

The Republican.

J. W. SIDERS, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, JUNE 12th, 1879.

The Judicial appropriation bill has passed the House, also a joint resolution to adjourn on the 17th of June.

The chances of an early adjournment of Congress have improved very much in the last two or three days.

The army appropriation bill now before the House will be signed by the President if it passes both Houses in its present form.

Advices from Vermont and New Hampshire and some portions of Ohio and Wisconsin show heavy frosts Friday and Saturday nights, and considerable damage to the growing crops.

A question that needs explaining: Why the Democratic party believes that the National Government should walk along the tow path and drive the mules, while the solid South rides in the boat?

The Democrats of the House will probably pass a very large proportion of the appropriations they were called by the President to make in a shape that the Republicans will support, and which the President will sign.

The Indianapolis News says: The German Democrats of Ohio are dissatisfied with the rag baby and don't propose to help Ewing play wet nurse. Their sturdy common sense tells them that to attempt to bring back inflation now, when the country is entering a career of solid, specie basis prosperity is little less than madness and treason. The people of Ohio will echo their decision next fall.

Upon, the Democratic Congressman elected from Texas to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Schleicher, has arrived at Washington, and after taking in the situation, told his brethren that he thought that the Democratic leaders were sadly in need of brains and that he should vote for the appropriations. Upon reflects the opinion of the masses throughout the country without regard to party.

One of the most daring robberies ever perpetrated in Chicago, occurred Saturday. The messenger of the Illinois Central railroad, while on the way to the bank, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with $9,000 in bills for deposit, was met by two strangers in front of A. T. Stewart & Co.'s, who threw cayenne pepper in his eyes, snatched the package of money, and jumping into a buggy, drove off without detention. The robbers have since been caught.

The lying match now in progress at Washington, under the direction of the United States Senate, under the name of the Kellogg Spofford election case, bids fair to be the champion match of the season. Spofford's witnesses can beat anything lying over brought from Louisiana before, and that is saying a great deal. Kellogg's witnesses are not far behind, however. Louisiana can certainly lay claim to the distinction of producing the champion liars of the world.

The Lime City News says the "Brick Pomeroy element sprinkled by a few traitorous Democrats, got control of the Ohio Greenback State Convention and nominated a ticket, but their attempt to dictate to the Nationals will not win, and Gen. Sam Cary and all the true Greenbackers will meet at Toledo on the 24th inst. and nominate the right ticket." The truth is, the Greenbackers of Ohio like the Greenbackers everywhere else, are badly muddled, and don't know what they believe or what they want. They will not poll votes enough in Ohio to carry a township in the State, and the sooner the News gets out of that party, the better it will be for it.

Three terrible tragedies were enacted Saturday. At Youngstown, Ohio, the wife of Henry Williams left him and went to a house of ill fame. He followed her and not being able to persuade her to return to her home shot her dead. At Houston, Texas, a negro barber murdered his wife Rosa, throwing her down and standing on her body deliberately fling two balls through her head while she was begging for her life. At Ottawa, Ill., Ted Connors shot Lawrence White through the head killing him instantly. A brother of White's attempted to wrest the revolver from Connors, when it was accidentally discharged, inflicting a wound from which Connors died in a few minutes.

The brewers convention which assembled at St. Louis a few days ago passed a resolution declaring in effect that beer is not intoxicating and that being a temperance drink its use ought to be encouraged by legislation. The following paragraph which is going the rounds of the papers should be used as evidence that beer is not intoxicating. "The other day John Kline, a Cincinnati saloon keeper, threw a beer glass from which he had been drinking at his daughter and cut a gash in her face. After this he took a notion to kill himself, and, getting a razor from behind his counter, slashed himself in the abdomen, making a wound which was found necessary to take four stitches in order to close up. Previous to this Kline as he watched the blood, began filling his hands with the fluid and drinking it. He was taken to the hospital." Of course beer isn't intoxicating.

The question of whether the government can release United States legal-tender notes in time of peace will soon be decided in the United States Supreme Court. The present test case is founded on a genuine transaction between Mr. J. B. Chittenden and General Butler. The plaintiff in this test case refused to receive certain United States notes which had been redeemed subsequent to Jan. 1, 1879, and released and kept in circulation, under, and, in pursuance of, the act of Congress entitled "An act to forbid the further retirement of United States legal-tender notes." Judge Blatchford, of New York, gave judgment Saturday for the defendant, and dismissed the complaint. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. The decision will be of great interest and importance.

The Kokomo Dispatch acknowledges that the Democratic party of the past was a terribly bad party, but it says that a reformation has come over the old party and it proposes henceforth to progress as the people progress, and adds: "The majority of the people of this country are now opposed to intemperance, opposed to 'free whisky,' opposed to the doctrine of secession; hence the Democratic party, being the party of the majority, has gone 'back on itself,' has reformed as it were, to suit the demands of the times. A new Democracy has, in truth, grown up in the United States since the late rebellion; a union, loyal, temperate, liberal, moral, patriotic Democracy." We are glad to hear the Dispatch confessing the sins of the old party, but the "new Democracy" will have to "bring forth fruits, more meet for repentance than has been shown in the present Congress if they expect the people to believe that they are better than the old party.

The Democratic convention held at Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday of last week, nominated Gen. Thomas Ewing, the well known leader of the soft money wing of the Democracy in Congress, for Governor. Ewing will probably make a good race, though many of the hard money Democrats are bitterly opposed to him, and declare that they will not vote for him. But you "can't most always tell" how a Democrat will vote. But if Ewing is elected, then the soft money men will control the Democratic national convention or divide the party. In either case the Republicans in our opinion would elect the President easily. We make no claim to superior political wisdom but we confidently predict that the success of Ewing in Ohio will insure the success of the Republican candidate for President in 1880; and his defeat will so demoralize the Democracy of the west as to make victory for the Republican party almost certain. The Democrats did a good days work for the Republican party when they nominated Ewing.

A memorandum of the financial operations of the Government showing changes in public debt, annual interest, &c., has been prepared at the Treasury department and we have a copy of this statement received direct from that department which any of our Greenback friends or anybody else can examine by calling at this office. This memorandum shows that the total interest bearing debt has been reduced $583,866,504.96 since August 31, 1865. On the 31st of August 1865 the annual interest on the public debt was $150,977,697.87. On the first day of August 1879, the annual interest will be $83,773,778.50, a saving every year in interest of $67,203,919.37. The reduction of the total debt since August 1865 is $729,249,103.24. The debt has been reduced $61,598,674.85 since March 1, 1877, and the annual saving of interest through the refunding and reamortization operations since March 1, 1877 is $10,374,177. The manner in which the finances of this nation have been managed during the last two years has challenged the admiration and wonder of the civilized world. Strange is it not, that anybody should be clamoring for a change.

The Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal says the Republicans gave the Democrats a genuine surprise Monday. "Ryan, Republican, of Kansas, having the floor, sent up the army bill exactly as the Democrats reported it last week, and moved to suspend the rules and pass it. To prevent it this becoming a Republican bill, Mr. Atkins moved to adjourn. Five Democrats voted with the Republicans to prevent this and force a vote on the bill, but two Republicans, Kiefer, of Ohio, and Sapp, of Iowa, refused to vote with the rest, and defeated this great triumph for their party. Still, this is a public notice of what has been the desire to keep secret, namely, that the Republicans would almost unanimously support the present modified army bill.

The Democrats in Congress are getting like the fable-fox that easily entered a hole in a henry and devoured the fruits of the roost; but when he attempted to retire he was detested too much for exit and the enraged farmer quickly dispatched him. The Democrats have entered the hole in Congress; they have gorged themselves with power and are too swollen with their banquet to even back out. Meanwhile the President is spitting on his hands preparatory to hitting them with another veto if they will not play possum with the strokes already given.—Chicago News.

Garibaldi has expressed conviction of dying soon.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, June 6, 1879.

The House Democracy commenced work yesterday where it commenced work two months or so ago. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial bill was introduced. It makes no provisions for payment of any officials to supervise elections. It will be pushed through as fast as possible, and get before the President before any thing is done with the Army bill. The peculiarity of this latter bill, by the way, is that it seeks to make Congress commander-in-chief of the army. This is not the constitutional doctrine, but it is Democratic doctrine just at this time.

Examination of witnesses has commenced in the Kellogg-Spofford Senatorial contest. The investigation will be pushed. The outside facts are familiar to all. In addition to what is known, each party proposes to prove fraud and bribery by the other. Senator Ingalls, too, it seems, is to be investigated. His friends claim that there is no proof of any offense on his part, while those who have secured the investigation say they can prove that money was paid by the Senator's direction to members of the Legislature who voted for him. I want to say that any Republicans in Ohio who fail to vote the regular ticket this fall for Governor fail to do their whole duty. Foster's services in Congress have been very great. He has differed with the majority of his party on important matters, but I can hardly name any man of prominence in the party who has not at times done so. This is as good a time as any to attempt to heal party differences.

Senator Wade Hampton made his first extended speech yesterday, and, among other patriotic and un-Democratic things, said he would under no circumstances vote to deprive the army or the courts of the money necessary for their support.

It is not now believed by any one that the Warner coinage bill can pass the Senate. There is opposition from unexpected sources. Democrats who were expected to support it for the purpose of bringing about another veto which would force the Republicans in many sections, have announced their determined opposition. The bill is dead.

Ex-Senator Conover was yesterday nominated to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the district of Florida.

It is not possible to guess at what the demoralized Democrats in the House will do, the day of adjournment is uncertain. If, as is now the intention of Mr. Atkins, chairman of the appropriation committee, the Legislative bill is pushed through the House to-day and through the Senate early next week, Congress may adjourn by the 20th. No earlier day than that is now talked of.

Neighborhood Notes.

The debt of Starke county is about $13,000.

Warsaw had a walking match last Saturday.

The Rochester graded schools closed one week ago last Friday. There were no graduates.

Knox, Michigan City and Bourbon are making arrangements to celebrate the Fourth of July.

James Mitten, a machinist at the I. P. & C. shops at Peru, was fatally injured Monday morning by a large drive wheel falling on his head.

Samuel Woodruff, a carpenter aged fifty five years, fell from the roof of a new building at Fort Wayne on Saturday, and was mortally injured.

Miss V. Hackett, of Winamac, was badly injured, by falling down the cellar steps. Two or three ribs were broken, and it is feared she has received several internal injuries.

The engine and boiler of the steamboat, which is soon to be placed on our lakes, arrived last Saturday night and is undergoing repairs at Brooks' machine shops.—Laporte Herald.

John Day, a negro barber, of Warsaw, made an attempt to cut his wife's throat with a razor last Sunday evening. Her cries brought assistance and he was arrested before she was badly hurt.

The Michigan City Enterprise says, there was never a time in that city when people were more busy than now. Every man who is willing to work can find something to do; there is no excuse for idleness.

Fresh beef and potatoes made their appearance in Knox, Starke county, last week and the editor of the Ledger feels better, and is responsible for the statement that many others were glad to get something to eat.

The Warsaw Indianian says Wm. Grim, the champion walker of Ohio, was a former resident of Warsaw. It is now recollected that he was a fast walker while in Warsaw but nobody ever thought of his making money by walking.

Henry Sherman left LaPorte Friday, and nothing could be learned as to his whereabouts until Sunday, when he was found drowned in the St. Joseph river, one mile west of Mishawaka. He was a man about fifty-six years old and had been insane for two years.

Mrs. Nolin, widow of the late Henry Nolin, of Leesburg, died very suddenly on Saturday last. She was apparently in her usual health and suddenly informing her daughter that she was dying, and expired in less than fifteen minutes. She was buried on Sunday.—Warsaw Union.

Wednesday night the 9-25 train ran over and killed Enoch Bowman about two miles north of town. His remains were found this morning (Thursday) in a terribly mangled condition, having been run over by two trains during the night. We learn that Bowman lives just this side of Denver in a state of intoxication, going towards home from Peru. The supposition is that he lay down on the track and fell asleep.—Peru Republican.

The Indianian says that Winfield Bates, of Warsaw, had a close call Monday night of last week. He had been suffering for sometime with a felon and purchased a dime's worth of morphine which the druggist put up in four powders, which he took at two doses thinking to alleviate the pain. Some one in the room adjoining his discovered that there was something wrong, and a physician was summoned. Internal convulsions had been caused by the powerful drug, but prompt action saved his life.

Pen and Scissors.

The Times says New Orleans is healthier than it has been for years at this season.

Hon. Charles Foster made his opening Campaign speech at Columbus, Ohio, last Thursday evening.

It is said that Moody and Sankey are preparing for a grand protracted effort in the wicked city of St. Louis.

Hennepin, Ill., has had numerous buildings, many fruit and shade trees and the greater part of the grain crop destroyed by a wind and rain storm.

Gen. Hooker says Gen. Thomas was the greatest man produced during the war of the Northern side, and Joe Johnston the greatest on the Southern.

Indiana has begun to meet a political emergency. A child without arms has been born to one of her citizens. It may answer the demand of the Northern Democrats for men without arms at the polls.

The Springfield Republican suggested that Jeff Davis be invited to the city, to deliver a 4th of July oration. The Worcester Spy meets the suggestion with another, that Bob Ingersoll be invited to preach in one of the orthodox churches.

A recent law of Michigan declares offices vacant in all cases where the incumbents are convicted of being intoxicated, and provides for the filling of such vacancies without delay. A boozey, drunken official is not popular up in Michigan.

The happy man is the fellow with a good wife and a baby that does not have the colic. The man who has health and the surroundings above specified, and is not contented and happy, should quit; he was intended for some other planet.

Every state in the union, except Louisiana, has now a Sunday law of some kind. Many of them simply prohibit labor. In South Carolina the statute provides that all persons "having no responsible or lawful excuse" shall attend some religious meeting every Sunday.

The eruption of Mt. Etna is going down, and the spreading of the lava has almost ceased, although one stream continues to flow towards the river Alcantara, at an average rate of fifteen metres per hour. Loud rumblings and dense smoke continue, and it is feared the full is only temporary.

The attendance upon the public schools of Mississippi shows most favorably for the blacks. Their interest in education is manifest. The recent report gives the following facts: The white school population of the State is 158,156; the colored 160,088. Attending school the past year, 100,670 white pupils and 104,799 colored ones.

In putting aside the entangling alliances of the gubernatorial chair of Ohio, Mr. Thurman resembles the boy who preferred to travel a mile around a bull pasture rather than save two-thirds of the distance by crossing the enclosure. His legs are all right, but he hasn't the wind necessary for a long run for the Presidency.—Chicago News.

The North German Gazette announces that on the occasion of his golden wedding, the Emperor William intends to grant pardons and commutations on an unusually large scale, including, upon certain conditions, persons sentenced for offenses against him at a time subsequent to Nobling's attempt, and persons who evaded military service by emigrating.

MARMONT.

ORA PRO NOBIS.

L. F. Stahl is quite ill. Mr. J. J. Baker is recovering. Levi Kreis can sing "lullaby" now. Frank Harris will soon have his boat ready for sea.

Mrs. Dr. Rogers of Kewanna, is visiting friends here.

Buck and Toan, H. G. Thayer, W. W. Hill and Oglesbee, were here yesterday.

Contractor McClure of Argos, will deliver the keys to the club house this week.

Mr. North made a survey for the Rochester club on Long Point, last Friday.

The concert given by the Marmont band in this place Saturday night last, was well attended. The exercises were good, and all seemed to enjoy themselves hugely.

Joseph Westervelt, like Peter of old, lacks faith to walk on the water; he tried it last Friday, but he failed. The exercises were good, and all seemed to enjoy themselves hugely.

News of the Week Condensed.

Germany's iron-founders are advancing prices.

The indications are that Greenback Congressmen will not support Gen. Ewing.

Col. Charles N. Manderson, of Omaha, will, it is rumored, be made Secretary of War.

The bill to reduce the pay of the letter carriers was defeated in the House Saturday.

The Warner Silver bill will probably remain with the Senate Finance Committee until next winter.

There is no truth in the report that Emperor William, of Germany, is seriously ill, or dead.

The famine in Cashmere is taking its course, and people are reported dying by hundreds.

Cigar factories in Havana have all closed because of the failure of the tobacco crop.

Forty thousand camels belonging to the British transport service died during the war in Afghanistan.

Pittsburg, Pa., and neighboring sections were badly damaged Thursday evening by severe rain and hail storms.

There was a heavy frost Friday night through the greater portion of Wisconsin. Much damage was done to corn, vegetables and flowers.

George Holzberger, Dubuque, Iowa, beat his wife senseless and then scalded her, on the 6th. He has fled, and she will die.

The Republicans prevented, Thursday, the passage of the bill which gives an appointment of public printer to the Senate.

William Martin, of Brooklyn, abused his family Sunday night, and his deformed daughter, aged 17 years old knocked him down with an ax, fatally injuring him.

Burroughs & Pierson's flouring mills, known as "The Thread Mills," Flint Mich., and a large amount of grain and flour were destroyed on the 6th. Loss, $15,000.

A special from Decatur, Ala., says: The man Sanders, from Belmont County, who dreamed that he should subsist forty days without food and not die, is dead, having starved himself to death thirty-eight days. At his request his body was preserved several days before being interred, but it showed no signs of life.

About one-third of the ten thousand tailors of Cincinnati are on a strike for 25 per cent. advance in pay. The clothing firms say they are paying 10 to 15 per cent. more than New York prices.

The Lawrence House, Burlington, Iowa, burned early Friday morning. The flames spread so rapidly that the inmates barely escaped with their lives, losing everything. The building and furniture were valued at $45,000.

Chairman Sparks, of the House military committee, says it is not the intention of his committee to take any action on the Fitz John Porter papers, recently referred to Congress by the President, until the regular session.

Laura Baker, aged 16, living near Clarksburg, Davies county, hung herself, late Saturday evening, with a clothes line, in the wood shed, it is supposed because her parents refused to permit her meeting with a lover.

Sitting Bull advises his followers to make terms with the United States government and return to this country. He and his immediate attendants have gone to spend the summer months in the Saskatchewan country.

As Mrs. Honora Lucy was driving to her home in Chester county, Pennsylvania, Friday evening, the contents of the carriage, cotton and straw, were ignited by a match, and instantly the whole interior of the vehicle was in a blaze. The horse became frightened and ran away, and before he was stopped Mrs. Lucy was literally roasted alive.

The hail-storm throughout northeastern and central Ohio Friday was the most severe ever known. In Delaware, O., the hail fell in perfect torrents, breaking windows and doing other damage. The hail was as large as hens' eggs in some instances and of a peculiar formation, some being star-shaped, others cross and hand-shaped. At Millersburg and all through that section the damage of crops was considerable.

WEST TOWNSHIP.

G. M. GRATZ.

There will be a large crop of raspberries this season.

George Poss buried his only son the other day.

Dr. Miller has sold the farm he lives on to D. Wilborn.

Wm. Poss, of White county, has moved into this township.

We have had splendid weather for wheat and oats but not so good for corn.

Rev. Bell will preach at the West school house next Sunday evening.

F. M. Whipple, of Valparaiso, is visiting acquaintances in this township.

Ira Deline is going to try bean farming, he is planting eight acres in navy beans.

A. W. Chew and family left Friday for their new home in northern Michigan.

The boys have organized a base ball club. They meet every Saturday at the Thompson school house.

Lyman Andrews had the misfortune to break the thigh bone in his leg last week, as he was alighting from a wagon.

E. Ames and T. Bosworth have both erected L. X. wind mills on their farms, and John Bunnell has purchased a Perkins wind mill.

The Sabbath school at Pretty Lake church was organized by electing St. C. Belier, sup't.; Mr. Ross, ass't. sup't.; Miss Mary Secois, sec'y.; G. A. Miller and Miss Nicholson, choristers.

A few of our supervisors are putting the most of the work on the main travel-roads this spring in the way of grading and graveling, but we think the Plymouth and Knox road should have some work.

John Morlock and J. Ruple have purchased a new Rumely engine to run their separator, both being experienced threshers, we predict they will do a large amount of thrashing the ensuing season.

The camels taken to Arizona two years ago did not come up to expectations, and were turned loose to roam along the Gila Valley. This seems to have been the one thing needed to secure their welfare. They have thriven as though they had been in their native Africa; have bred liberally, and seem to have become domesticated to the region. It is thought that the new generation of camels will be thoroughly acclimated, and used to the alkaline waters peculiar to that section.

"Noses Have They, But They Smell Not!"

Among the lower orders, bad smells are little heeded; in fact, "noses have they, but they smell not"; but, to be refined and educated, a pleasant odor, emanating from a well dressed person, produces feelings of pleasure and delight. The fragrance of Dr. Price's Unique Perfumes produces a new influence that is captivating and delightful.

Edwin Booth in Rheumatism.

Edwin Booth suffers terribly sometimes from rheumatism, and if he were not one of the most amiable of men, would, doubtless, indulge in vigorous Anglo-Saxon, expletives. He takes refuge, however, in a well-smoked corn-cob pipe when the attack is on him, using no other medical treatment than a preparation originally tested by his brother-in-law, J. H. Magonigle. This affords him almost instant relief, and in place of indulging in profanity when the rheumatism nips him, he calls for Giles' Liniment. Iodine. Ammonia, which he buys by the gallon.

Giles' Pills cure Erysipelas. Sold by G. Blain & Co. Send for pamphlet. Trial size 25 cents.
