CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The democracy of the 11th congressional district will meet in convention at Watah, June 15th, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for congress.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Marshall county Democratic Convention, to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be filled at the October election, 1868, will be held in Plymouth, at the court-house, on

at 1 o'clock, p. m.

The democratic vote at the last presidential election will be taken as the basis for representation. This gives

Union	13
Center	13
Greene	10
Boone	26
German	20
Tipton	8
Scott	8
Pike	11
West	11
Walton	11

The townships are requested to meet and appoint delegates on Saturday, June 27, without fail. It is important that all the delegates be present, and that contingents be selected who will attend in case of absence of regular delegates.

A general attendance of democrats from the county at large on that day will be heartily welcome, for consultation and "a good time" generally.

By order of Central Committee.

THE NEW YORK CONVENTION.

Probably no prospective event in the political history of the country has ever occurred, which was looked forward to with as much anxiety, as the New York convention is anticipated by the American people of all parties. It is the subject of discussion everywhere, and at all times. Democrats are everywhere confident that if that convention gives us the choice of the masses for a candidate, and a platform such as true democrats everywhere demand, that a most glorious, complete and triumphant victory awaits us in November; while, on the other hand, our enemies are evidently disheartened, and are fearfully looking forward to the political calamities which are in store for them. The nomination of Grant has fallen still-born upon the masses of the party. There is no enthusiasm whatever for the platform or the nominees of the Chicago convention.

Grant is known to be the candidate of the bondholders and monied aristocrats of the country, and, of course, inimical to the interests of the laboring, toiling millions whose energies are taxed to support a bondholding aristocracy. The people want a candidate on whom they can rely in any emergency. They want a platform which, when carried into effect, will guarantee equal rights to white men in all parts of the country. They want the government administered on the principles of equality and justice, with no favoritism to the rich, or oppression of the poor; or the principle that the bondholders should take just such money for his demands against the government, as the government compels the plowholder to take for his demands. With such a candidate, and such a platform at the New York convention, the cohorts of radicalism will be as chaff before the whirlwind. So mote it be.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The republican county convention (of which a full report is given in another column) was remarkable only for its lack of numbers and the anxiety of the gentlemen present to decline the honor of being nominated for any of the offices to be filled at the October election. With one exception no gentleman present was proposed who did not at once decline having his name used. The excuses offered by the gentlemen were various, and reminded us of the reasons given by certain of the Jews in olden time for non-attendance at the table of a rich man, who made a great feast, and bade many.

One said "I have a sick wife, and must needs stay at home and doctor her: I pray thee have me excused."

Another said, "I have a piece of land, and I must needs farm it: I pray thee have me excused."

And they should have said, "We rats are hopelessly in the minority in this county and to receive a nomination will insure our defeat and the expending of much money, which we dearly love: Therefore, we pray thee, have us excused."

"Excuse me," "excuse me," was the burden of their song, and although radicals are usually keen enough for the loaves and fishes, a less ambitious set of fellows was never seen.

With the exception of Messrs Westervelt, Cleveland and Pomeroy, the names composing the ticket are unknown to fame— which, coupled with the fact that they were absent from the convention and could not help themselves, was the reason of their nomination.

The first two resolutions would have been better had the framers distributed a few more "state" and "nationals" through them. The last resolution is merely the stereotyped assertion employed by radicals whenever county affairs are alluded to. If the success of this cry in times past is a criterion by which to judge of the future, democrats can safely count on one thousand majority next fall. How's Fuller's exhibit?

It is announced that Thad. Stevens is preparing four articles of impeachment, on which he proposes to again have the president tried. It is to be hoped that this announcement will prove true. If the project should receive sufficient encouragement from congress to insure another official impeachment trial, we candidly believe that the task of swallowing the nauseating dose dealt out by the leaders in the move to depose the president will prove too much for thousands of republicans who were induced by the party lash to give in their adhesion to the conduct of the radical majority of congress in the recent trial of the president. Another impeachment trial will be the rock on which the different factions of the party will split. The work of disintegration in the party of great moral ideas has already begun, and the democracy will, complete the work in November.

In noticing the astute individual who nominally runs the Bourbon correspondence of our neighbor over the way, THE DEMOCRAT intended to inflict no serious injury upon his future prospects; but the unalterable workings of "cause and effect" frequently produce results which are never dreamed of in the "philosophic" of the wisest. This is true of our remarks. We merely intended to show that Baylor was an ass; "only that, and nothing more." But how far have the results of that remark outrun our expectations! THE DEMOCRAT has nominated Baylor for sheriff on the radical ticket by giving him notoriety! Forgive us, H. B., we did not intend to do you so grave an injury.

The Republican says:
"Pray tell us what you want with the big gun?"
Together with many other democrats, we should like to know where the rats, obtained the "big gun";
If "borrowed," as they say, who had the authority to lend it?
How much taxes do democrats pay to furnish Indiana radicalism with guns and powder for the ensuing campaign?
Friend Republican, please answer these questions? They have been dodged often enough, and the people are anxious to have them answered.

A. JOHNSON (not Andrew) is the radical nominee for representative from St. Joseph and Marshall counties. "All quiet on the Pot-omac."

ED. DEMOCRAT.—Although I have privately announced to my friends who have personally inquired of me if I should be a candidate before the democratic convention of Marshall county, for representative, that it would be impossible for me to accept the nomination, if tendered to me, yet many of my friends remaining in ignorance of the fact, I wish, in order that there may be no misunderstanding on the subject, and that the convention may assemble fully prepared to select from the names presented, to state through your columns that I am not a candidate for re-nomination; and, were the position unanimously tendered me, private causes render it entirely impossible for me to accept it. I am very grateful for past favors, and shall endeavor to partially reciprocate them by an earnest and hearty support of all democratic principles and candidates.

Very truly yours,
D. E. VANVALKENBURGH.

CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.

CHICAGO, June 22d, 1868.

This is emphatically a day of rest for Chicago. Yesterday closed the grand "Fest" of the "Nordamerikanischen Sängerbund," closed it with a huge picnic, after five days and nights of almost continual jamboree. I have gone through it all, faithfully, sleeping, as nearly as I am now able to remember, an average of about three hours per diem, and devoting the rest of the time to music, beer and "gemuetlichkeit," so that I can swear, if need be, from my own knowledge, to the magnitude of the elephant which I have thus beheld from the tip of his proboscis, even unto the extremity of his caudal appendage. Unhesitatingly then, I affirm that this has been the most extensive and successful musical festival ever held in this country—that it has given our citizens a new appreciation of German character and taste, and that the influence of the lesson it has taught will never be lost in the north-west. We have been visited by about fifteen hundred representatives of seventy-two different singing societies, all German, from different sections of our country, and even from Europe. They have represented all grades of society, all shades of political feeling, all various faiths, but one powerful bond has united them, the love of song with one accord, as with one heart, their voices have blended together in the sublime choruses of liberty, love and fatherland. Their two grand concerts at the Rink, which was for the time being, christened the Fest-Hall, were the most magnificent musical entertainments ever given in this city, and their picnic, without entering into the question of propriety of holding it on Sunday, was one of the most memorable occurrences of the year, as a scene of complete but sober enjoyment and brotherly feeling. Do not smile and suggest "beer" when I say "sober," for at no time has there been fewer cases of intoxication in our police courts. A drunken German could scarcely be found and not a single wrangle or quarrel marred the general happiness of the occasion. Chicago has reason to be proud of the manner in which her duties of hostess were discharged. The welcome tendered to their guests was hearty, and from Americans as much as Germans. The streets were decorated richly with evergreens, German and American flags, mottoes of welcome, etc., and on the occasion of the great torch-light procession which opened the Fest there was a general illumination on the streets along which the procession passed.

A very sad accident transpired here yesterday. You remember, probably, my mentioning some time since, the building of a boat, called the "Little Western," only twenty feet long, in which it was proposed that Prof. Legendre and Captain Garrett, her inventors, should cross the Atlantic, to demonstrate her superior worth as a life boat, and the value of the theories upon which she was constructed. The boat was built, launched, and yesterday started out for a trial trip upon the lake, having on board six persons. While on the lake, she capsized. Mr. H. Chisholm, who has been a newspaper reporter in this city, for years, was in the cabin at the time, quite beyond any mortal aid, was immediately drowned. All the others were thrown into the water, but clung to the boat, and with the exception of Capt. Garrett, who became exhausted and died before help came to them, were saved; two lives were however lost—a bad initiation for a lifeboat.

The "Black Crook" and "White Fawn" are still running in opposition, but their business was seriously interfered with last week by the Fest.

The St. James Hotel, on the corner of State and Washington Streets has recently changed hands, and is now under the protection of Messrs. W. P. F. Meserve and W. Libbey, and has been made one of our first class hotels. Their table stands in the care of Mr. C. W. Maynard, their efficient and indefatigable steward, and will compare favorably with either the Sherman or Tremont, while Mr. H. F. Kittredge, the clerk is one of those invaluable rara avis, a hotel clerk who knows his business, discharges his duties well and is polite and considerate of the wants of all with who he is brought in contact. Mr. Maynard has had several years experience in his very responsible business, both on ocean steamers and hotels, and certainly "knows how to run a hotel."

In base ball matters last week was a disastrous one to Chicago. We had a sort of tournament here. The "Forest City" Club of Rockford, beat easily our best bet crack, highflyer "Excelsior" club. Then the "Athletics" of Philadelphia came along and in turn demolished our faith in the "Excelsiors," by first beating them fearfully and then beating the other club which had before beat them. Then the "Athletics" of Brooklyn, N. Y. took it up and in turn crushed the "Excelsiors." There is a general tendency among the members of the "Excelsiors" to seek other sports, where they will "stand some show."

The June racing meeting on Dexter Park last week was not altogether a success.

—It needs only four hundred men and two generals to get up a revolution in Mexico.

—Dr. Parker, of New York, says he can produce a living headless rooster in a month.

—There are only twenty-three Springfield, ten Westfields, and eight Pittsfields in the United States.

—To the democracy of the state, greeting: Under the auspices of the young men's democratic association of Chicago, there will be a representation of the yeomanry of our party, attending the national democratic convention to assemble in New York, July 4, 1868. Arrangements will be perfected for the care and accommodation of all those attending. We shall have our headquarters and meeting hall in the city of New York. We shall be committed only to the nominee of the convention. The expense will be small. We cordially invite the democracy of the state and the north-west to unite with us. All those desirous of attending the convention will profit by uniting with us. Members of the committee will be in attendance at democratic headquarters, No. 55 Dearborn street, from twelve o'clock to two p. m., to receive the names of those desirous of joining with the excursion. Let the democracy of the north-west rally in effecting a representation of our people.

GEORGE V. BYRD, Chairman,
N. C. MYERS,
WILLIAM A. CAMPBELL,
The democratic press throughout the north-west, in the interest of the party, are requested to copy this notice.

—The personal property of Cincinnati foots up $43,450,000.

—Diamonds to the amount of $20,000,000 are owned by private persons in New York.

—Women are gradually working their way into the watch making business in the east.

—The coachmakers in New York are preparing to strike for an advance upon $3 a day, the present wages.

—The New York bricklayers ask $1 50 and eight hours work per day, instead of $5 and ten hours, the present rates.

—We are authorized to say that Gen. Grant will make no harrangues this summer. He will smoke his cigar, and Colfax take the stump.

—Thurloe Weed says that Greeley, while in the New York constitutional convention, was so profane and blasphemous as to shock and disgust his fellow members. What! Greeley, the man of "moral ideas!"

—The Prussians affect to believe that certain important schemes have been discovered in Silesia, which reveal the existence of a plot to involve the lesser European powers with France in a war against them.

—A new variety of corn, the result of selecting seed, and of high culture, has originated in Minnesota. The yield last year was as high as one hundred and thirty-seven bushels to the acre.

—The last legislature of New Jersey passed a law providing that fathers and husbands who desert, neglect, or refuse to provide for their families, shall be adjudged disorderly persons, and dealt with accordingly.

—One of the leading women of the demimonde in Paris is a beautiful mulatto girl from Savannah. She is owned by the rich Vicomte de Guezet, has a house of her own in the Rue d'Aiguille, four servants, a carriage, and a box at the theatre Italien.

—John D. Wharton, the young man who attempted suicide on Sunday, the 7th inst., in his room at the hotel, at Madison, by shooting himself, died of the self-inflicted injuries on the evening of the 25th, about half-past ten o'clock.

—The city council of Muncie held a called meeting on the 24th inst., and made an appropriation of $6,000 to secure the building of the junction railroad to that point.

—The Rev. Nathan Page, a venerable old colored preacher, dedicated a large new billiard hall, in Columbus, last Tuesday. His text was from the third chapter of Jeremiah, and is said to have been a masterly effort.

—There resides not far from Scottsville in Floyd county, a family named Dermont, consisting of father, mother and nineteen children, seventeen boys and two girls. There are in the family eight pairs of twins, including the two girls and fourteen of the boys.

—Our exchanges report a terrible wind, rain, thunder and lightning storm throughout this state, but more severe in the northern part, on Monday night and Tuesday morning, of last week. In South Bend several houses were struck by lightning, and in one of them, Mr. Donnelly, wife and child were struck and thrown some five or six feet into the yard, but none of them were killed. In Whitley county the Columbia City Post says:

"The whole country is deluged with water; causing immense damage to the growing crops. The damage to the wheat cannot fail to be very great. Most of it being laid down and tangled it up so that it will prevent it from filling perfectly. The corn is also badly damaged by being washed out, and flooded in the low ground. Other crops will suffer in a like manner."

—The "rebellion did not begin at the south," exclaims the New York Tribune. No—it began at the north when state legislatures commenced passing "personal liberty bill" to annul a law of congress.

—Dispatches from Washington to two of the New York papers, state the position of Mr. Johnson on the presidential question as follows:

First choice, Chase; second, Hancock; third, Hendricks; Pendleton he will not support.

—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post states that Mr. Pendleton has written a letter to a friend, saying that the moment any other candidate in the convention receives a single vote more than himself, his name must be withdrawn.

—A few of the democratic journals are very busy just now telling the democratic national convention what it must and what it must not do. We mistrust that the democratic masses have not looked well to their interests or they would have selected these editors as delegates.
