

I OVERHEARD a moonstruck chap the other day, (writes Daryl Doyle), remark that he loved a certain young lady well enough to die for her. Now, I love somebody very much and

I'd swear for her—
I'd tear for her—
The Lord knows what I'd bear for her;
I'd lie for her—
I'd sigh for her—
I'd drink the Hudson dry for her;
I'd pray for her—
I'd watch the clouds all day for her;
I'd "cuss" for her—
I'd "wuss" for her—
I'd always have a "buss" for her;
I'd lean for her—
I'd weep for her—
I'd go without my sleep for her;
I'd fight for her—
I'd late for her—
I'd walk the streets all night for her;
I'd plead for her—
I'd bleed for her—
I'd go without my feed for her;
I'd shoot for her—
I'd boot for her—
I'd rival who'd come to "toot" for her;
I'd kneel for her—
I'd steal for her—
Such is the love I feel for her;
I'd slide for her—
I'd ride for her—
I'd swim against wind and tide for her;
I'd try for her—
I'd cry for her—
But hanged if I'd die for her,
N. B.—Or any other woman.

Female Sensitiveness.
"I don't wonder," says a lady correspondent of the Chlorion Mercury, "that some women are old maids, they are so wonderfully squeamish and particular that the very proximity of anything masculine makes them nervous. One of this sort lately took passage on one of the river steamers for Sacramento. I will tell you the story as it was told to me. The young lady desired a state-room for herself, but, unfortunately, they were all taken. She was so perturbed in her desires, however, that the gentlemanly clerk of the boat gallantly concluded to give up his for her use. On being conducted to it, she started back in utter horror; the trunk, coats, boots, and all cetera of the masculine occupant so shocked the poor creature!
"Oh, I never could sleep here unless these things are removed."
Off went the chambermaid to the clerk.
"Oh, yes—take 'em out, of course."
The chambermaid proceeded to do so, but by accident left a pair of pantaloons hanging behind the door. The lady was again summoned, and entered the state-room without perceiving them. No sooner had she done so than she heard a scream, and turning about, saw the lady emerging from the room in great agitation.
"Oh! take them out—take them out!" she exclaimed, "I cannot sleep in that place with those things hanging there!"
The chambermaid, who was almost bursting with suppressed laughter, removed the last vestige of masculine apparel, when the delicate and sensitive young lady took possession, "turned in," and no doubt slept without even dreaming of "those things."

Examples in Addition.
To a church without a parson, ad-minister.
To a barrel of liquor, ad-vent.
A deaf person would be glad to have you ad-her.
Your tailor will counsel you to ad-dress.
Poets all desire to ad-verse.
Missionaries are eager to ad-mission.
To those out of employment ad-vocation.
To the custom-house ad-judge.
To the navy it was necessary to ad-monitor.
The Jews are determined to ad-moish.
There's no need for one and another in the streets to ad-mire.
Miners endeavor to ad-age.
On public occasions it is well to ad-omation.
To your other qualities ad-aptness.
To a hungry soldier, say, "ad-my-ration."
With millionaires we'd like to ad-equation.
To wines and liquors ad-age.
The timid should endeavor to ad-valor ("em).
It's hard work now for the thirsty man to ad-inter ("im).
None of us should seek to ad-vice.

Lincoln in his Tomb.
A resident of Columbus, O., on a visit to Springfield, Ill., made a pilgrimage to the tomb of Mr. Lincoln. He thus speaks of it:
"It is not quite two years since I visited here before, yet how changed the scene. Then Lincoln's praises were a everybody's lips; his virtues every one seemed to extol; in front of the vault in which lay his remains, an armed sentinel stood guard day and night; the inside was strewn with flowers, brought there every day by ladies from the city. But now no word of praise is heard; his virtues are forgotten; the tramp of the sentinel is heard no more; no flowers are scattered over his tomb, not one came to visit it, although there were, perhaps, five hundred people around the grounds and in the park adjoining. In a word, there is nothing to remind the visitor of who it is that sleeps within the tomb, except the simple word 'Lincoln' cut on the stone door in large letters."

THE WHEAT CROP.—Our eccentric friend Terhune, says: "If we have as much rain the present month as we had last May, away goes Cockey and the hounds, and that he would not give five thousand dollars for the wheat crop of Floyd. We hope it will not be so bad as our friend predicts, but we have said, feeling recollection of the result of so much rain last year. Already the wheat crop has been cut short from the immense quantity of rain last fall. The head is very short, and the stalk turning yellow in many places. We must hope for the best, and not predict a failure too soon."
Rome (Ga.) Commercial.

QUERER DIALOGUE.—A young lady only the other day, asked me: "What is your favorite flower?" As she was a fashionable young lady, I supposed, of course, she referred to household matters and innocently answered:
"Extra family."

For some reason or other, all the females in the room set up that endless giggle they are so famous for.

EARLY RESPONSIBILITY.—Now, early responsibility is almost equivalent to early sobriety. If a stick of timber standing upright wavers, lay a beam on it, and put a weight on that, and see how stiff the stick becomes. And if young men waver and vacillate, put responsibility on them, and how it struts them up! What power it gives them! How it holds all that is bad in them in restraint! How quickly it develops and puts forward all that is good in them.

The I. R. & C. Railroad.
A correspondent from somewhere, we know not where, furnishes the following intelligence to the Indianapolis Journal:
The people of Rochester are having a great deal of trouble in regard to the La-ports and Peru Railroad. The company which some time ago had the work in hand failed to meet its liabilities with the contractors, and the enterprise stopped with the grading of the road as far as this place. Another company, claiming that it purchased the whole line under mortgage, proposes to complete the road by the first of January next, and asks Fulton county for a donation of $75,000. The county, through its Commissioners, says it will give $50,000, and no more; whereupon the new company threaten to vary from the old grade and ruin three miles off Rochester. Meantime the old Company claims that it yet owns the road from Plymouth to Peru; that the new Company only purchased that part of the line which is yet in running order—from La-ports to Plymouth; that (the old Company) will be in funds, and ready to resume work by the 10th of May. Thus the matter stands, and the prospect now is that the people will have to come to Rochester by hack for sometime to come.

I Can Afford to Lose an Arm for My Country.
At the battle of Kennesaw, a Colonel of the Federal army, gallantly leading his regiment in the charge, was brought from his horse by a bullet from the rifle of a sharp-shooter. The wound was a severe one, and weak and fainting, he was compelled to leave his noble comrades, and go to the rear, to be placed under the surgeon's care. He was informed that the amputation of his "good right arm" was necessary. Nervous himself for the amputation, he said to a brother officer, now a resident of Cleveland, who was commiserating him on his misfortune, "I can afford to lose an arm for my country." The wounded officer was Col. James M. Neibling, recently rejected by the Senate of the United States as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth Ohio District. The gallant officer, who was proud to lose an arm for the sake of his country, is deemed disloyal by the radical majority in the Senate of the United States, and is consequently refused an office, which they desire to give to some able-bodied, stay at home radical wire-puller. The treatment Col. Neibling and other soldiers, rejected, have received from the Senate is a commentary upon the boasted love for the "boys in blue" so loudly mouthed a few weeks ago.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

At the recent city caucus in St. Joseph, Missouri, General Bradshaw, a candidate in opposition to the Drake Radicals, made a speech, in which he said:
"It was consistent that there was a majority of honest men in the city, and that the whole ticket placed in nomination would be elected. All should bear in mind that the fight was being waged against the most corrupt party of scoundrels ever permitted by God to breathe—men of no moral principle, and banded together solely for public plunder. He claimed to be a Radical, but not of the stripe of those who put their hands into the pockets of other persons, and then cry rebel in order to make good their stealings."
General Bradshaw was a Union Federal officer, but he understood the character of the loyal radicals that were crying "rebel," and at the same time were stealing themselves rich while making that "patriotic" cry. The Devil is swinging around the circle, and has a "loyalist" at either end to gather in the greenbacks for the benefit of his patriotic adherents. Vice la humbug!

Young Men, Pay Attention.
Don't be a loafer, don't call yourself a loafer, don't hang about loafing places.—Better work for nothing and board yourself than sit around corners with your hands in your pockets. Better for your mind, for your own respect. Bustle about if you mean to have anything to bustle for. Many a poor physician has obtained a real patient by riding hard to attend an imaginary one. A quire of old paper, tied with a red tape, carried under a lawyer's arm, may procure him his first suit, and make his fortune. Such is the world. To him that hath shall be given. Omit darning and complaining, keep busy and mind your chances.

A little more than two years ago the municipal officers of the town of Richmond, in Wayne county, permitted a regiment of Iowa soldiers to destroy the printing office of Mr. James Elder, because they had been told by some of the Radicals in the town that a "copperhead" newspaper was issued from the office. Mr. Elder was also brutally beaten by a Radical rowdy, who was permitted to go unpunished. On last Tuesday a Democratic Mayor was elected in Richmond, and Mr. James Elder, with four other Democrats, elected to the City Council, composing a majority of that body. Such are the revenges of time.—N. A. Liberator.

The crops in Florida, so far as we can learn, were never more promising. Within a day or two, we have visited several plantations. The corn is looking well generally. With suitable seasons and work at the right time, there will be plenty made for the demand. Of cotton there is a good stand. Many planters have finished "chopping out." The freedmen are working better than they did last year, and if they continue in well-doing, there is every reason to believe that a good crop will be made.—Tallahassee Floridian, 7.

Embonpoint is the fashion at Paris now, and some of the most stylish ladies secure it by wearing false India rubber stomachs.

"Sambo, why does ebery dog shake his own tail?" "Cause he can't shake any other. Yaw, yaw!"

When you put on your stockings, why are you sure to make a mistake? Because you must put your foot in it.

Why is the early grass like a pen-knife? Because the spring brings out the blades.

Little girls believe in the man in the moon—big girls believe in a man in the honey-moon.

What day in the year is an injunction to go forward?—March 4th.

What time is most appropriate for tobacco-chewers? A spittoon.

Why is the fish an eccentric animal? Because he will have his (s)wim.
