ROOSEVELT SEES TAFT AS VICTOR WITH 306 ELECTORAL VOTES

President Roosevelt believes that Taft and Sherman will have about 306 electoral votes. President Roosevelt has been a good judge of political events. He predicted just after the last delegates to the Chicago convention were elected that Taft would have about 700 delegates. He had 702. The table of Taft states, according to the president's idea, is about as follows:

California	10
Connecticut	7
Delaware	3
Illinois	27
Iowa	13
Idaho	3
Indiana	15
Kansas	10
Maine	6
Massachusetts	16
Michigan	14
Minnesota	11
Nebraska	8
New York	39
New Hampshire	4
New Jersey	12
North Dakota	4
Ohio	23
Oregon	4
Pennsylvania	34
South Dakota	4
Rhode Island	4
Utah	4
Vermont	4
Washington	5
West Virginia	7
Wisconsin	13
Wyoming	3
Total	306

The president also regards Colorado and Maryland as affording a good chance to the Republicans but these states are not included in the claim he is making to his friends.

President Roosevelt realizes that a tremendous fight is being made on Governor Hughes in New York state, but at the same time he believes it will fail, just as the campaign which was made against him failed in 1898. At that time the brewers, liquor dealers and others had an enormous fund which they used in an endeavor to elect the Democratic candidate for governor.

The president is in heartiest sympathy with Governor Hughes. There is no legitimate effort in behalf of the governor that he will not take. The governor's stumping tour of western states or the Republican national ticket at the sacrifice of his own campaign in New York, has appealed to the president as nothing else could have done. He is personally communicating with every member of the state machine. He has written them all personal letters urging them to support Hughes loyally and thus far only one important county leader has failed to respond to his note.

Some of the president's callers expressed the opinion that in view of the governor's efforts for the national ticket, the entire Republican machine would fall in behind the governor, and polls and straw votes which showed the state ticket weak would only spur the organization on to greater efforts.

It was learned that Herbert Parsons, when he last called on the president, expressed the opinion that he had entirely misunderstood the governor, and since Mr. Hughes' political campaign tour throughout the west he would work for him harder than he would for the national ticket, because the governor needed it more. It was predicted that the reception that Governor Hughes would have in New York would astonish the country.

Notwithstanding reports that the president is dissatisfied with Frank H. Hitchcock's management of the campaign, it can be said that the president is standing by Mr. Hitchcock.

Democrats Lose by Labor Stand.

One event of the campaign year that has contributed very materially toward alienating votes from the Democratic party section was the open and notorious domination of the Vincennes convention of the Indiana Federation of Labor by the liquor interests. This has operated especially to the disadvantage of the Democracy among the miners, who probably are more strongly imbued with temperance sentiment than any other laboring class in the state. This sentiment has grown stronger as the miners have borne eye-witness to the arrogance and boldness of the saloon men in establishing their places as nearly as possible to the coal shafts wherever new mines are opened.

"They hover around us like vultures," said one miner, "seeking to get every cent of our hard-earned wages."

The hatred of the miners for the saloon business was demonstrated at Vincennes when the eleven delegates representing 18,000 organized miners, without previous consultation or exchange of ideas, voted as a unit against the adoption of the series of "boozing" resolutions which converted the federation into an annex of the brewery-controlled Democratic state campaign.

TEST LOCAL OPTION AND REMONSTRANCE LAWS.

Counsel for Saloon Man Will Contend the New Act Nullifies Moore Amendment.

John Daily of Greenfield, Ind., has given notice that he will apply for a liquor license at the November term of commissioners' court, the business to be conducted in the First Ward. This is presumed to be a test of the new county option law, as it is said the attorneys for the applicant will contend that this law does away with the remonstrance. This is the last saloon license in that ward to expire since the blanket remonstrance was filed last March. The sufficiency of the remonstrance has never been contested there and all the saloons in the ward closed as their license expired.

Plymouth Boy Head of New Enterprise.

The Peru Delivery Association, a new company under the management of J. A. Shunk, a former resident of Plymouth, was inaugurated in Peru Wednesday morning. Seven wagons and drivers will be used as a starter, until things can be gotten in shape. It is claimed that about all the stores in the city have joined hands in the affair and will have their delivering done by the new company. There are some who will wait a while until they see how things come out. It is the plan of the delivery association to lay the city off in sections and have a delivery wagon for each section. If the new system works all right it is understood that it will mean less expense to the merchants and better service to the people.

Endorses Mr. Miller.

The Labor Journal published at South Bend, in its Friday issue, Oct. 9, gives a double column cut of Chas. W. Miller, Republican candidate for congress from the Thirteenth district, and in a double column article on the first page endorses Mr. Miller's candidacy. The head of the article reads, "Miller's Clean Record. His Friendly Attitude Toward Labor. No Sudden Change of Heart. Elkhart Labor Union Endorse Chas. W. Miller for Congress."

Yorkshire	168; $2,854.
Mulefoot	229; $4,630.

KINCADE CASE IS SETTLED

IS GRANTED $300 IN CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE OF MARIE KAUFMAN—OTHER NEWS OF CIRCUIT COURT.

The case of Emery Kincade versus the estate of Marie Kaufman, and Henry H. Miller administrator, was decided by the jury Tuesday evening. Kincade was allowed $300. He had brought suit for $792.86, maintaining he had boarded Mrs. Kaufman, for several years before her death without receiving pay for the same. The parties to the suit are residents of German township.

Bruce Joseph has been admitted to the Marshall county bar. Phoebe Laturner was granted a divorce from her husband, John Laturner. Plaintiff resides at Argos.

The case of Charles H. Mullenhour and Peter Disher, versus Otice Weiborn, for damages, is occupying the attention of the court. Attorneys Martindale and Metzler represent the plaintiff, while Chas. Kellison, is attorney for the defendant.

The C. I. Centivier Brewing Co., has brought suit against Harvey Kesler and others on judgment and to set aside conveyance.

Democrats are Disturbed.

The Democratic state and district leaders are palpably disturbed over the increase in the Socialist vote, which, it is believed, bodes no good for Democracy. The poll books show that a majority of the converts to socialism are being recruited from the Democratic ranks. One reason for this is that Democrats of socialistic tendency who would like to be "regular" in their party have lost confidence in Bryan and have decided to burn their bridges behind them and join the Socialists.

"Bryan," the Socialists say, "may be a Socialist at heart, but he is afraid to show his colors. This country never before saw such a spectacle as Bryan is making of himself in this campaign by his efforts to truckle to the capitalistic interests. He seems afraid to admit that his soul is his own. A year or so ago he was proclaiming from the housetops that government ownership of railroads is just the thing, but who has heard him mention that subject in this campaign?"

Another reason for the socialistic advance is the activity that has been displayed by Socialist propagandists in promoting their cause. More Socialist speakers—men and women—have been campaigning during the last year than ever before. In season and out of season, in good weather and bad, they have gone from town to town holding street-corner meetings wherever a crowd would assemble to hear them.

The Campaign Liar.

There is also the campaign propagandist, the fellow who estimates the number of persons in attendance at political meetings. The number depends on the amount of enthusiasm and the fertility of the imagination of the particular partisan. But one thing is sure, he always belittles the number of the opposition and multiplies by ten the crowd that his own party musters to a meeting. He finds his way into the columns of the newspapers and misleads those who read. It might be well to keep in mind that this sort of propagandist is not confined to any party. He is found in all parties and is equally active in all.—Muncie Press.

Value of Good Roads.

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, which is one of the most earnest advocates of good roads in the country, has this to say of transportation between the farm and the market: Road improvements which shorten the time of travel for the farmer between his home and his favorite market town practically shortens the distance between the farm and the market, and improves the value of real estate proportionately while at the same time it augments the business possibilities of the merchants of centers to which the improved roads lead. When farmers generally come to realize this fact they will more quickly unite their efforts with those of the merchants of trade centers who are advocating road improvement.

HANLY IS IN GREAT DEMAND

REPUBLICANS OVER ENTIRE STATE WANT GOV. FOR SPEAKING—HIS DATES ARE COMPLETELY FILLED.

In spite of the great number of speakers who have been assigned to Indiana, the Republican State committee is having a hard time in trying to meet the full demands of the people of Indiana. There is a loud call for good speakers. In this line Governor Hanly heads the list. The Governor is desired in almost every county in the State. Requests are being received at the Republican headquarters daily and Will Hays, chairman of the Republican speakers' bureau, would feel more comfortable just now if he had four or five Hanlys who could be assigned to different cities of the State.

It has been impossible to get Governor Hanly for any political meeting in the State, for the Governor has been in the West for several days. He went to Colorado the middle of last week to deliver addresses under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of that State. It was said at his office also that the Governor would probably go to Pennsylvania the latter part of the month to deliver several addresses for the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League. Pennsylvania is the home of the Governor's old friend S. E. Nicholson, who is connected with the Pennsylvania league.

"There are fifty towns in Indiana that would like to have Governor Hanly," said Carl W. Riddick, secretary of the Republican State Committee. "I went into the speakers' bureau the other day thinking that I would get the Governor for a speech up in my county. The people up there were clamoring for him and, of course, they thought I should be able to get him. I was considerably disappointed when I asked for the Governor, for in reply a bunch of requests for the Governor from fifty counties was pushed toward me."

Soon after the county local option bill was passed, Governor Hanly told Will Hays, chairman of the speakers' bureau, that he was ready for the campaign and was going into it with his coat off. The plan was to have the Governor speak in many different parts of the State. He is especially strong in the smaller towns and rural communities and the Republican leaders believe his influence will be a great aid in the campaign.
