Mr. H. B. Gurley, proprietor of Clover Farm, DeKalb, Ills. is a successful practical dairyman. He has devoted much time to promoting dairy interests and is recognized authority on dairy subjects.

Prof. C. D. Smith of the Michigan Agricultural College is one of the dairy experts of this country. His wide experience as an instructor in dairy lines and his success as an institute worker should secure for him a large audience.

Mr. Cal Husselman, the highly successful dairy farmer and western institute worker, really needs no introduction to an Indiana audience. His name describes him.

Mr. J. W. Billingsley, of Indianapolis, has for several years supplied, from his dairy farm near by, a prime quality of milk to city patrons. He is an excellent authority on Cillage and Silo construction.

Mr. S. B. Woods, of Lottaville, is one of Lake County's most aggressive and successful dairymen. As a practical dairy farmer and as president of the State Dairy Association he is doing his full share to promote the dairy interests of Indiana.

Mr. H. E. Van Norman is perhaps the youngest man assigned a place on the program. He is the son of a highly successful manager of an eastern dairy, from whom he has inherited the true dairy instinct. He is an effective instructor and never fails to make clear his points before an audience.

Lack of space forbids further mention of workers. A treat is in store for those who desire information and instruction in the lines covered by the program. Plan to attend this meeting. You will enjoy it and help your friends to enjoy it. The business men of Plymouth extend to you a cordial welcome. Come. Remember the date, and don't fail to apply for a certificate that will secure you a rate of one fare for the round trip.

NO PROBORT HERE

The Bourbon Banker Held for a
Further Hearing in Michigan
Thirty Days Hence.

Through the misunderstanding of a telegram it was supposed that Sheriff Bondurant would bring Probert, the Bourbon banker now in custody in Michigan, back from Detroit Saturday evening, but when the Vandalla train pulled the sheriff jumped off alone.

At the hearing of Probert, which occupied two hours Saturday afternoon at the Russell House in Detroit, Governor Bliss and Deputy Attorney-General Chase surprised the Hoosiers by inquiring into the merits of the charges against the banker, instead of accepting as conclusive the recitals in the Indiana requisition. Probert, who was accompanied by and advised by a Benton Harbor lawyer, was examined under oath and the only witness Judge McLaren had with him for the state was Franklin Williamson, of Bourbon, who could testify to all the facts.

Governor Bliss did not decide finally in the matter, but set another hearing for Aug. 26, for the purpose of enabling the Indiana officers to present more evidence, which they think they can easily do, though at considerable expense as the place is fixed at Lansing.

Probert is not held under bond, his attorney having personally vouched for his appearance at the proper time.

GRANGE PICNIC.

West Township Will Entertain Their Friends.

The members of Yellow River Grange will enjoy a great family picnic Aug. 15 at Sour's grove, near the Shoemaker bridge in West township. There will be good music, noted speakers and a plentiful basket dinner, such as the old-timers know all about. A grand and glorious time is a certainty if the weather does not interfere. The invitation is hospitably broad and covers everybody.

Funmakers at Pretty Lake.

Last week was a great occasion for the Funmakers at Camp Na Mon, on the shady shores of Pretty Lake, for Miss Georgia Vinal gave a house party at the Brotherless Inn and hilarity ran high. The guests were Misses Mary Bozarth, of Knox, Edna Bollman, Mary Brown and Emma Yocky. Among the special features of the week were a luncheon to the mothers on Wednesday and a dinner on Thursday for a jolly crew of Bourbon boys who were in camp at the lake.

The Fire Station Improvement.

The big job at the fire engine house just completed by Bowers, the cement walk man, was inspected with satisfaction by hundreds of citizens Sunday and the universal sentiment is that the improvement is a wise one and the job well done. The city building now has a solid cement floor throughout the first story and a platform of the same construction extending to the street the full width of the edifice. Mr. Bowers is doing a large amount of excellent work in this city.

The Showers of Sunday.

The general rain of Sunday, together with the reduced temperature, brought comfort to thousands of sweltering people and quieted the minds of those who have been worrying about the crops. The entire county was included in the downpour. While the corn has been damaged, and in some localities ruined, the rain was of sufficient quantity to make it safe unless something else should intervene to injure it.

Lone Prisoner Sees Parade.

Probably no one in town enjoyed the circus parade more than Charles Boon, the lone prisoner in the county jail. His term of seventy days expires Aug. 1 and he has served without company throughout his incarceration. He has been a good prisoner and Sheriff Bondurant, in the kindness of his heart, took him out to see the street pageant.
