

Cured Rheumatism. Nearly everybody is susceptible to a twinge of rheumatism, sciatica, toothache, headache or neuralgia, and it's never safe to be without a good remedy for an emergency of this kind.

No matter what kind of pain you have the beneficial effect of Sloan's Liniment is immediate. You lay it on lightly—no bubbling whatever—and a pleasant warmth is felt at once. The Liniment penetrates right to the bone and quickly stops the pain.

Mr. Chas. J. Budlong of Anthony, R. I. Box 125, writes: "For many years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. My hips would swell to enormous proportions and my knee joints would pain me in the most excruciating, awful manner imaginable. I used often to have to fall from the bed into a chair and thence to the floor when I wanted to get up from my bed. I used only some six or eight bottles of your celebrated Liniment and was cured. I cheerfully recommend its use to all rheumatic sufferers. Refer to me if you like.

His Whole Duty.

It is not often that one man is called upon to assume the duties of an army. Such a case is on record, however, and is cited in Benjamin Wiley's "History of the White Mountains." At the first legal meeting of the citizens of the little town of Albany, New Hampshire, every soldier in the place was summoned to assemble.

The officers were duly chosen, but it turned out that there was only one private. Looking wistfully at his superiors standing in array before him, the solitary representative of the ranks said:

"Gentlemen, I have only one request to make; that is, as I am the only soldier, I hope you will not be too severe in drilling me, but spare me a little, as I may be needed another time."

He also remarked that he could form a solid column, but that "it racked him shockingly to deploy."

One More Unfortunate.

The police looked at the battered, disreputable specimen of manhood before him and turned to the policeman.

"Officer," he asked, "what is the complaint?"

"Rheumatiz, y' know," spoke up the prisoner, answering for himself.—Chicago Tribune.

$50,000 FOR FUR OUTFIT.

What is Frequently Paid for a Coat, Bon and Muff.

I find that six thousand dollars for a coat is only a fair price; in fact it is a very low price for a coat of fine sable. As witness this talk that I had with the other day with New York's leading furrier:

"Can you show me a good sable coat?" I inquired.

"Russian sable?" he asked.

"Yes," said I, "something especially fine—say about six thousand dollars."

He smiled. "We haven't anything made up that I would call especially fine. We have a rather short coat of rather light skins, moderate quality, that will cost ten thousand dollars."

"Ten thousand dollars?" I exclaimed. "Then what would a good coat cost?"

He continued to smile and produced a number of fine skins—the real Imperial sable, very dark with silver highlights playing through the soft fur. And he showed me the price marks, five hundred and fifty dollars a skin, about ten dollars a square inch.

"This is the best Siberian sable," he went on. "A coat of moderate length, say thirty inches, requires sixty skins and—"

"Sixty times five hundred and fifty," I murmured.

"Thirty-three thousand dollars, which includes the cost of making."

"And a longer coat?" I gasped.

"One reaching to a lady's ankles would require, say eighty skins, that is forty-four thousand dollars," he replied rather matter-of-fact.

"And you sell coats at such prices?" I continued in amazement.

"We sell this kind of sable as fast as we can get it. The best skins are very scarce."

"And a muff?" I asked, meekly. "Just a muff?"

"Five skins," said he, "twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars. There's one in the 'show case'."

"And a bon? A little bon?"

"Four skins at least, that is twenty-two hundred dollars."

Here then evidently I erred not on the side of exaggeration but of under-estimation; I put down thirty thousand dollars as the maximum yearly sum that a few New York women spend on dress, including everything, whereas nearly fifty thousand dollars may be spent simply for a fur coat with bon and muff!—Success Magazine.

Glow of Health Speaks for Postum.

It requires no scientific training to discover whether coffee disagrees, or not.

Simply stop it for a time and use Postum in place of it, then note the beneficial effects. The truth will appear.

"Six years ago I was in a very bad condition," writes a Tenn. lady. "I suffered from indigestion, nervousness and insomnia."

"I was then an inveterate coffee drinker, but it was long before I could be persuaded that it was coffee that hurt me. Finally I decided to leave it off a few days and find out the truth."

"The first morning I left off coffee I had a raging headache, so I decided I must have something to take the place of coffee." (The headache was caused by the reaction of the coffee drug—caffein.)

"Having heard of Postum through a friend who used it, I bought a package of it. I did not like it at first, but after I learned how to make it right, according to directions on pkg, I would not change back to coffee for anything."

"When I began to use Postum I weighed only 117 lbs. Now I weigh 170 and as I have not taken any tonic in that time I can only attribute my recovery of good health to the use of Postum in place of coffee."

"My husband says I am a living advertisement for Postum. I am glad to tell the means of inducing my many friends to use Postum, too."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs. "There's a reason."

According to the accepted authorities there are 3,424 spoken languages in the world to-day; or, perhaps, it would be more accurate to say dialects. Of this number 937 are Asiatic, 857 European, 162 African and 1,624 American. By far the greatest number of these belong to savage and semi-savage tribes and nations.

France's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has taken action against a cinematograph company for an act of unprecedent cruelty to a horse. In a series of pictures called "The Lover's Revenge," a carriage drawn by a horse was seen to rush over the edge of a cliff and be dashed to pieces. The pictures had not been faked. An old blind horse harnessed to a carriage was really driven over the edge of the cliff near Bourgogne to the shoulders. Another thing, we try to avoid a low draft. BAD ITCHING HUMOR.

Limbs Below the Knees Were Raw—Feces Swollen—Sleep-Cured in 2 Days by Cuticura.

"Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. For two or three weeks the suffering was intense and during that time I did not sleep an hour at a time. Then one morning I tried a bit of Cuticura. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. George B. Farley, 50 South State St., Concord, N. H., May 14, 1907."

Reading a Horse's Face.
Every horse carries an index to his temper and intelligence in his face. The teachable, tractable animal is broad and that between the eyes; the bold ridge of his face is slightly from the point where the face narrows toward the nostrils. His ears are well set, sensitive and far apart, with a well defined ridge of bone extending across the top of the head between them. Always feel for this ridge in judging a horse. The eye should be large, clear and bright, with a prominent ridge of bone along the inner and upper edge of the socket.—London Am.
