

THE DEMOCRAT.

News About Home.

GEO. LINDSEY, of Des Moines, Iowa, visited Plymouth a few days since. He reports his "better two-thirds" as well, etc.

THE side walk just south from Mrs. Coffy's is in a bad state of repairs. It don't velocipede worth a cent.

FIRE.—The residence of L. Ely, in Walnut township, was consumed by fire one day last week. Nothing was saved.

THE receipts of the festival Tuesday evening, by the ladies of St. Thomas' Parish, were about $160. The hall was decked and festooned in a manner unsurpassed by any precedent, and all harmony prevailed.

WE neglected last week to make a note of the Graded school exhibition which occurred a few evenings previous. The hall was densely crowded and the rounds of applause which greeted the performances, showed conclusively that our good people appreciate home talent.

THE thunder storm in this vicinity a few days since made itself unpleasantly manifest. Among other capers and freaks of Jove, was the attack made upon a large locust tree on Fleming's corner. Near by stood a horse which was slightly injured by a splinter from a shattered sign post. "All this happened in less time than it takes to tell it!"

MARRIED.—By J. G. Osborn, Esq., at his office in Plymouth, on June 17, 1899, Mr. Michael Busenburg and Miss Emeline Brockey.

On the 3d inst., by Rev. J. E. Chapin, at the residence of Eli Jacoby, Mr. Gottlieb Grim and Miss Catharine Jacoby, all of Marshall county.

THE Oratorio of Esther, the Beautiful Queen, was performed last evening at Balcany Hall, by a class of amateur singers of Plymouth, under the direction of Prof. S. S. Jackson, assisted by L. R. Skerritt. This oratorio has been performed in this place twice previous to this. We are safe in saying that it was far more satisfactorily rendered last evening than ever before. The performances performed their parts finely, and the choruses were entitled to great credit.

The performance will be repeated this evening, varied by a few songs, quartettes, etc., when it is hoped that the public which so generally attended will again show its appreciative pliz in large numbers.

ACCIDENT.—Near the suburbs of Plymouth is a "beer garden," where a portion of our population regally themselves on Sundays by guzzling beer. Last Sunday evening, while good people were repeating "Lord have mercy on us, miserable sinners," one of the congregation, in one of our churches, was called out to render medical aid to a young man, whose name we refrain from mentioning. It seems that the young man in question, had been enjoying the beer garden swing, and at an unlucky moment fell some twenty feet, alighting upon his face and breast. The jar came well nigh carrying him to "the valley of dry bones."

THE juvenile concert at Balcany Hall, last Saturday night, under the direction of Prof. S. S. Jackson, was a decided success in point of merit. In fact it was by far the best juvenile concert ever given in this town. The attendance was not as good as the merits of the entertainment deserved; which is doubtless attributable to the fact that many of our citizens recently invested their spare change on the circus, where they could listen to the stale, smutty jokes of the clown, and give countenance to bawdy performances, rather than listen to innocent voices chanting songs of love and praise to their Creator. There is nothing better calculated to arouse the nobler emotions of nature than the sweet songs of childish innocence, and when those songs are artistically rendered, as on last Saturday evening, they become doubly attractive. Prof. Jackson has given proof of his ability to lead young singers farther in a single course of lessons than many older heads have been able to do. In no way can the public singing be improved as fast as by teaching the young how to sing. Every encouragement should be given to children who are learning to sing, and those who teach them. Prof. Jackson is the best teacher of music Plymouth has had; and all interested in learning to sing, or who have children of the right age to attend a juvenile class, should secure his services for at least one more term of lessons.

OLIVE LOGAN, in Packard's Monthly for July, writes upon the subject entitled "Nude Women." Under the pretence of disapproval, she paints in vivid colors the drama of the period. Though her statements are but too true, we must say that the truths embodied are such that their minute detail should not find recital in decent literature. The subject, treated under her master hand and immodest manner is well calculated to debase the reader, and in all earnestness we must say that no respectable household can, with regard to propriety, permit it to occupy a place upon their tables. We are aware that public opinion is in general prepared to read matter that is base, the reason for which lies in the fact that a people are prone to compromise with evil. No parent would hand this essay on nudity to their child to read. We are aware that many readers will scoff at this criticism and brand it as a vestige of ancient Puritanism. The reader taking this view, will read the article in question with interest and upbraid the author for not making a still further expose. This modest (?) writer says:

"It gave an added piquancy to the creature who nightly wriggled about his stage in a dress of silk which fitted her form all over as tightly as a glove."

"A woman can strip herself almost entirely naked and thus be qualified to go upon the stage of two thirds of our theatres."

"Are you willing to appear amid the glare of gas lights, before the gaze of thousands of men, in this pair of satin breeches, ten inches long, without a vestige of drapery upon your person?"

The above are fair specimens of the article. We have no doubt Miss Logan received a large compensation for preparing this filthy dissertation for the public maw; and the Monthly in turn will gain a number of patrons from among the baser class.

WELL'S Phonological Journal, which is declared by the press at large to be a household necessity, contains, among its many good things for July, the following: J. Lothrop Motley, our new minister to England; Prof. S. F. B. Morse; Arthur, the musician; Civilization among the New Zealanders; Planchette's Theory of itself; Strasburg Cathedral and Clock; Developing the whole man; National music; Illustrated with portraits and other engravings. Price 30 cents, or $3 a year. S. R. Wells, Publisher, 389 Broadway, N. Y.

CHURCH ITEMS.
BY THE REV. WM. LUSK, JR.
This day, in the Christian Year, is the festival of the nativity of St. John, the Baptist.... We understand that A. T. Stewart, of New York, who has lately gone over to the Roman Church, was a Presbyterian.... The Rev. C. L. Pindar, a Roman Priest of Circleville, Ohio, publishes his renunciation of the Papacy.... Mexico is in a perfect hurricane of protestation against the Papacy in that country.... A gentleman by the name of Viele, in Evansville, this state, has built, from his private means, a beautiful church and rectory costing $20,000.00, and has presented both to the diocese of Indiana.... The parish in Logansport is building a new and much larger church.... The second parish in La Fayette is making preparations to build a large and beautiful church.... The parish in LaPorte is again enlarging its church and adding greatly to the beauty and size. The parish is an able parish. It pays its treasurer five per cent. for collecting and two and a half per cent. for disbursing, and throws away money lavishly. It has no "Church Items," and consequently the Rector, the Rev. F. M. Gregg, will exchange with the Rector of St. Thomas' Parish next Sunday. He wants to come down and read up the back numbers of the Plymouth papers, and see people who live in a moral, intelligent and enterprising city with a Church atmosphere.... The Rev. H. Strangefellow, of St. Paul's Church, Indianapolis, is going to Montgomery, Ala., to take the Rectorship of St. John's Parish and the superintendent of a flourishing Sisterhood. The Rev. W. H. Placet, of Louisville, Ky., will probably succeed him.... The LaFayette Journal has a Sunday column, edited by the Rev. L. W. Russ. It is ably edited.... The Rev. J. L. Gay, of Western New York, will take the Rectorship of the new Church of the Good Shepherd, Ft. Wayne.... A so-called conference, consisting of a handful of obscure "milk-and-water" Churchmen, met in Chicago last week. They had not the countenance of a single Bishop, and the meeting "fizzled out," except the space its various proceedings occupied in the Chicago papers.... The number of religious papers taken in this place is very small. Most of the people depend for their religious information directly upon personal inspiration. It would be well, however, to have the number of such papers decidedly increased, or people living in the outside world, and not knowing our natural advantages or seeing the "Church Items" of our papers, may call us heathen.... The first House of Worship erected in Wyoming Territory is St. Mark's Church, Cheyenne, lately consecrated by Bishop Randall.... Bishop Tuttle, of Utah, has lately confirmed a large class composed entirely of those who were Mormons. He has also baptized a large number and established a flourishing Church with schools in Salt Lake City.... Bishop Clarkson, of Nebraska, and Colorado, has just ordained several Indians to the Diaconate, and several to the Priesthood. He lately confirmed thirty of the Santees at one place, and twelve of the Pawnees at another place.... Bishop Morris, of Oregon, has received, within a short time, $50,000.00 with which to build mission chapels.... In the province of Tinnevely, India, twenty-two natives have just been ordained to the Diaconate, and thirteen to the Priesthood.... At the re-opening of the Church in Ake, West Africa, the offerings amounted to three millions of cowries. It would require one hundred and eleven men to carry the cowries.... The Rajah of Patialah visited Bishop Cotton's school in Simla, Hindoostan, and contributed $3,500.00 in gold.... The Queen of Madagascar, her Prime Minister, and many of her officers have been baptized in the Anglican Church. The step was voluntary on the part of each.

CHURCH ITEMS.
BY THE REV. FR. SIEGLACK.
Progress of the Catholic Church in England. Truth tells by its own inherent force. Converts from the Anglican to the Roman Catholic Church form more than half of the congregations in the large churches of the Oratory and of St. Mary's, Bayswater and they are a large proportion of the congregation at Farmstreet. The number of conversions is decidedly on the increase among the higher and middle classes, but the loss of many of the children of the poor by bribery is to be deplored.

The Archbishop Manning, of West Minister, announced in his pastoral letter from last month, that since Trinity Sunday last year, the additional accommodation of eleven new Catholic churches have been added to those being erected already, and still this great supply is not equal to the demand. His grace likewise remarks in a late sermon, with equal point and truth, that "Rome itself is now in London," for the number of Roman Catholics in the capital of England exceeds the population of the Holy City, whereas there are now in London up to 300,000 Roman Catholics, two-thirds of which are converts from Anglicanism, as proved facts. Will any one dare to accuse Archbishop Manning for making false statements, or that the better, nobler and more intelligent class of the people of England and London deem it so difficult to give up their protests against Catholicity and to embrace the belief the old Mother Church.

The eyes of hundreds of millions of people, Catholics and non-Catholics in both hemispheres centre in the approaching great Oecumenical Council of the Vatican, the nineteenth in succession since the first held at Nice A. D. 325, where 318 bishops were assembled. At the coming one nearly one thousand Catholic bishops will convene as their preparations have already been made for the reception of 600 bishops. All the prelates of the country have also to go to Rome to assemble in holy council, unless dispensed from by the Pope himself. Said council is the greatest event of this century, and the greatest of all the memorable works of His Holiness, Pope Pius IX.

A Protestant Congress has assembled at Worms. Twenty thousand persons were in attendance. While the majority opposed any recognition of the Ecumenical inviting them to Rome, on the occasion of the general council, many of the more learned and moderate acknowledged the failure of Protestantism and its hopeless efforts to effect a union (Protestantism is doing so far the last three hundred years, but all fruitless, a vain vain, and all new trials will prove the same) admitted at the same time, that the Catholic church was now in every way proving to the world the divinity of its origin and sustenance, the one bright spot in the dreary waste of infidelity, that promises to sweep away all other forms of Christianity.
