Plymouth Ind., July 11, 1901.

The little flare-up between the two rival democratic editors of this city seems to have subsided as suddenly as it arose and each appears to be satisfied since he has read the other out of the party. The old war horse of the Democrat sharply rebuked the insolence of the young pretender of the Independent, but he did it with so much calm dignity that the queer little man took it for a compliment and nestled down like a petted kitten. Mr. McDonald will have to get back into his old form and call names if he wants to produce any impression on his presumptuous rival.

In one column last week the Plymouth Democrat said that the trusts, relying on republican domination, have so increased their combinations and exactions as to become unbearable and that the subject of tariff reform, though supposed to have been settled, is once more to the front as an issue, "for which we must thank the republicity of the protected trusts." In another column the Democrat says that "the tariff will not seriously be considered as an issue during the next campaign" for the reason that the trusts "are powerful enough to force that issue to the year, and they will do it—you may depend upon that." We gather from these expressions of the Democrat's opinion that the tariff will be the important issue in the next campaign but that it will not be seriously considered, which is quite possible when one remembers the history of democratic issues in times past.

MORE MILLS WANTED.

The sexennial enumeration of voters in Center township has just been completed and tabulated by Trustee Jackman, from which it appears that there are 1,517 voters in the township as against 1,586 in 1895. Of these there are 953 in Plymouth, a loss of 9 in six years, and 564 outside of the city limits, a loss of 60 in the same period. Comparing these figures with the census returns of 1890 and 1900 we find that in the former year Center township contained a population of 5,001 and in the latter year 5,903, a gain of 902; these Plymouth had 2,723 in 1890 and 3,656 in 1900, a gain of 933, and the township outside of the city had 2,278 in 1890 and 2,247 in 1900, a loss of 31.

Six years ago there were more men employed in factories in Plymouth than at the present time and a loss of only nine voters since some of the factories were closed shows that at that time, in 1895, the city had attained its maximum population, under the influence of the factories, and that it has since been holding its own in spite of their withdrawal. With the industries continued, or others installed to replace those that are gone, the trustee would have found a substantial growth and every line of business, including agriculture, would have been enjoying the benefits of it. That the city has not gone backward is proof sufficient of its vitality and solidity, of its inherent enterprise and favorable location, and of its ability to foster its own welfare, for the obliteration of such a concern as the Novelty was a blow that would have been felt by any city in Indiana.

A POLITICAL DISGRACE.

We have refrained thus long from commenting upon the affair of the Seventh National Bank of New York in the hope, we will confess, that the later developments might mitigate somewhat the dirty appearance given it by the first reports. In this hope we have been disappointed. The bald facts, which seem to be beyond controversy, are bad enough.

The truth appears to be that Perry S. Heath, while first assistant postmaster general, acquired fifty thousand dollars of stock in the bank, then weak and struggling for mere existence, taking the stock in the name of his brother Fletcher, at least in part. Fletcher was not known in New York financial circles at that time, nor elsewhere, but he was made vice president of the bank and both were made directors. Doubt has been expressed as to whether the Heaths paid for the stock and there has been some surprise that so small a holding should have carried with it the virtual control of the business.

However that may be, the bank forthwith entered upon an era of growth and expansion and was given the benefit of heavy official deposits, coming chiefly from the postal department. The Heaths boasted of their influence with the administration and their consequent ability to divert valuable favors in their direction, and when they were expostulated with for such indelicacy they boldly repeated their boasts. Fletcher Heath, making use of his younger brother, Cyrus, sought far and near for all sorts of speculative investments, of a character that conservative bankers avoid, and he backed a miscellaneous lot of enterprises in several states.

When the end came, and the end of reckless banking frequently comes prematurely, it was found that more than half the sum of the bank's deposits, and more than three times the amount of its capital stock, had been risked in the Marquand ventures, which no other bank in the city would touch, and they were detected in such unprofessional conduct as "kiting" checks, drafts and notes and in such illegal practices as certifying checks greatly in excess of the accounts against which they were drawn.

These things are stated in all the papers and are not denied; indeed, they are for the most part admitted to be true. It is a story of the commercialization of a political "pull," and if the methods are not the same as those of Tammany the principle is identical. If the democrats have their Croker, so have the republicans their Heath; and between the two we have the greater condemnation for the man who abuses the confidence of the party and the president who trustingly put it in his power to abuse them. Indiana republicans may ever gratefully remember that they did not as a party contribute to Perry Heath's aggrandizement.

Hollister, B. W. S. Wiseman, Culver; also A. J. Kelsey, a son of Dr. Kelsey, who is a student at Rush Medical college.

The following program was carried out, with one exception:

PROGRAM.

Dr. G. W. McCaskey, Ft. Wayne.—A case of Splenic Myelogenous Leukemia, preceded by a Mucous-sanguinolent Colitis, with Microscopical Demonstration of Leukemic Blood, and Histology of Internal Organs.

Dr. G. W. VanBenschoten, South Bend.—Three New Remedies—Suprarenal Extract, Protargol and Stypticin.

Dr. T. A. Borton, Plymouth.—Medical and Surgical Changes during a Practice of over Forty years.

Dr. J. H. Reed, Monticello.—Carcinoma of the Stomach, with Report of a Case.

Dr. I. B. Washburn, Rensselaer.—Some Therapeutic Changes during the Past Forty Years.

Dr. B. W. S. Wiseman, Culver.—Treatment of Diptheria and Report of Six Cases of Laryngeal Type.

Dr. McCaskey made a mistake in the day and arrived Tuesday, being unable to remain until Thursday, his address stands over until next meeting, which will be held in Plymouth the first Tuesday in September.

The meeting passed a unanimous vote of thanks to the officials of the M. E. church, Culver, for the use of their fine auditorium.

A motion was unanimously passed thanking the local faculty for the excellence of their arrangements.

The doctors were loud in their praises of the acoustic excellence of the M. E. church Thursday, June 27.

EXTRAORDINARY ACTION BY A BRAZILIAN COUNTESS.—Lisbon has been thrilled by the abduction of a young artist by a Brazilian Countess. The story goes that the Countess, who is of imperious nature, fell in love with the artist, who is remarkable for his good looks. The lady wooed the youth, but he proved cold. Invitations to her house were scorned; her amatory epistles were returned unopened. At length the lady sent her servants into the streets, who kidnapped the young man, conveying him to the Countess's home.—Thid.

MOVEMENTS AT MAXINKUCKEE.

Mrs. Clement Vonegut and son, of Indianapolis, arrived at their cottage on the east side Monday.

KING'S EVIL.

How Ignorance and Superstition go Hand in Hand.

A curious sight might have been seen in England a couple of centuries ago. At Whitehall or some other royal residence a little group of people would shrinkingly await the coming of the king, in order to be "touched for the evil." The specific "evil" was scrofula, and it was the popular belief that scrofula could be cured by the royal touch. Hence the common name for scrofula was King's Evil.

Nowadays we know that scrofula is a disease of the blood and that even were there magic in a king's touch, no external treatment could cure scrofula. The medicine which cures scrofula must deal with the blood. It must be able to eradicate and eliminate the poisons which corrupt the blood and breed the deep-seated, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and other eruptions disappear, ulcers and sores are healed and the flesh becomes sound and healthy.

THE RIGHT WAY to cleanse the blood from scrofula is to choose that remedy which has cured thousands of people who suffered from scrofula in its most grievous forms.

"I am using a good many of your medicines in my practice," writes Dr. Joseph Pike, of Lost Springs, Marion Co., Kansas. "Ten years ago there was an emigration from Russia to this country and there was a lady in the company who was badly affected with that dreadful disease, scrofula. Her mouth and throat were in an awful condition, and there were lumps on the outside, below the jaw, the size of a hen's egg. Other doctors had been called and they said it was a fatal case. I felt confident that none of my remedies would benefit her any. It came to my mind that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended for such cases, so I went to the drug store and bought one bottle and gave it to her to use as directed. Five bottles cured her and she is well to-day. She is married now and has three healthy children."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery judged solely by the cures it has effected is without doubt the most powerful and most perfect blood purifying medicine of the century. It is a radical remedy. It goes to the root of the disease. Some preparations containing mineral poisons such as mercury are offered as cures for scrofula. These medicines only suppress the symptoms of disease for a while and give the skin its sabbath, the Fleetwing, Saturday.

W. P. Bain and wife, of Terre Haute, visited at the Lake Monday.

Louis Ott, of Indianapolis, spent Saturday and Sunday at the Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Counzelman, of St. Louis, arrived at their cottage Tuesday.

L. J. Ketcham, of Indianapolis, spent Sunday at his cottage on the east side.

Dr. Jamison and wife, of Indianapolis, opened the India cottage in Logansport row.

a look of clearness, but after a time the suppressed disease like a smothered fire breaks out with a new violence.

It is the uniform testimony of those who have been cured of scrofulous diseases by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" that the cure is permanent. In many instances the testimonial to the cure has not been offered until the lapse of several years proved how thoroughly and lastingly the medicine had done its work.

No class of people are more grateful for the blood purifying power of the "Discovery" than women whose faces have been marked and marred by pimples and other eruptions. The smooth skin and clear complexion which come back when "Golden Medical Discovery" has swept the blood clean of its corrupting poisons, are a source of unfeigned delight to those who for years have had their beauty marred by some form of eruptive disease. Beauty begins in the blood, and the first step to beauty is to cleanse the blood of the corrupting impurities which weaken the body and befoul the face.

THE SCOURGE OF CIVILIZATION. From half civilized or unsanitary countries come the plagues which decimate the teeming populations of the Orient. Sanitary science and medical skill have banished the plagues from among ourselves, but civilization has its own scourge in that form of scrofula which attacks the lungs and is popularly known as consumption.

Scourges are not persistent. They appear and disappear again for years. Scrofula of the lungs or consumption is a persistent disease. Every day of every year it gathers in its victims; one-sixth of all deaths from disease being attributed to consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures scrofula wherever it finds it. It eliminates the scrofulous poison from the blood and so the organs which are fed by blood are relieved from the scrofulous poisons which destroy them. Obsolete, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and similar dangerous forms of disease are perfectly and permanently cured by "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartwick, of Demeter, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE. "Golden Medical Discovery" can be absolutely relied on as a safe and sure medicine for diseases caused by a scrofulous condition of the blood. It cures disease of skin and scalp, eczema, salt-rheum, tetter, scrofulous sores and swellings, as well as scrofula of the lungs and other diseases having their origin in a corrupt condition of the blood.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for the cure of scrofulous diseases.
