ANOTHER LETTER FROM GERMANY

ALBERT HUME WRITES SECOND LETTER CONCERNING HIS EUROPEAN TRIP.

Plymouth Boy Describes Life in German City—Has Engaged in His Studies.

Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 19.
I closed my last letter on board the steamship Neckar on Friday, Oct. 9, just as we were entering the English channel. On Monday afternoon we landed at Bremerhafen and soon found a train leaving for Göttingen, where we arrived about ten in the evening and found our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Pettit waiting at the station to receive us. It was delightful to rest in their home which we did for two days. They came on to Leipzig with us giving us much help in this strange land with other languages and other customs than those we know.

The country around Bremerhafen as one comes in by boat is low like Holland, they say. Before we came to the landing we could see Holstein cattle grazing on the shore. The green pastures looked abundant and the little fields and farms looked like many very comfortable gardens. But after one leaves Bremerhafen the country soon becomes more hilly and fewer and fewer cattle appear in pastures.

Farther inland—about Göttingen and here about Leipzig we are told no cattle are turned out to pasture but all feed is cut and carried to them because land is too valuable; they can be fed cheaper by soiling.

It did not take long to pass the customs at Bremerhafen. Our stuff was carried off the boat by the stewards into a long station room where every fellow claimed his own. Our did not invite close scrutiny and so were soon sent on to Leipzig and were here the other day when we wanted them.

One week ago we were on the road—safe enough to be sure, though in a dark strange land. Tonight we are in our little home—by our own fireside—beside our own supper table, from which, truth to tell, the little, blue, German dishes are not yet cleared away.

We found this four-room flat last Thursday toward evening, after hunting all day. We got the lease and paid rent for a quarter. The price is 300 marks per year. A mark is a fraction less than twenty-four cents or $90 a year will cover our rent. This pays also water rent and stove fuel. The stove is built into both the kitchen and sitting room. We have coal brickettes of fuel that cost about one half more per ton than coal in the United States.

Oct. 20.
This is the day long looked toward—the day for entrance to the University. It has been crowded with students—some of them seemed to threaten accident. No boy in the grades was ever more anxious lest he fail to "pass" than was a certain man waiting to have audience with "The Powers". One gruff professor asked me where I was from—wanted to see my certificates and cheered me by stating it was his opinion I might never be eligible to come up for examination at Leipzig University. Then he sent me away to another. After waiting long I had the interview. He allowed me some crumbs of encouragement which I joyously accepted. I listened to Prof. Pfeffer who graciously gave me the one remaining place in the laboratory and a seat in his lecture room. Myself studying with the great Pfeffer whose name has sounded like a far off dream. Maybe I can secure a seat under Prof. Beckmann and Correnz. They are hard to reach, but now I have Prof. Pfeffer I am not so uneasy and can fight for the rest. Tomorrow afternoon I am to go to the Senate hall to get what corresponds to the right hand of fellowship.

While I waited in the great court of the University Building I saw on the east wall a wonderful painting—wonderful to me, that is all I know about it. Great dark ragged rocks are piled mountain high. Beyond is the sunny pleasant plain. An unprotected man with a torch in his hand, alone, scales the rocks. He might have come by way of the plain and he, himself would hardly know why he did not.

It is all written there in his face, like a wonderful story that cannot be told in words. He will scale the rocks and learn the depth of painful joy and painful pain that cannot be known by those who do not "look to the hills".

Write a lot of letters and ask our friends. They will be appreciated you may guess. Our days here have begun and they will end.

DEATH OF MRS. ROBERT COX.

One of Oldest Residents of the City Passes Away Unexpectedly Wednesday Morning.

Mrs. Julia A. Cox died at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. B. Bowell at 209 West Laporte street at 7:10 o'clock a. m. Wednesday. Although she had been failing for some time, her death was wholly unexpected, and was the result of heart failure.

At the time of her death Mrs. Cox was 80 years of age. Her maiden name was Julia Brundage; she was born in Onondago county, New York. With her husband Robert H. Cox, she moved to Ohio, and later to Marshall county which has been her home for 43 years. Her husband preceded her to the spirit world 14 years ago. The children who survive her are, George, Mrs. F. D. Lamson, John, Mrs. J. B. Bowell, and Mrs. Andrew Eckert, all of Plymouth. One brother, N. Brundage, whose residence is in Ohio, besides many grandchildren, are other relatives.

The funeral will be held at the residence of J. B. Bowell Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Howard, and Rev. Smith, Interment at Oak Hill.

INTERNATIONAL RIFLE SHOOT

CAPTAIN JOHNSON OF PLYMOUTH HAS LETTER TELLING OF PLANS.

Meet Will Be Held in This Country—Nineteen Nations Invited to Participate.

Orlando Johnson of this city, captain of Co. I, Third regiment of the Indiana national guard, has received from Washington a letter telling of the plans for the rifle contests next year. In part the letter follows:

"Next September will witness the greatest gathering of international riflemen ever seen in this country. The state department has been entrusted with formal invitations from the National Rifle Association, of which Gen. James A. Drain is president, to be forwarded to the ambassadors and ministers from nineteen countries interested in rifle shooting, formally inviting those countries to be represented by rifle teams at the coming international tournament. More elaborate plans are being made for this series of matches than ever before. In addition to the Palma match for the military long range championship of the world, which was won in 1907 by the American team at Ottawa, Canada, there will be an individual competition at 1,000 yards; a team match at 300 meters; an individual competition at 300 meters and a revolver team competition at fifty yards.

"Each competing nation will designate one delegate to a committee whose duty it will be to settle definitely and without recourse, any question which may arise not covered by the rules of the match. The members of this committee will be nominated by the team captains, and the committee will elect its own chairman who shall have a casting vote in addition to his vote as a member. Visiting teams will be furnished with tents, cots, mattresses, blankets and camp equipment, free, together with free use of targets for four days preceding the match. In concluding his letter to the ambassadors Gen. Drain says: "Suggestions from these interested as to the events and their scope will be welcome. It is desired that this shall be a truly international shooting test and for that reason as near a common basis of rules is desired as it is possible to formulate. In view of the necessity for extensive preparations for these contests it is requested that an answer be returned at the earliest possible date in which shall be set forth the decision of your country in regard to the sending of a competitor or competitors to take part in the proposed contests."

The invitations will be forwarded by the state department to the diplomatic representatives of the different countries in Washington, to their military attaches here and through the American ambassadors and ministers abroad. The nineteen countries and colonies invited are: England, Canada, Australia, France, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Italy, Germany, Austria, Greece, Mexico, Argentine Republic, Brazil, Spain, Belgium and Japan.

Some of these will also receive invitations from the National Rifle Association of America direct through their National Rifle Associations, such as England, Canada, Australia, France, Switzerland, Italy and the Argentine Republic. It is probably too much to expect that all these countries will be represented but it is believed there will be more teams representing different nations than ever before shot on American soil. While in England at the Olympic games where he captained the American team, Gen. Drain received the promise from a number of teams that they would be represented in this country next September. The matches will take place after the national and other matches here so there will be no conflict in dates.

TAFT WILL REVISE TARIFF

SAYS HE WILL CALL A SPECIAL SESSION AFTER INAUGURATION.

Successful Candidate Reiterates Intention to Keep Pledges Made During Campaign.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 4.—That Judge Taft is fully determined to do all in his power to bring about a revision of the tariff is indicated by a declaration made today, that the first thing he will do after his inauguration will be to call for an extra session of congress to take up the question. During his campaign he expressed the firm belief that revision was necessary.

That he regards the problem as one of the most important that will come up during his administration and that it is uppermost in his mind now, was shown by his declaration made while discussing the issues of the campaign.

Will Keep His Pledge.
Asked regarding the pledges made in his speaking tour he stated that he would do all in his power to keep all of them, but made specific mention of the one regarding revision of the tariff. He declined to take up the matter in any of its details, saying that he had been so badly fagged by the campaign that he could not attempt much discussion at this time. He will devote much time to a study of the problem during the winter months and make it the exclusive subject of a special message that he will prepare for submission to the special session of the new congress that he will call immediately after the inauguration.

DUTY OF THE ELECTORS.

Will Meet on Second Monday in January and Cast Vote of the State.

The people of Indiana, in common with those of other states, have declared their choice for President and Vice President by choosing electors who are in honor bound to vote for them. Each state has as many as its entire delegation in congress, senators and representatives, and in the aggregate they number 483, making 242 a majority, necessary to a choice. These constitute the electoral college.

The electors of each state will meet on the second Monday in January at a place to be fixed by the state, and cast the electoral vote of the state for President and Vice President. The time of meeting is the same for all the states, the place the capital of each state. The votes of the electors will be certified by the "executive authority" of the state and forwarded to Washington. The "executive authority" of the state means the Governor.

THE LEMON BOX

Art Thompson and Bernard Corse spent Tuesday evening with Bess and Mary Vinnall, Mum!

Since the state has gone Democratic Mr. S. E. Boys will lose his job as oil inspector. "Now Democratic editors of Marshall county, who wants the job? Let us see the hands please."

Every sixth man leaving the business district of Plymouth Saturday by foot or carriage, was carrying a piece of stove pipe, which is a better indication of cold weather than the departure of birds, etc.

In handling express at the Pennsylvania station Saturday morning, a bucket of oysters slipped from the hands of the express clerks, and fell on the truck. The lid broke off and the oysters were spilled over the truck and ground. Undaunted the expressmen removed their gloves and scooped the oysters from the truck back into the bucket and replaced the lid. Wonder if they do that with the oysters we eat?

Miss Beatrice Ryan a milliner in the employ of Miss L. E. Clough, was noticed taking to the back streets on her way home Wednesday noon. Upon closer investigation it was noticed that her coat was on wrong side out, and a large Taft pin was attached to the lapel. It was all the fault of Wm. Bryan, who by failing to become elected, lost the unique bet to Miss Ryan.

Emmons McCrory the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. McCrory, was hunting Sunday afternoon. About dusk he noticed a rabbit building in a bunch of weeds. Up came the good old trusty rifle and "bingo." The rabbit turned up its toes. Emmons went to pick up his game. In two seconds he discovered he was meddling with a wounded skunk. Emmons spent the rest of the evening in the bath tub, with his clothes out on the line.

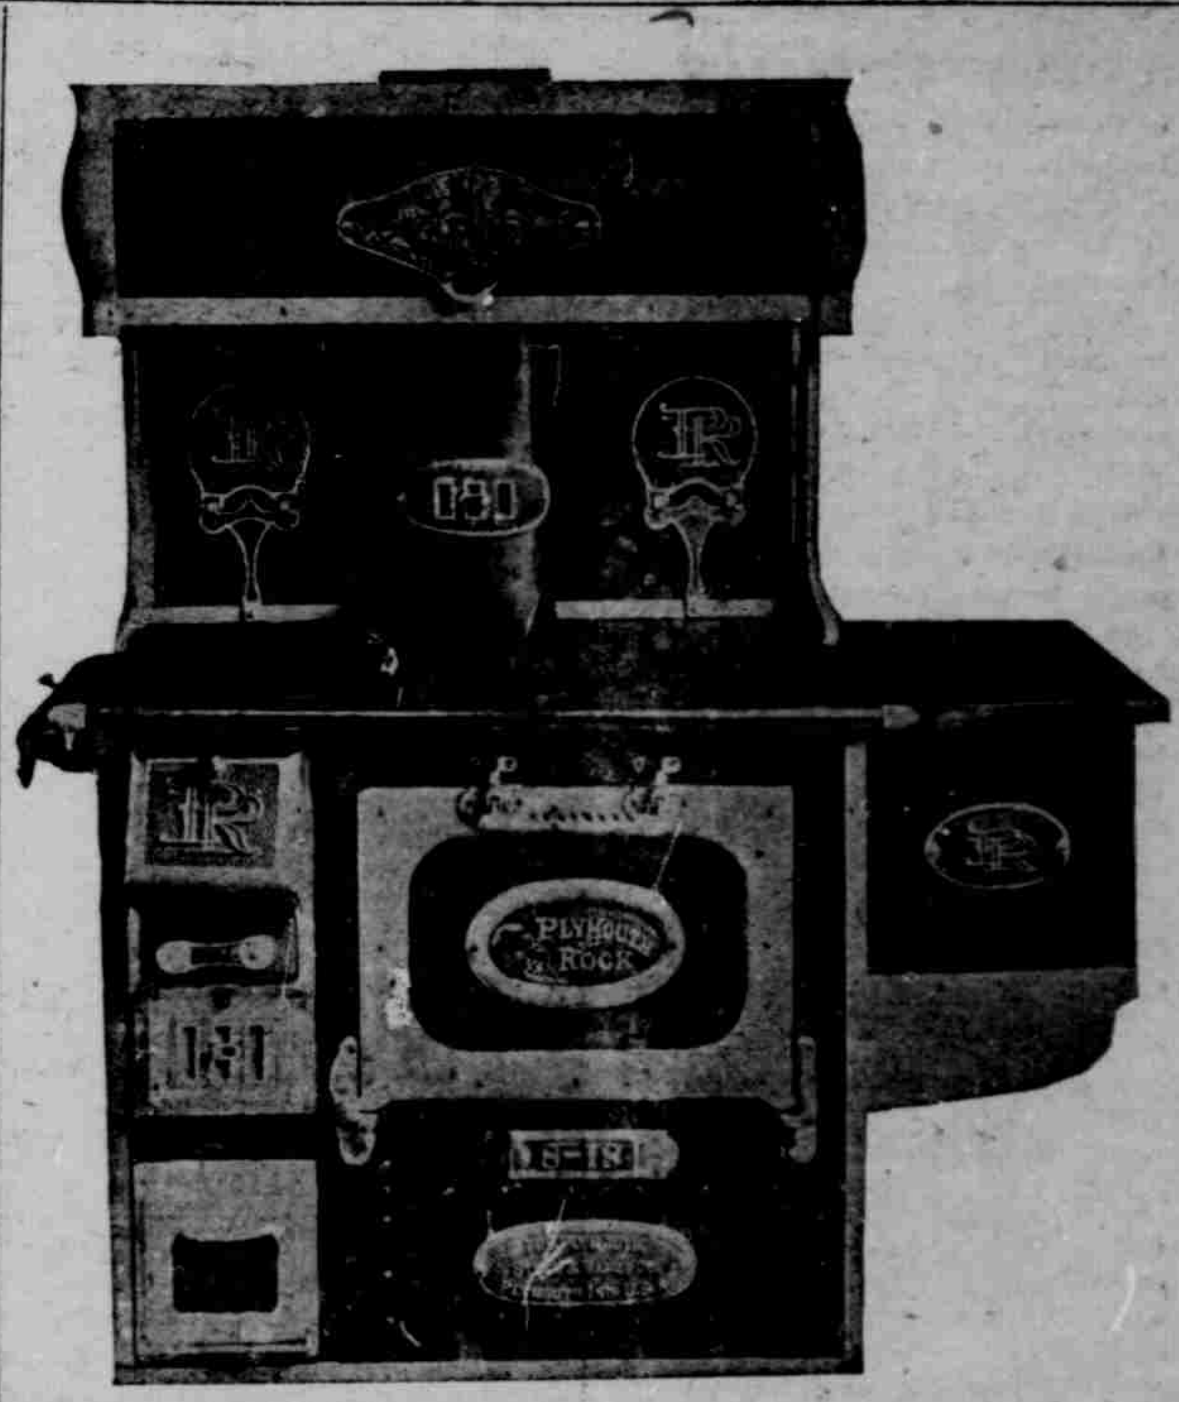

Editor Metesker of the Democrat now claims all honors for the Democratic victory in Marshall county. Every Democrat in the county knows that neither he nor his papers bear the slightest influence toward or against any candidate whatever it may be. It was Judge Bernetha and Henry Barnhart that pulled the Democratic ticket through, and no Metesker in the county was deuce high as far as influence was concerned. That was proved when Brother Raymond "ran" for representative.
