My Early Friend.

While far away in distant climes Fond memory brings to me The rosy hours of boyhood times I once enjoyed with thee.

Our youthful sports around the lawn. Our play along the brook, And childish scenes from Nature drawn Would write a curious book.

Our school day games when boys and girls Played on the common green. With harmless locks and waving curls Around the May-day queen.

And still, along amid our "teens," I felt the pride of beaux, And named you fairest of the queens In spite of jealous foes.

Our evening walks our country ride, I often dream them o'er, While fancy paints you by my side As fresh as days of yore.

Often wonder if old time Has left you fresh and fair, And blest your health as has mine, Nor changed your glossy hair.

Has fortune smiled these many years Or Fate laid heavy hand? Has sorrow filled your eyes with tears, Or plenty blessed your hand?

What'er your lot, where'er you roam, My heart's best offering keep, And eulogies on my earthly store, While I have a chance to reap.

The Freedmen's Bureau. Thaddeus Stevens, from the committee on appropriations, reported a bill in Congress, a few days since, of $111,584,000 for the support of the Freedmen's Bureau during the ensuing year. Of this amount $4,165,750 are to be applied for the purchase of commissary stores—bacon, flour, tea, &c., to be furnished to the freedmen gratuitously; $750,000 for the purchase of clothing; $500,000 for medicines and medical expenses; $1,508,000 for "transportation" purposes—that is, when a freedman wishes to take a pleasure trip the Bureau will furnish him the means; and $3,000,000 to build school houses and asylums for the freedmen and their offsprings.

It will be noticed that the poor white people, already over-taxed and groaning under the weight of direct and indirect taxation, are called upon in addition to feeding and clothing the freedmen, also to provide buildings and pay for the education of their children. What do the people think of paying $11,584,000 for the support and maintenance of a parcel of freedmen, vulgarly called negroes, whose only claim, if they can consider claims, are that they once were slaves and had been liberated from bondage at an expense of a million of dollars and a sacrifice of thousands of precious lives.

It would be better for the freedmen if they were employed in some useful and productive calling, where they could earn their own livelihood, and rely upon their own resources, instead of being a burden upon an over-taxed and impoverished people. Thaddeus Stevens has never, so far as we have any knowledge, deemed it necessary to legislate for the poor white people of the country. They have always been considered capable of taking care of themselves, and if they were not, these fanatics, these worshippers of the freedmen, allowed them to die of starvation. When will the white people come to their senses and hurl from power the unprincipled demagogues whose love and friendship for the freedmen is greater than for them. Arouse, freemen, arouse, and assert your rights ere it is too late.—Cin. Eng.

Loss of Life by Fire. The Detroit Evening Press says the remains of persons who perished in the late disastrous fire of the railroad depot, in that city, are being daily discovered as the debris is removed. The Free Press of Saturday says:

"Yesterday morning, while the workmen were engaged in clearing away the debris, they discovered the charred and blackened remains of another victim, which circumstances point toward being those of Michael Connors, a workman in the depot, who was seen rushing toward the centre of the building while the dread flames were encircling every thing within their fiery grasp. But little remains of the roasted trunk by which to identify the victim, but it is considered that it is that of the above mentioned."

"As if this was not sufficient to curdle the blood in the veins, we have again to record the discovery of the remains of two children and one adult, who perished in the sleeping car, or the one adjoining. The sad evidences of their fate were found late in the day by those engaged in removing the ruins. The remains of the children were found on each side of the track where the sleeping car stood, and those of the adult a short distance beyond. It is not known who the parties were or where they belonged."

Return of H. H. Dodd to Indianapolis. Harrison H. Dodd, Esq., who was tried by a pretended military commission at Indianapolis in 1865, as a Son of Liberty, and escaped before it was concluded to Canada, has returned to Indianapolis. He was willing to stand a trial under the laws of his country, but he had an objection to being murdered by an illegal tribunal "organized to convict." Hence his escape. We presume we shall hear no more of the affair, and that Mr. Dodd will be unmolested.

Arrival of the Head Center James Stephens. The French steamer, having the Head Center James Stephens on board, has arrived on our shores. Stephens, it will be remembered, escaped from an English prison after his arrest a few months since. He will be received by the Fenian Brotherhood in this country with great enthusiasm. They have been, for some time, expecting his arrival.

Reconstruction.

The Reconstruction Committee, on Monday, April 30th, made the following report, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States:

SECTION 1. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the law.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be appointed among the several States, which shall be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed; but, whenever, in any State, the elective franchise shall be denied to any person of its male citizens not less than twenty-one years of age, or in any way abridged, unless for participating in the rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation in such State shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens not less than twenty-one years of age.

Sec. 3. Until the 1st of July, 1870, all persons who voluntarily adhered to the late insurrection, giving aid and comfort shall be excluded from the right to vote for members of Congress, and for Electors for President and Vice President of the United States.

Sec. 4. Neither the United States, nor any State, shall assume or pay any debt or obligation already incurred, or which may hereafter be incurred, in aid of insurrection or war against the United States, or any claim for compensation for the loss of involuntary service or labor.

Sec. 5. Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

"Now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That whenever the above recited amendments shall have become a part of the Constitution of the United States, and any State lately in insurrection shall have ratified the same, and shall have modified its Constitution and laws therewith, the Senators and Representatives from States, if found duly elected and qualified, shall, after taking the required oaths of office, be admitted into Congress as such; Provided, That no person shall be eligible to any of the offices under the United States, who is included in any of the following cases, viz:
