

THE STANDARD.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1879.

The Chicago Exposition is now in full blast.

The statement of the public debt for the month of August shows a reduction during the month of $3,527,395.

The Lafayette Journal is fifty years old this month, and bids fair to live forever. The Journal is one of the best journals in Indiana, and richly deserves the liberal patronage it now enjoys.

An Iowa exchange tells of a railroad jubilee being held recently at Corydon, in that state, at which 2,500 pounds of roast beef were served to the hungry multitudes. This rather eclipses the Delphi barbecue.

The democrats are making a desperate effort to carry Iowa at the approaching election to be held in that state, but the republicans are quietly getting in their work and will roll up their usual majority. Dye mind that, now!

Maine sends greeting to California and echoes back the glad tidings of salvation. The republicans were triumphant, electing their entire state ticket and a majority of both branches of the legislature. This is a stunner to the party of ballot-box stuffers and bulldozers, and has given such an impetus to the republican cause in Ohio that an overwhelming victory is assured. Glory, glory, hallelujah!

Bro. Hoeller, of the Warsaw Republican, has secured up one democratic editor who is willing to stand out from the rest and boldly condemn the murderous policy of the Mississippi bull dozers. His name is Staley, and he is editor of a respectable democratic sheet at Frankfort called the Crescent. Here is what the Republican says of him: "It is somewhat refreshing to find a democratic paper denouncing the shooting of Dixon at Yazoo City by Barksdale as 'an infamous outrage, a cold blooded murder for which there is no palliation or excuse,' but we have found one on our exchange list that does, in very plain terms. Bro. Staley, of the Frankfort Crescent, speaks right out and declares that the men that can aid, abet, and compass such a violation of law are not democrats; they are anarchists, assassins and thugs. The democrats of the north want the alliance and co-operation of no such men." If the democratic press of the north would all talk that way there would soon be a change for the better in the south. But they don't do it."

The office of the Rensselaer Union, together with its patronage and good will, has been sold to Major Bitters, late of the Rochester Union Spy, who will take possession on or about the 15th of October. While we regret the loss of Mr. James from the editorial ranks of the newspaper fraternity at this place, we gladly extend Mr. Bitters a hearty welcome, and wish him unbounded success. He has had years of experience in the newspaper business and is possessed with more than ordinary editorial ability. Politically he is a republican, of the stalwart stripe, and has battled nobly for the cause against great odds in Fulton county where he has conducted successfully the Rochester Union Spy for a number of years. We feel confident he will give the people of Jasper county a paper worthy of a liberal support. Aside from the performance of the duties of the postoffice Mr. James has adopted no definite line of action for the future, but he will, in all probability, engage in the practice of law. Whatever profession or pursuit he may undertake THE STANDARD wishes him success.

Several gentlemen of our town, complain that the morning train last Monday on the I. D. & C. R. Y. was unnecessarily about twenty minutes behind time at Delphi, causing about a dozen persons from this place enroute for Lafayette, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Fowler to miss connection with the west bound train on the Wabash road, thereby delaying them nearly a whole day. The I. D. & C. R. Y. Co. advertise to make this connection and these gentlemen took the train relying in good faith upon the connection being made, and went via Delphi especially with that view; they say that the connection was missed by unnecessary delay in starting, and by running too slow. The company should show better faith towards its patrons, especially those of this vicinity who have been so friendly to the road.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the I. D. & C. R. Y. company for the election of directors was held at this place on the 3rd instant. The old board was re-elected with the exception of Jos. C. Wilson, of this place, and Mr. Barnard, of Frankfort, whose places were supplied by R. S. Dwiggins and David Novels, of Rensselaer. It is understood that the last named hold their places on the board only temporarily until suitable persons on the line between Delphi and Indianapolis can be obtained to supersede them. The Narrow Gauge Celebration and Barbecue at Delphi.

GREAT CROWDS PRESENT. The Toasts and Responses.

[Special to Indianapolis Journal.]

DELPHI, IND., Sept. 4th.—The first signs of celebrating the completion of the I. D. and C. railroad to Delphi on September 4th were visible to a large and hungry crowd on Tuesday evening last, when an ox, dedicated to the festivities, arrived on a triumphal car from the plains of Jasper county. A party of about three hundred carnivorous individuals had assembled to receive him at the depot. The animal was decorated with flowers, escorted about the streets, had his picture taken, and an attempt made to do him proud generally. It was a present from A. McCoy, president of the road, and a few friends.

The site selected for holding the celebration was the public square, a very inviting place, as Delphi is said to have one of the finest court-house yards in the state. A great crowd was present. Sixteen carloads came from Monticello and Rensselaer. A free dinner was given by the people of Delphi to all, regardless of race, color or previous condition of aliment. Ample preparations had been made for it, numerous tables being erected in the square, together with a large vat of ice water to supply the thirsty. In the morning the procession was formed as follows:

Lathrop's silver corned band. Members of the fire department in uniform. Mayor, council and city officers. Guests of the city. Citizens.

After following out the line of march the caravan entered the court-yard, where, after organization of the meeting, an address of welcome was delivered by Mr. E. W. Hubbard, of the Citizens' Bank. In substance, Mr. Hubbard said: Communities stop at times to note marked points in their progress, and the present occasion is of that character. Although the portion of the road complete is but a link, yet it is of such importance as to assure its completion. After alluding to its early difficulties, he said these trials have served to so crystallize the organization that its future progress will be more certain and prosperous. In the present state of affairs railroads are a necessity. They tend to civilize our people and foster the moral and material resources of the country. No people can command respect or attention without them. Through the agency of railroads a new era begins to dawn upon us, the full fruition of which we shall realize when this line connects Indianapolis and Chicago, and we shall enjoy and develop the benefits nature has bestowed upon us. With such facilities we can invite people and capital, and may look for a large increase by immigration. When a new period is dawning upon the whole country we have a high incentive to effort. The industries of Europe are prostrate and her people flocking to this country, which is now in a position to receive and care for the oppressed and poor of the whole earth. Mr. Hubbard said it was to be hoped that there would be but a brief pause for congratulations, and the enterprise would be pushed on to completion. "The management of the road deserved the highest recommendation for its triumph over past difficulties, and should and would receive the aid necessary to finish the work. The friends from abroad were heartily welcome in our midst, and the hope was extended that these new and pleasant relations would be but the beginning of yet more auspicious days to come."

Colonel S. N. Yeoman, the general manager, responded, saying that he congratulated the people on the present state of the enterprise, but continued effort was necessary. They should do this, because the work would prove a solution of the cheap transportation question and develop the latent wealth of the country along the route. The management accept the kind sympathy of the people, and in return can say that they promise the rest of the road in a shorter time than was expected. To those who had brought obstacles in the way of and doubted the narrow gauge system, forgiveness is extended on condition that they abandon that broad gauge which leads to financial purgatory, and turn to the narrow gauge which leads to wealth and prosperity.

Then came the toasts by Mr. Judson Applegate, master of ceremonies, which were responded to by the following gentlemen of the city: Dr. J. T. Richardson, Dr. Moor, Mayor Walker, B. F. Scherhorn, L. B. Sims, Dr. E. W. H. Beck, B. B. Dally, E. Cox, A. B. Crampton, C. R. Pollard, Jos. A. Sims, T. J. Steele, Isaac Jackson, Jos. Gwinn, L. E. McReynolds, John Sims and others. In the toast citizens from Frankfort spoke in favor of continuing the road to that place. Burlington citizens responded that railroad men, like one of old, went to their own and their own received them not, and now they had turned to Gentiles whose time must be fulfilled, and Burlington must have the road. Representatives of the Indianapolis Board of Trade, Major Palmer, Wm. Scott and brother, Mr. Budd, Mr. George J. Murray and W. Baker were present and made some interesting remarks.

Following this came the grand free feast, lasting from 12 1/2 p. m. till 9 o'clock, at which abundance and variety attested the generous hospitality of the people of Delphi and vicinity. The copiousness of the dish, of course, was the Jasper county call, which had been the previous day in preparation, employing all the bake-shops in the town. At 2 o'clock a free excursion on the new road took place to Monticello, the train leaving here at 2 and returning at 7 o'clock. In the evening a select ball of the upper-tendorm of Delphi, Monticello and Rensselaer, was given in the city hall.

The I. D. and C. railroad now extends from Delphi to Rensselaer. On the northern end of the road no work is at present being done. At Delphi the road will be diverted from the course originally laid out for it, and instead of reaching Indianapolis via Frankfort, Clinton county, will go through Burlington, further east. This branch of road is under a new company. W. F. Lytle, of this place, being president. The Lytle along the new route are holding railroad meetings, and all seem anxious for its immediate continuance. [Monticello Herald.]

CURIOUSITY.

$15,000 Worth of CLOTHING

On Exhibition at LEOPOLD'S.

A. LEOPOLD is the only merchant in the county who buys his goods for cash down and gets a nice discount off. He recently bought $15,000 worth of Clothing so low that he was offered $2.00 advance on every suit by the house he purchased of. His stock of Overcoats will beat anything ever exhibited in that line in the county. They are indeed a bargain, and will be sold for $1.00 less on the Coat than his competitors can afford to sell them. Call and see those BEAUTIFUL SUITS FOR CHILDREN AND BOYS, consisting of Scotch Kilts, English, Saylor and American Jockey Suits for little ones. My stock of HATS AND CAPS will excel anything in that line ever shown in Rensselaer. My stock of FURNISHING GOODS is all O. K. for style, quality and price. Now, friends and patrons, I assure you, upon this honor of a man, that this is not a blow, neither is it exaggeration, but simply a statement of facts that can be proven by comparing my prices with those of other merchants. I advise you as a friend, if you wish to save money these hard times, to call upon your humble servant, A. LEOPOLD, At the Famous Stone Building, Rensselaer, Indiana.
