentieth anniversary of the declaration of independence in a most enjoyable manner. Following were the committees:

Ice cream stand—Rose Beck, Tom Calahan, P. Hoerdeman, Maggie Warden, Wm. Beck, Cinda Mecklenberg, Anna Moosmiller.

Lemonade stand—Conrad Kellner, Wm. Walters, James E. Walters, Annie Meyer, Rose Thompson, Mary Ramp, Emma Leur.

Popcorn stand—George Borntraeger, Mary Meyer, Barney Mainbrook, Mary Beck, May Callahan, Stella Owens.

Uncle Wesley Gone.

J. W. Duvall, one of the old settlers of this county, died at his residence in Rensselaer at 5:22 a. m. Tuesday morning, July 7th. The funeral will be held today at 2:30 p. m., and the funeral rites of the Masonic fraternity will be observed, assistance being rendered by Prairie Lodge, A. F. & A. M., by Iroquois Lodge, I. O. O. F., both organizations of which he was a member.

Mr. Duvall has been very sick for some time and his death was momentarily expected. He was born in Dark, Ohio, January 9, 1827, being 69 years, 6 months and 10 days old.

He has resided in Jasper county since 1842, and was a pioneer liveryman. His first wife was Rebecca Ann Anderson, whom he married in 1850. She died in 1867 after bearing him six children. In 1868 he married Elizabeth Kenton, who is still living. The fruits of his second marriage are two children.

Dr. Utter of the M. E. church will preach the funeral sermon.

Joe Reynolds returned Thursday from Rensselaer where he had been for a week and will play ball with the boys at Earl Park to-day.—Chalmers Ledger.

A. C. Cole of Mason, Mich., general agent for the Champion company, who has spent about ten days in Rensselaer closing up the season for the Dakotas, where the season is just opening. Mr. Cole has had dealings with a great many farmers this year, and though he does not talk politics, he remarked to the reporter for the Pilot, that not less than nine-tenths of them were pronounced silver men. He further said that he had not sold a machine this year, a most unprecedented fact.

Appreciates The Pilot.

EDITOR PEOPLES PILOT:—I have taken the Pilot from its first issue to the present time and must say it is the most progressive local paper I ever read, and I want to congratulate the grand men who had the courage and patriotism to start and develop a paper in behalf of the common people and American Independence, in the county of Jasper.
