PLYMOUTH BOY IN GERMANY.

Tells How the Bonds of Religion Unite Americans Who are in Leipzig.

Leipzig, Oct. 22 '08.

On Friday when I started laboratory work Prof. Miede of Bacteriology came in and introduced himself. He speaks English fluently.

He told me that Prof. Gregory in Theology is an American and has been President of American Club here. So on Sunday when we got out for a walk we went by Prof. Gregory's house and I went in. He turned out to be a most friendly man.

He told me of the American-British church of which Rev. Mr. MacHattin is pastor and in whose house the evening service is held. I went down the same afternoon. Mr. MacHattin is a Scotchman of the Scotch who is glad to admit it. There was gathered a company—many of them Americans—a gentleman from Illinois, a lady from St. Louis and so on. They sang from the Chapel hymnal, the sermon was strong and helpful from a familiar text. Several ladies, also the pastor, promised to call at our house.

So it is and ever will be that the greatest fellowship among men is in the church of Jesus Christ, all around the world, "The Brotherhood of Man."

The Germans themselves are most cordial. We have a pleasant neighbor across the hall upstairs and although she and Mrs. H. are not able as yet to converse much they have exchanged some courtesies which is a good deal better than nothing.

Albert Thomson plays with the little German girl in the flat below and goes to the kindergarten every afternoon. A "kindermädchen" comes for him and brings him home again though it is not far and no doubt he soon can easily come and go alone.

These are most beautiful, hazy October days, though damper always than at home. We are all about as well as we can be. Perhaps it is the effect of the season's change. People told us on "The Neckar" we would feel better than ever in our lives when once we were off the water. We certainly felt then as though that would be the case. Even the sight of the shore-line made us feel fine.

My daily schedule begins at 9 a. m. with a chemistry lecture by Dr. Beckmann and continues either in lecture or laboratory, excepting the one hour from one to two, until six p. m. and on Thursday and Friday until seven. Saturday afternoon there are no classes.

If any one says there is no work doing in German Universities tell him he may be mistaken. They say you don't have examinations. Prof. Pfeiffer holds three examinations every half day and no new material is forthcoming till the old is "klar." We have not had and are not likely to have anything but examinations, and everything is an unknown. But that makes it profitable.

Even what we have done so far has made the trip worth while. It will take a long time to furnish, that is another question. It will, in some ways be harder than we thought and may take longer. But I'll measure my length toward it, and that is not done yet.

Oct. 31.

This morning I found the Botanical Institute locked and deserted. The keeper informed me it was "fast-day" so after reading awhile I went on down to Augustus Platz, where is the main University Building, to see as much as possible of the ceremony attending the inauguration of the new Rector of the University. It seems from what I understood that a new Rector is elected by the faculty every year from one of their own number.

Professor Corollo Chun, the outgoing Rector, was to make a talk reviewing the work of the past year, and the newly elected man also was to respond. The ceremony though public, is a very formal one, especially on the part of the students, many of whom go in uniform, most gorgeously attired.

This afternoon we took a walk to "Napoleon Stein" which is not over a mile from our house. The stone marks the position taken by Napoleon and his staff on the memorable Oct. 19, 1813 when the French armies were defeated by the Allies. Proshchida, a little village easily seen during our walk, was the center of the French position and as nearly as I can gather the armies came together about here in Stotteritz—this suburb of Leipzig where we have our house.

We will walk out over the battlefield some more before long. Today the most dangerous thing in sight was a Dutch windmill peacefully grinding corn.

We got lost, as usual on our way home. The little crooked streets, with only one end, built centuries ago are enough to distract any one. You can depend that you don't know the direction a street will take by the way it starts out. A stranger better have a guide.

Next Tuesday will be the election. We are anxious for news from home.

PLYMOUTH BOY SHOT IN TEXAS

WILLARD WHITE WAS VICTIM OF A SHOT-GUN ACCIDENT.

Right Hand Was Blown Off by Accidental Discharge—Will Lose Right Eye.

William White of this city left for Conlen, Texas Wednesday morning, called there by the critical condition of his son Willard, who was seriously injured, by the accidental discharge of a shotgun, while hunting.

The accident happened a week ago last Saturday. White, with a party of friends, had gone on a hunting trip, in the country near Conlen. While hunting, the hunters came upon a party of neighbors who were threshing. They called upon the boys to help them move their separator, wagons, etc. to a nearby road. White prepared to help in the moving, and seizing his shot gun by the end of the barrel, started to place it in the blower of the separator. The hammer was caught and snapped, and the entire charge of shot, was fired into the arm, chest and face of White. The right hand was so badly mangled, that it had to be amputated three inches above the wrist. Several shot lodged in the face and one pierced the right eye ball, which will probably cause permanent blindness.

Willard White, is 28 years old, and has been teaching school in Conlen. He is an industrious young man, well known in this county, and the sad way in which he has been maimed evokes sympathy from all who knew him. His father, will remain with Willard, until he is able to travel, when he will return with his son to Plymouth.

TWO MEN BREAK JAIL.

Sheriff Voreis Receives News of a Delivery Which Occurred at Peru, Ind.

Sheriff Voreis has received instructions to keep a lookout for George Bowman, 27, and Henry Holtz, 30, who broke jail at Peru last night. When Sheriff Voreis went to feed the prisoners he found only one remaining. He told the sheriff the other two prisoners had broken a lever which operated the cell doors, and with it they had pounded a hole in the wall beneath a window. Bowman and Holtz were convicted of larceny and had been sentenced to the penitentiary. They dropped twenty feet in escaping, and they left the jail just at dark.

Bowman is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, has dark complexion, smooth face and wears a stiff hat and blue overalls. Holtz is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 200 pounds, has light complexion, as hard of hearing, and wears a soft hat blue overalls and black coat.

SEND SARBER TO SCHOOL?

Our Representative-Elect Could Get in a Few Months Before the Legislature Convenes.

In commenting on the letter from Representative-elect W. L. Sarber of Argos, to W. H. Love of this city, as published in the Tribune several days ago, the Warsaw Times suggests that the age limit of the school law should be raised. The suggestion is in the right direction. Of course Sarber was elected representative because he was a Democrat. In his own township, Walnut, where his fitness was well known, he was defeated by 40 votes. It is split milk now, but most of the voters of Marshall county pay taxes toward supporting the state institutions, and would like to be represented in the state legislature. Why wouldn't it be a good plan to start a collection for the purpose of sending Sarber to a grammar school for a few months until legislature convenes? It might help some.

But we have hopes in the future. Even in this county the independent voter is beginning to assert himself, and Sarber was elected by a greatly reduced majority.

TAKE FIRST PRIZE.

Schlosser Bros. of Plymouth Have Best Carload of 2500 Berkshire Hogs.

A carload of 52 Berkshire hogs, averaging 228 pounds in weight, the property of Schlosser Bros., of this city, took first prize in the class of hogs of their weight, at the Chicago Stock Show Tuesday. The swine were in charge of E. C. Salsbury, who manages the Schlosser hog farm, west of this city.

The grand prize for champion 2-year-old steer, was won by Fyvie Knight, an animal raised by students of Purdue Agricultural School.

Reason Why Butter is High.

Butter is too high and the reason has just been disclosed by investigators, who assert that there is a combination of Chicago, Elgin and Eastern produce men which is seeking to corner the supply in an effort to still further advance prices. Ten million pounds more butter is in storage this year than last and the alleged "corner" is said to have had its origin last June, when the best part of the season's pack was put up.

STATE CONTROL OF UTILITIES

BILL WILL BE INTRODUCED IN THE NEXT SESSION OF LEGISLATURE.

Would Give Railroad Commission Wide Power Over All Public Utilities Of State.

A complete public utilities bill, giving the railroad commission wide power over all public utilities of the state and carrying a maximum appropriation of $52,000, has just been published in pamphlet form and copies are being distributed by the Indiana Manufacturers and Shippers' Association. It will be introduced in the next general assembly early in the session. Material which was used in drafting the measure was gathered under the direction of J. V. Zartman, secretary, and other officers of the association.

Before drafting the bill the association made a thorough study of the public utilities law if Wisconsin, and in addition talked to officials of that state and obtained their views as to the weaknesses of the Wisconsin law. It might be said that the measure which has just been completed is such measure as would be framed now by the Wisconsin authorities if they were doing it all over again. Operation of the Wisconsin law showed there were many features which might be changed to advantage. In drafting the bill which is proposed for Indiana, the manufacturers and shippers' association has attempted to avoid all of these weak places.

The entire question will be taken up at the annual meeting of the association, which will be held in Indianapolis December 9 and 10.

It is declared that "public utility," as used in the bill proposed, shall mean ever corporation, company, individual, association of individuals, their lessees, trustees or receivers and every town, city or village that now or hereafter may own, operate, manage or control, any plant or equipment within the state for the conveyance of telephone messages, or for the production, transmission, delivery or furnishing of heat, light, water or power either directly or indirectly to or for the public.

The Railroad Commission, it is provided, shall have full power to investigate the rates charged for service by any public utility company. If there is complaint by consumers the commission shall give the complainant and the public utility complained of ten days' notice of the time and place where the hearing and investigation is to be held. If on investigation, any rate or service is found to be unreasonable or discriminatory or prejudicial the commission, shall have the power to substitute other rates, and in such instance the cost of the investigation shall be borne by the utility at fault.

A public utility, also may make complaint on any matter affecting the service. The section relating to complaint by consumers provides that such complaint shall be made by any mercantile, agricultural or manufacturing society or by any political or twenty-five persons, firms, corporations or associations. It is provided further that the commission may make summary investigations without complaint of any kind. When a company is dissatisfied with an order issued by the commission it may begin action in the circuit or superior court of Marion county to set aside such order. In all court actions growing out of the provisions of the act the burden of proof shall be on the party adverse to the commission and no person shall be excused from testifying or from producing books or papers on the ground that such evidence may tend to incriminate him or subject him to fine or forfeiture.

Star Papers Change Hands.

John C. Shaffer of Chicago said Friday that he had purchased Daniel R. Reid's interests in the Star Publishing company, which includes the Indianapolis Star, Muncie Star, and Terre Haute Star. Argument in the federal court to dismiss the receivership of the properties was heard Friday. No decision has been made yet.

MARRIED

Engle—Crum.

John Engle of Bremen and Anna Crum of LaPaz were married at the millinery parlors of Miss L. K. Langdon on LaPorte street, by Justice Young Wednesday. The groom is a farmer, residing near Bremen, and the young couple will live there.

Bradley—Myers.

At high noon on Dec. 1 a pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Myers, three miles east of Plymouth, at which time their only daughter, Harriet Grace was united in marriage to Mr. Bruce M. Bradley of near Pretty Lake. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Smith in the presence of a number of immediate relatives, after which a sumptuous wedding repast was served. These estimable and worthy young people justly receive the hearty congratulations of a very large number of friends and acquaintances. They will shortly be at home to their many friends on a farm near the residence of the groom's father, Mr. William Bradley of near Pretty Lake.

Winter is Here.

The first day of December brought winter weather and the mercury marked only eight above zero the second morning.

It has been cooler and warmer by spells during the past month, even milder than November might be expected to be, and the long looked for rain came just as everybody was despairing, so that no one has any complaint on account of the weather. And now the first cold spell has arrived on schedule time, giving us a forecast of what is to be the regular bill for the next three months. There has been abundant time to prepare

Had Trouble to Explain.

An old colored man stole a pig and after getting home with the animal knelt to pray before retiring. His wife heard him praying to the Lord to forgive him for stealing the pig.

She went to sleep with Uncle Eph still praying. Later in the night she woke up and saw him still kneeling in prayer. At daybreak his supplications had not ceased. "Eph, why don't you come to bed?" asked his wife. "Let me 'lone, 'Rah; de mo' I tries to 'splain to de Lord how I come to steal dat pig de wurser I get mixed."
