A Rochester young man carries a "Bryan watch." Proudly speaking of his time-piece to a companion, his friend desired to see it. It was drawn out of his pocket and when the surprised chum remarked that it was nothing but an ordinary Ingersoll dollar watch, he calmly remarked "Yes," it has been running twelve years." The inference is that many cheap articles like Bryan "run twelve years," notwithstanding their questionable reliability.

ANOTHER STOLEN HORSE RETURNS

TAKEN FROM MICHIGAN
ST. TUESDAY NIGHT—
TRACED 4 MILES SOUTH—ABANDONED & CAME HOME.

The fifth horse that has been stolen in the vicinity of this city in the last two weeks, and the second that was stolen and later abandoned by the thief, was taken off Michigan street at 11:15 o'clock Tuesday night. The horse and buggy belonged to Earl Glass, son of John Glass, who resides three and one half miles west of this city. Young Glass had driven to Argos, and returning at about 11:00 o'clock, hitched his horse in front of Kleckner's restaurant, while he entered the restaurant. He was in the place only about five minutes and when he returned for his horse, the outfit was gone. A canvass was made of the livery barns but no trace of the rig was found. Later, persons described having seen the horse and buggy being driven south on Michigan street. Young Glass and a friend started in pursuit, trailed the horse and buggy four miles south, when it turned west for two miles, and then back north one mile. Here the trail was lost. Glass continued the search by telephoning, and finally returned to his home. The horse and buggy entered the barnyard at about 2:00 o'clock driverless.

The case is a queer one and no clew is furnished as to the identity of the thief. The abandoning of the horse resembles the manner in which the Reeve pony was stolen and recovered. It is possible that some one took the horse to drive home with, and then turned it loose. Certain it was that the horse had not broken loose, because Glass left the animal tied, and when it returned the hitching strap was tied to a ring on the harness.

Extra precautions are being taken by farmers and horse owners to guard their property against this epidemic of stealing.

The Marshall County Horse Thief Detective Association are now searching for several animals.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS PLANS.

Local Option to be Allowed to Rest for Present.

Several Democratic candidates on the state ticket—notably Thomas R. Marshall, for Governor; James F. Cox, for Secretary of State; M. B. Lairy, for Judge of the Supreme Court, and John Isenbarger, for Treasurer of State—met at an Indianapolis hotel Sunday afternoon and discussed plans for the campaign. B. F. Shively, of South Bend, and one or two other prominent Democrats participated.

Though it was announced that nothing but routine matters were discussed, it is understood that the Democrats decided that the local option question should be allowed to rest—for the present, at least. Some of the conferees individually expressed the opinion that the passage of the Cox bill took the option issue out of the campaign.

IS STILL AFTER SCHOOL HOUSES

MANY THROUGHOUT THE
STATE REPORTED IN A DANGEROUS CON-DITION—ALL TO BE FULLY INSPECTED.

Reports of unsatisfactory conditions in different parts of the State have caused W. E. Blakely, chief of the Indiana department of inspection, to issue orders to his deputies to take up immediately the careful inspection of all school buildings more than one story high, and to proceed with such inspections as rapidly as possible.

"In a short time now," said Mr. Blakely, "it will be necessary to heat school buildings, and this means fire hazard. We do not wish a repetition in this State of the disastrous Collinwood fire, in which so many children lost their lives. I have just noticed in the public press an account of a schoolhouse fire in Kentucky, in which the teachers and pupils barely escaped with their lives. Undoubtedly they were not heating that building at this time of year. What, then, may we expect when it comes time to start the furnaces and stoves?"

Mr. Blakely says there are a number of cities and towns in Indiana where the schoolhouse conditions are very bad and in some places there is little money with which to make repairs. The condition prevails at Spencer. The school building there is a three-story structure. The walls are badly cracked and there is danger from a collapse as well as from a fire. The people of Spencer are particularly unfortunate from the fact that they expended most of their money, last summer, in building a waterworks plant. For a long time the water supply had been obtained from wells and the water-works plant was needed. On the other hand, repair work on the school building is now needed and there is little money that may be used for this purpose.

The situation there is so serious that Mr. Blakely has summoned the Spencer School Board to come to his office, where a conference will be held within a few days.

Mr. Blakely has suggested that the entire top floor of the building be removed and that another building, perhaps a one-story structure, be built to accommodate the pupils who are now housed on the top floor. He does not know whether this suggestion will meet the approval of the officials.

Terre Haute is another city to which the inspection department is giving some attention. Several weeks ago D. F. Spees, chief deputy inspector, went to Terre Haute to inspect the school buildings. He ordered a number of improvements, including the placing of several fire escapes. Mr. Blakely has recently received complaints from Terre Haute. It is said that the suggested improvements have been carried out at only one building.

There are more than 150 cities and towns in Indiana that have school buildings two stories or more in height. Mr. Blakely proposes to inspect all of these that have not already been examined this year and to order needed improvements, and see to it that the improvements are made so far as this lies within his power.

Another License Refused.

Another couple appeared at the county clerk's office Wednesday asking for a marriage license. The would-be bride was a resident of Ohio, and so the license was refused. The names given were Arthur C. Zimmer and Allie Stinking. Perhaps his age was the cause—it was 23.

MILLER HANDS IT TO KERN

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE TELLS OF FRENCH RAIDS WHILE HE WAS ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF STATE.

John W. Kern, Democratic nominee for Vice President, was depicted as the defender of roulette wheels and faro banks and the champion of the gambling houses at French Lick and West Baden, in a statement issued at Republican national headquarters at Chicago Tuesday by Charles W. Miller, ex-attorney general of Indiana.

Miller, who is running for Congress from the Thirtieth District of Indiana, is the official who closed up the gambling casinos at the two Indiana resorts two years ago, and he makes the charge that in his efforts to enforce the anti-gambling laws he was fought at every turn by Mr. Kern. Campaign orators in his state, he asserts, are making Republican votes by pointing out that in the anti-gambling crusade Kern defended Taggart in the courts and that in the Denver convention Taggart, then chairman of the national committee, reciprocated by securing for Kern the place of running mate for Bryan on the national ticket.

"When I closed up the French Lick and West Baden casinos," said Mr. Miller, "Mr. Kern was on the ground in the interests of Tom Taggart to block me at every turn. He was Taggart's attorney. He defended Taggart in the courts and in the newspapers, belittling the efforts the state was making to put these gambling hells out of existence."

"Kern complained bitterly against the action of the state, saying the Taggart Hotel company had nothing to do with the gambling dens, and that the only evidence which the state had was that gathered by Hearst newspaper reporters. He said Taggart had sent a minister down there who put children in front of the roulette tables and then took photos of them. Kern said there was no injury shown to any one."

"We charged that Taggart had aided in the delinquency of children, and I said in court that I would rather be guilty of murder than guilty of this crime. Kern knew as well as any living man that Taggart was the boss of these gambling dives. Taggart's motto, 'The Pluto Devil,' was on every poker chip. We took sixteen wagon loads of gambling paraphernalia out of the places. Kern's comments on the activity of the state were little to the credit of a man aspiring to be Vice President."

ORGANIZATION IN THE COUNTY

2 MORE TOWNSHIPS HAVE REPUBLICAN CLUBS—
OFFICERS ELECTED
AND MEMBERS
BEING EN-ROLLED.

The movement for organizing Republican clubs throughout Marshall county, is making rapid headway, and increased interest is being taken in the cause of county candidates. Members are being added daily to the roll at Plymouth headquarters. County Organizer Monroe Steiner is putting in much time, organizing branch clubs, and enrolling new members.

Two more branch clubs have been organized, one in Tippecanoe, and one in North township.

The Tippecanoe club enrolled with 52 members, and is gaining every day. The officers are President G. R. St. John, Secretary Roy Rhodes.

ATTY. PEABODY DEAD.

Another Fatality Follows in Wake of Thaw Case.

A Russell Peabody, the attorney who was connected with the defense in both trials of Harry K. Thaw for the shooting of Stanford White, died suddenly Wednesday in his summer home at Babylon, L. I. Mr. Peabody, while not in the best of health, had complained little of being ill, and his death was a great surprise.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the heart and one to the kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by L. Tanner.
