C. C. & L. R. R.—Plymouth is no longer the southern terminus of the above road, but is merely a way station hereafter. Argos is present occupying the position we so long held. The road commenced running trains through to Argos last Tuesday, and it is thought that in about forty days the road will be completed to Rochester.

Success to the work and workmen, say we.

THE concert given last Friday evening, for the benefit of the Episcopal church, bespeaks much credit for Miss Monday and pupils. The tableaux were well arranged, and the entire programme rendered to please the most extravagant expectations. Assistant musical talent from Laporte are entitled to a place in our pleasant memories.

WE received a call yesterday evening from C. J. Riddle, publisher of the Argos Blade. Mr. R. is a young man, energetic, and has a business air. He may not reach the topmost pinnacles of literary fame with Argos for a field, but undoubtedly will do his best to warm up that village. The Blade already has nearly a hundred subscribers, and will soon enlarge. Let democrats and conservatives encourage this and every other enterprise whose object is to instruct and inform.

AN ABOLITION LECTURER.—A certain Dr. SIMS, who delivered a course of lectures on subjects connected with anatomy, physiology, etc., in this place, last week exhibited the eleven foot very plainly on the evening of his last lecture. The doctor's pent-up loyalty could no longer be circumscribed, and an airing of his political sentiments became necessary in view of the subject. He insults every democrat in the hall; and the only wonder and pity is that he was not hissed off the stage. Probably three-fourths of all the money he received while in Plymouth was from democrats; and it may be this fact which induced him to postpone his harangue until his last night in this place. We hope our democratic friends, in places where he may go hereafter, will let him alone severely. A man who will take money from the public for a scientific lecture, and then deliver a political harangue, merits only the scorn and detestation of sensible men of all parties. His lectures are made of some sense, a good deal of nonsense, and enough abolition lies to season the whole.

Pass him round.

MAN KILLED.—A sad accident occurred in this place yesterday afternoon, by which an honest, industrious man lost his life. As the train on the C. C. & L. Railway was leaving this station, Mr. Richard Dalton, of LaPorte, attempted to get on, but missed his footing, and fell on the track in such a position that the forward trucks of the first car passed over one of his legs and one arm, besides injuring him in other ways. He lived thirty or forty minutes without speaking and died. He was kindly cared for by doctors Reynolds and Bailey, but nothing could be done for him. He was an honest man, and a good citizen. He leaves a wife and two children, in LaPorte, whither his remains will be sent for interment. No blame is attached to the railway company or its employees, as the train was moving so slowly that the engineer stopped it before it had moved a half-car length after running over the unfortunate man.

MARRIED.

BENSON—HALEY.—On the 17th inst., by Rev. W. M. Lusk, Jr., Mr. HENRY S. BENSON and Miss JENNIE L. HAWLEY. At St. Thomas' Church, No cards.

WOODBURY—VINALL.—On the 17th inst., by the same, Mr. CHARLES H. WOODBURY and Miss MARY F. VINALL, at St. Thomas' church.

Accompanying the above notices were two of the nicest lots of cake that ever gladdened printer's eye, or caused a pang of regret for a state of single-blessedness. The happy couples, in their journey to that "bourn from which no traveler returns," attended by his friends, were attended, at the outset, by the best wishes of all who were so fortunate as to be present at the ceremonies.

The Maine Election.

The great contest is over, and the result is before the people. Never has there been such a close political contest in Maine, and never before has there been so large a vote polled.

Compared with the election of two years ago, when there was the last full vote in the state, the democrats have made a splendid gain. From the returns at hand, it appears that the republicans majority will fall below 20,000. In 1856, their majority was nearly 28,000.

When we consider the circumstances under which this result has been achieved, the democracy of Maine have reason to rejoice. Never before did they have such a flood of money to meet. The republicans could not have expended in the canvas and election less than one-half-million of dollars. Every man who would sell his vote at any price found ready purchasers.

Not was this all. In the contest of last Monday the democracy of Maine had to contend against the whole power of the consolidated capital of the country. Never before was there such a pressure brought to bear upon employes by employers. Democratic laboring men in the employ of republicans were compelled either to vote the radical ticket or keep away from the polls. One lumberman in this city discharged two young men because they had the independence to go to the polls and vote their honest convictions.

Not was this all. It will be observed that the radicals make the great mass of their gains in the cities and large villages where they had absolute control of the poll lists. Take an example in this city. In ward one the assistant assessor failed to return over 100 voters, and consequently their names were left off the voting list. In addition to this, late on Friday afternoon a gentleman who is an honest man in his own opinion, if in the opinion of nobody else, demanded that notices should be issued to ninety three more democrats whose names were on the list. As Saturday was the last day for getting on names, of course it was impossible to hunt up all those men and get them into the city and prove their rights to vote. Accordingly, the radical board of aldermen were only too willing to strike off the names of all who did not appear. Sixty were struck off at once. Of the 110 left off by the assessors, we were enabled to get on but 70. So that we were cheated out of over one hundred honest democratic votes in that ward alone. This tyranny and oppression was practised to a greater or less extent all over the state where the radicals had control of the voting lists.

In view of these facts, therefore, we say the democracy has cause to rejoice all over the country over the fact that we have been enabled to reduce the radical majority of two years ago over eight thousand votes.

THE concert given last Friday evening, for the benefit of the Episcopal church, bespeaks much credit for Miss Monday and pupils. The tableaux were well arranged, and the entire programme rendered to please the most extravagant expectations.
