

FIRE SALE!

$8000 Stock of Merchandise

PORTER & YEOMAN, Rensselaer, Ind.

Tuesday morning, Jan. 26th, the large store building occupied by Porter & Yeoman was destroyed by fire, and their immense stock of unsurpassed merchandise was partially saved by being hurriedly carried into the street. These goods are but slightly damaged, none injured by fire, water or smoke, though somewhat mussed. Some are slightly soiled by the snow, boxes and wrappers broken, etc. No better stock of goods is to be found anywhere. The week has been spent in bringing order out of chaos and in settling with the insurance companies. They have been allowed a fair consideration for their loss and propose to give the people double the benefit granted them. The stock must be sold. Present quarters are but temporary. Fifty cents will buy as much of actual value in many lines now as $1.00 did before the fire. This entire $8,000 stock must be sold before the first of April at a great sacrifice. It is complete in every detail.

Rev. M. R. Paradis and family left this morning for their new home in Minnesota. Their things preceded them. The following is a clipping from The Interior: The Rev. M. R. Paradis, after a two years' pastorate here, is preparing to leave this town to go to Hastings, Minnesota. Some months ago a call was extended the Rev. M. Paradis by the church at Hastings, and he was strongly urged to accept it by his friends in the Northwest, but the congregation here, to whom the whole matter was submitted, voted that the call be declined. However, the people at Hastings left the call open and have frequently urged the matter since then and at last, on account of the ill-health of Mrs. Paradis and upon the advice of her physician, it was decided that the call should be accepted. The pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Paradis has been a successful one in every particular. Aside from the large number of accessions to the membership of the church, between fifty and sixty in number, the most notable event was the building of a fine brick church, costing $10,000, which is almost free from debt. The Rev. Mr. Paradis and his estimable wife enjoy to an unusual extent the love and esteem of the congregation, and their departure is extremely regretted. The farewell sermon was preached on January 31.

Remington.

Remington was visited with another excellent snow storm Monday night, the "beautiful" having fallen to a depth of about four inches. It did not avail much however as the weather turned warm, the result being that it was pretty generally melted away before it could be utilized for sleighing purposes.

There is a great deal of corn coming into this market at present, and has been for some time past, but the price of corn is not yet satisfactory, even if confidence was restored. The last price so far offered being 17½ cents per bushel, or 7½ cents less than it costs to raise it. Yet our people are compelled to sell at these ruinous prices in order to protect their little remaining credit. We are patiently awaiting that promised prosperity, immediately after the restoration of confidence.

Attorney Yeoman went over to Rensselaer on business with the County Clerk last Monday and on his return home, he had another application placed on the inside of his left cheek, to remove a small portion of the cancer in his face, which had not been removed by the two first applications. The medicine is very strong, and Mr. Yeoman says that words fail to express the pain and punishment caused by the medicine. He says that he thinks the last vestige of the cancer is now removed. We trust this is true.

Remington will be supplied this year with the greatest amount and the finest ice ever put up here. Messrs. Denham & Broudie, J. W. Carron, Hon. Robt. Parker, Geo. D. Meyer and several others, have their ice-houses now stored with ice that ranges in thickness from 9 to 12 inches, and it is as clear as crystal.

Owing to the stringency in the money market, our merchants are doing but little business. People have but little money, and for that reason they buy nothing but the actual necessities of life. This state of affairs makes it dull for the merchants. They are probably running behind, as it costs as much to pay rent, and keep up other expenses in dull times as it does when times are flush.
