Hon. James Peacock, of Gallatin, Tennessee, who has been visiting relatives in Rensselaer and vicinity for a few weeks, started yesterday on his return trip to the South. Before leaving Mr. P. called to bid us good-bye, and left upon our table a recent file of the Nashville (Tenn.) American, for which he will please accept our thanks.

For more than one year I had chills and fever, third day and Dumb Ague, until my health was gone. Tried many things to cure me but failed. A friend whose family was afflicted with Liebig's Ague Cure induced me to try it. I did so and was cured. I have sold it to scores of others who have been cured. [JOHN QUELY. Sold by W. J. Imbs.]

Prof. Kidd, the elocutionist, gave an entertainment in Starr's Hall last evening, to a very fair sized audience of appreciative and attentive hearers. As an elocutionist the Professor has no superior, and wherever he appears before the public he is hailed with delight. His entertainments never fail to give satisfaction. Go and hear him to-night. Admission reduced to 15 cents.

A new time table will go into effect on the I. D. & C. R'y next Friday. Returning, train will arrive at Rensselaer 11:55 a. m. Leave at 12:20 p. m., arrive at Delphi 4:45 p. m. Returning, train will arrive at Rensselaer at 8:15 p. m.

THE RENSSELAER STANDARD announces a dance, in its last issue, in Starr's Hall. Preachers must be liberal over in that town. Herea dance is denounced as a heathen institution. Rensselaer must be back sliding to tolerate amusements of that kind. [Starke County Ledger. Yes; dances are quite common here, and are a source of much pleasure to the young folks. Come over and take a whirl! Bro. Musselman.]

Mr. J. W. Sibbett, landlord of the Rensselaer House, who is almost in the last stage of consumption, became exasperated by over exertion Wednesday evening and fell prostrate upon the street near the court yard. Deputy Auditor Cowdin and Mr. P. L. Cotton, who happened to be near, picked him up and conveyed him to his room. He soon regained sufficient strength to be about and is again attending to business as usual.

And sanct kraut in the cabbage-ages.]

It may not be generally known but it is a fact never-the-less that Charles P. Wright and Nathaniel W. Reeve, two of the best natured and most popular of our citizens, constitute a new law firm. They will practice in all the courts of Jasper and adjoining counties, make collections, prepare abstracts of title, pay taxes, etc., etc. All business entrusted to their hands will receive prompt attention. See card in another column.

A Brilliant Party and a Happy Time.

Society would seem to be on the quiet side in Rensselaer, for, considering the season of the year, there has been an unprecedented number of pleasant affairs in town, and as a result the bustling business of our belles and beaux, ruffled with the heat of summer, are becoming considerably "toned down."

The latest was the reception given at the residence of Marion L. Spiller, on last Monday evening, for Misses Bard and Root of Chenequa, Illinois, who have been visiting his daughter, Miss Nellie, for the last few days. The affair was eminently elite in every respect and was doubtless enjoyed by all. Surely Hebe reigned supreme. The attractions, beside wealth and beauty, consisted of dancing, music, ice cream, cake, and that welcome smile which is a rare always adopted by Marion Lycurgus and his genial wife for captivating guileless hearts. The dancing was indulged in by the young folks entirely, under several flat oaks, illuminated by the lurid glare of half a dozen last year's lanterns, and was carried on until 2 a. m., while the older ones present occupied themselves cracking jokes, eating cake and ice cream, and listening to the harmonious voice of Rensselaer prima donna. The visitors also admired the assembled guests with some highly entertaining music. Miss Nellie, the charming little hostess, never looked more fascinating in her life, and flitted about from one room to another, ministering to the wants of guests, with the lightness, gracefulness and surveillance of the Hesperides; and the black, piercing eyes, and "form divinely fair" of Miss Bard, and the pleasant face and "attractive air" of Miss Root, endeared them both to all who had the pleasure of their acquaintance; truly they were

"Beautiful as sweet!
And young as beautiful!
And gay as young!
And innocent as gay!"

Mr. Will Spiller and Mr. Alford, of Illinois, also enlivened the occasion with their presence. The dresses worn were unusually attractive, elegant, costly, and among the rest may be particularly mentioned those displayed by Misses Bard and Root, Miss Nellie Spiller, Miss Peacock, of Tennessee, Mrs. Z. Dwiggins, and Mrs. L. Hopkins, of this place, and Mrs. Day of Illinois. The party was a success in every particular and all present will join with us in saying that Marion Lycurgus Spiller, Esq., is an expert major homo.

The man who gets the maddest at a newspaper joke on himself, is the same party who goes around showing the paper to everybody when the joke is on some other fellow. [Greenback Journal.]

We spent a few hours in Rensselaer last Monday, and found the town greatly improved since our last visit there—about two years ago. Several handsome new brick buildings have been erected on the main business street, and a number of fine residences are in course of construction. The town presents an appearance of general activity. [Goodland Saturday Herald.]

A widow, whose husband was killed in a railroad accident, sees the company and recovers $5,000 damages. A man who lost his leg in the same accident, sues in the same court and gets $16,000. The widow waylays the judge and charges him with unjust discrimination in valuing a leg at three times as much as a "whole man." "That is not the point my dear madam," says the urbane judge, "Even with $16,000 the man can not buy a leg as good as the one he lost. But a woman as young as you are, and with $5,000 can have no difficulty in getting a new husband." The widow retires satisfied. [Ex.]
