WHEAT went up to $1.70 in Chicago Saturday. That is $1 higher than it was a year ago.

As the vote of thanks is offered in congress today every American citizen from the Pisicattqua river to Puget sound shouts "aye!"

If the modern Sampson should not chance to go against one of those Delilah hair-cutters before reaching the Spanish Armada, he will doubtless come off victor.

The temptation of punsters to play upon an easy word ad infinitum has proved irresistible in the case of the new naval hero's name, until the "Dewey" jokes have lost their freshness.

A REVOLUTIONARY spirit seems to pervade Europe. It struck Italy hard Saturday. A great mob terrorized Milan Saturday and Sunday. The mob was finally dispersed by soldiers after a hard fight which resulted in 300 killed and 1000 wounded.

GOVERNOR MOUNT received a telegram from the secretary of war yesterday asking him to get two regiments of infantry and one battery of artillery into shape as soon as possible to be moved to Chickasaw. It is thought they will be ready to march by tomorrow noon.

The yellow newspapers, in the accounts their special correspondents give of the famous Manila battle, leave the impression that Dewey aided assisted the correspondent in destroying the Spanish fleet. The expressions, "and myself," "Dewey and I," etc., are very common in those accounts, and leave the same taste in the mouth that offensive egotism always leaves.

A COMPARISON of international characteristics may account very satisfactorily for the result of the first great naval engagement in the present war. American boys have ever been taught to have an aim in life, while the sons of Castilian aristocracy have imbibed aimlessness in the very air they breathed. The difference between aim and no aim in a time of need was demonstrated in the shooting at Manila bay.

DIAGNOSIS would have to substitute an eye for his historical lantern were he to begin his search for the man who admits having said McKinley was too slow in bringing about the declaration of war. Even irascible Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier Journal is keeping still on the subject. If there is one thing in which the American people are more thoroughly united than in the determination to whip Spain, it is in the belief that our government is headed by patriots.

IS the official report Dewey sends to his government, there is apparent the modesty and tenderness that ever accompanies true courage. The man who could win the most remarkable naval victory the world has ever known, in the most remarkable way, without words "bragging," but states simply and tersely what he has done, adding that he is caring for the Spanish sick and wounded and that he will protect foreign residents. Cowardice, bagdadecio and cruelty are "running mates," as the character of Weyer indicates, while courage, modesty and gentleness are as inevitable companions.

THE present "Hispano American" war, as the Europeans call it, bids fair to be as signal a triumph for the superstitious as it will be for Uncle Sam. Poor little Alfonso, the erstwhile king of Spain, is numbered XIII. As if that were not enough to forever and sufficiently "hoodoo" the boy, the present war was virtually declared on Friday by the refusal of Spain to receive McKinley's ultimatum from Woodford's hands. Then on Friday—the same day war was understood to be on—the Nashville fired the first gun across the bows of the Buena Ventura. Still worse, the fleet that left Cape de Verde islands for the trackless ocean had to turn back for repairs—an unfailing sign of "bad luck." And in the great Sunday battle at Manila the Spanish fleet was first gun, a circumstance always preceding defeat, in soldier and sailor lore, when a Sunday battle is fought.

PARKER'S ADVENTURE.

The Anderson Bulletin Tells of His Alarm in a "Great City"—Lost His Bearings.

The Anderson Bulletin spoils the following very good story by the misstatement that Mr. Parker is editor of this paper. He never was editor of connected with this paper for some years. Inasmuch as Editor Parker, of the Richmond Palladium, has not so far "written in his paper" concerning his experience in Anderson this week, it remains for Richmond people to be reminded by the story, which is backed up by affidavits. Mr. Parker came to attend the funeral of Major Dorey and concluded he would remain over night in the city, inasmuch as it was so attractive to him after looking around the business section. About bed time he started out for the residence sections to stay over night with some old friends, a family by name of Eccles. He thought they lived at Brown and thirteenth streets. Once from the sight of the court house tower he lost his bearing and to him there never before seemed so many streets, avenues, highways and byways as he observed after he got lost. Shortly after midnight he rounded up at the corner of thirteenth and School streets, at the home of S. M. Keltner and pounded on the door. Mr. Keltner responded and the stranger, at the door told him his name and said he was lost. Mr. Keltner's heart then became very mellow and he dressed for the street and went forth with the stranger. He was taken to the house of Brown and thirteenth streets, and it was explained that no Eccles family lived there. Parker thought the house on the southeast corner was the one he intended to go to, but that place is a paragon, the residence of Rev. J. M. Wright of the Presbyterian church. Parker was then in a fix, and when Mr. Keltner learned he was a brother of Ben Parker, the New Castle poet, the hospitality of the Keltner home was extended to the lost man. He declined, saying he used to know Chris Maynard, but Chris had moved from Shadland. About 2 o'clock the home of the Maynards was located on west eleventh street, and Mr. Parker was greatly relieved. He went home next morning and when the reporters hailed him for an interview, he declared he didn't know a thing for either Anderson or Richmond. It should be here understood that Mr. Parker is a temperate man and formerly a deacon in a church.

DEPOT BURNED.

THE BIG FOUR DEPOT AT CAMBRIDGE CITY IN RUINS.

Telegraph Office and a Considerable Amount of Freight Destroyed—The Origin Not Known.

Fire broke out in the Big Four depot at Cambridge City on Saturday night last near the hour of midnight. The smoke and flames were seen issuing from the east windows, shortly after the witching hour, and it was then too late to save the structure. The fire evidently started inside the depot by some means as yet unknown. The telegraph office was burned, and also quite a quantity of freight, including a number of sewing machines, some agricultural machinery, etc. The loss is estimated at $4,000 to $5,000. The building was a brick structure, formerly a Catholic church. The fire was not fully extinguished until well along in the day, yesterday, and owing to the windiness, the greatest care had to be exercised to prevent the spread of the flames to other portions of the town by means of blowing sparks or small coals. The fire occasioned quite a good deal of excitement in the town in the part of the night and earlier portion of the day.

A JUST REBUKE.

The Spirit of Dewey is Abroad in the Land, and Men Resent Insults.

On Saturday evening, at Hagers-town, a number of persons were gathered at the Pennsylvania company's waiting room, and a stranger of tough address and insulting manner approached the ticket agent's window, asking or rather demanding money of the agent, Mr. Houser. The request was not granted, of course, and was reiterated in a manner still more unbecomingly and offensive. Again the demand was not complied with, and the stranger grew still more abusive. Upon that the spirit of George Dewey arose in the agent, and walking around through the office floor, the brother denounces the abusive stranger was standing, he "smashed" the offensive fellow and proceeded to use him generally in true American style. The stranger, in the course of the battle, seized and held the agent by the collar, and took it with him as he made his escape and jumped on the train. Mr. Houser followed him thither and after some more exertion forced the ruffian to give up the watch chain.

CHRONIC KICKERS.

Some in Every Household in Richmond, But They Are Growing Less.

Chronic kickers the kidneys are—when they're sick. What makes the kidneys sick? A simple thing. They have too much to do. They keep too hard their work they never rest. Can't blame them for kicking. Ever have your kidneys kick? Ever have a bad back, a lame, weak or aching one? Know it's the same thing? The back aches because the kidneys are blocked. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this. It's the best proof, for it comes from Richmond. Citizens read this case in point: Mr. Martin Bulach, tailor, 101 west second street, says: "Within the last year and a half or two years I had been subject to aching pains through my loins and in my kidneys with a constant flow of urine, and I was very scanty and annoying. It is to the strain upon my back from the position assumed when working that I attribute the trouble. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and get a box at A. G. Luken & Co.'s drug store and had taken but a few doses when I felt their beneficial effects and in a short time my back felt all right. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly to anyone suffering from their kidneys." Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents per box. Gone Away.

The cigar stand that was run by C. E. Ozier and his wife, and which was sold by W. P. Cook and afterward sold by Mr. Cook to Shan and Ireland, was attacked on Saturday by Sheriff Larsh, and the two proprietors are gone away from the city. The stock was seized and now belongs to Mr. Cook once more. The two young men had failed to make the stand pay, owing to poor business and high rents.

STRONG STATEMENTS.

Three Women Relieved of Female Troubles by Mrs. Pinkham.

From Mrs. A. W. SMITH, 59 Summer St., Biddeford, Me.: "For several years I suffered with various diseases peculiar to my sex. I was troubled with a burning sensation across the small of my back, that all-gone feeling, was despondent, fretful and discouraged; the least exertion tired me. I tried several doctors but received little benefit. At last I decided to give your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The effect of the first bottle was magical. Those symptoms of weakness that I was afflicted with, vanished like vapor before the sun. I cannot speak too highly of your valuable remedy. It is truly a boon to woman."

From Mrs. MELISSA PHILLIPS, Lexington, Ind., to Mrs. Pinkham: "Before I began taking your medicine I had suffered for two years with that tired feeling, headache, backache, no appetite, and a run-down condition of the system. I could not walk across the room. I have taken four bottles of your Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills and used one package of Sanative Wash, and now feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work."

From Mrs. MOLLIE E. HERREL, Powell Station, Tenn.: "For three years I suffered with such weakness of the back, I could not perform my household duties. I also had falling of the womb, terrible bearing-down pains and headache. I have taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel like a new woman. I recommend your medicine to every woman I know."

SPAIN'S STOCK OF COAL

H. W. Wilson Says Her Ships Will Run Short of It.

NO COAL SHIPS TO HELP SPAIN.

England's Noted Naval Expert Tells How Coal Considerations Affect the Spanish Squadron's Operative Powers—Capacity of the Ships' Coal Bunkers—Says Spanish Fleet Is Sure to Lose—May Meet in the West Indies.

In all the Spanish naval plans to raise the Cuban blockade the question of coal capacity and coal consumption by the Spanish fleet is of paramount importance. In view of this fact the New York World has obtained from H. W. Wilson, author of "Ironclads in Action," the most noted living British naval expert, a precise statement of just how coal considerations affect the operative powers of the Spanish squadron. He writes: "In view of the various very discrepant statements made respecting the Spanish cruisers' coal capacity it is uncertain what quality of coal is on board and whether it is the best Welsh steam or the rubbishy Spanish or German coal. Of the latter three tons will only do the work of two tons of the former. Spain had not large stocks of coal, so it is probable that there is much poor stuff in the bunkers. The calculations below are for the best Welsh coal, and Spain's capacities must be somewhat reduced if Welsh coal is not on board. "Based on the coal carried in bunkers, some can be stowed in bags for a long voyage. The quantity thus carried is naturally uncertain, but about the extreme limit for the size of the ship is allowed. All the Spanish armored cruisers have economical triple expansion engines, but the stokers are believed to be inferior. The fuel used will be economical—about ten knots—until the American fleet or cruisers are sighted. The figures for the Spanish ships are as given below: "The Almirante Oquendo, Vizcaya and Infanta Maria Teresa have all 1,200 tons bunker capacity, and with spare coal in bags—say 300 tons—they can carry a total of 1,500 tons. The Cape Verde and Puerto Rico are 4,400 miles apart. With ten days' economical steaming at a consumption of from 60 to 80 tons a day the total burned on the voyage would be from 600 to 800 tons. There remains say 400 tons, enough for eight or nine days' economical steaming. To New York is 11 or 12 days and would require, say, 950 tons. There remains 550 tons, of which 300 is needed to get to Halifax and a reserve of 250 tons for operations on the American coast. The Cristobal Colon has 1,000 tons in her bunkers, and liquid fuel is reported in her double bottom. This is doubtful, but allow that it equals 300 tons of probe fuel with a checklist of 300 tons, this gives a total of 1,450 tons. "The Nioclause has very economical boilers, with a consumption of 50 to 70 tons a day, giving a total to Puerto Rico about 700 tons, and to New York of about 850 tons. This leaves 650 or 700 tons, allowing for rather more extended operations than the other cruisers. The destroyers Pluton, Terror and Furor can carry at their normal limit 120 tons, which may last a fortnight at economical speed if bad weather is not encountered. "If the Spanish fleet meets Rear Admiral Sampson east of Puerto Rico they must either run or fight. If she fights, Spain will be smashed hands down. If the fleet runs, the Yankee cruisers, fresh and full up with coal and in fine trim, will quickly overtake the rear ship and attack it. If the other Spanish ships stop to give help, Sampson's battleships will come up and send the Spaniards to the bottom. "The destroyers are very dangerous in smooth water, but in a heavy sea are not so formidable. Therefore Sampson should attack as fast as may be, as the coal burned in rough weather is but it is believed that there are no colliers with the Spanish fleet. "British sympathy prevents British colliers from going to help the Spaniards. The transport San Francisco, reported to be with the torpedo boats Ariete, Azor and Rayo, full of coal, has transferred much of it to the Spanish cruisers at Cape Verde, and their whereabouts are uncertain. The torpedo boats could cross with some difficulty over sail, and an anchorage that might be used by Spain is the Gulf of Ocoa, on the Haiti coast. There is a very good anchorage harbor at San Francisco, and many on the South American coast. "Spain might temporarily seize an open bay on the United States coast, but this would be very risky and would bring her probable destruction. I see nothing in the neutrality declarations to prevent the Spanish from coaling from colliers in a neutral port provided they do not make it the basis of a prolonged stay. Most depend on the attitude toward America of the power owning the port."

In Memoriam.

The angel of death has again entered the portals of our assembly room and ruthlessly removed from our midst our beloved sister Beulah Macpherson, and in this we recognize the divine will of our great Commander and bow in humble submission. No woman ever lived in this city who was better loved and better known than Beulah Macpherson. She was of an amiable and self-sacrificing disposition, ever ready to lend a helping hand to all good works. When the storm clouds of the civil war hovered over this beautiful land of ours, it was that her kindness was made manifest by her untiring energy in behalf of the brave defenders of our country's honor; her work was not a task, but the cheerful outpouring of a true and loyal heart. But, alas, she is gone; she is broucaded on fame's eternal camping ground with the soldier boys she loved so well, and will stand with outstretched hands to welcome all true and loyal friends to a peaceful rest. Yes, we shall miss her in our meetings, where she always endeavored to make herself useful, cheerfully performing every duty assigned her and ever ready with an interesting reminiscence of the war times. Our loss is without doubt her gain. How sad the fact that no near relative remains to receive our consolations. In conclusion we would recommend that all our sisters follow her example in doing good for our fellow mortals, so that our end may be as peaceful as was her's. "One by one the sands are flowing One by one the moments fall; Some are coming, some are going; Do not strive to grasp them all. One by one thy duties wait thee, Let no future day be unprepared; Let no future day be unprepared; Learn thou what these can teach." In F. C. and L.

SHOALS IN MANILLA HARBOR

An Old Seaman Says That Dewey's Maneuvering Was Alone a Great Feat.

Rear Admiral Patrick A. Mahan of the bicycle squad, to whom the New York police board granted a leave of absence to volunteer for service in the war, is an old United States seaman and has often been in the harbor of Manila. He said recently in regard to the battle there: "The greatest miracle of it all to me is the wonderful maneuvering of the vessels in the inner harbor. The water there in some places is 2 1/2 fathoms and a few feet away it is only a few feet deep. It requires an expert to navigate the treacherous waters of the harbor, the shoals in which are almost as dangerous, if not more so, as the passage over the mines. The Americans must have had some of the insurgents on board who knew the harbor well and were able to tell them how to avoid the shoals. Those shoals are more dangerous to a vessel of the tonnage of a man-of-war than batteries and torpedoes. All the waters about the Philippines are this way. I have seen large merchantmen wait a long time for expert pilots to get them into and through the shoal waters of Manila harbor in safety. "With all that Commodore Dewey had to contend against it is really wonderful what he did. The Spanish vessels probably stood still because they had no expert pilots. Any one who has been in Manila harbor can realize what I mean when I say the result of the battle seems to me more like a miracle than anything else."—New York Tribune.

BALLOONS FOR SEA SCOUTS.

Joseph Fleischman Suggests an Idea to Navy Department.

Joseph Fleischman of New York has suggested to ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt the use of balloons for extended marine observation. He says the suggestion has been laid before the naval board of strategy. Under clear skies observers on shipboard, aided by the most powerful glasses, can cover a horizon range of only 20 miles. Mr. Fleischman suggests that balloons capable of sustaining several observers should be carried by the larger scouting cruisers, such as the Yale and the Harvard. When deemed advisable, these balloons could be raised from the vessels' decks, secured by stout cables. From the balloons to the deck telephonic or telegraphic communication should be established. The balloon could rise to a height to cover a much greater range than the best glasses. —New York Herald.

Spain Street Becomes Dewey Street. A relic of the time when New Orleans was a province of Spain has remained here in the shape of a street named after the mother country—Spain street. The name has suited well enough until now, but the other day, the result of a petition of the residents, the title was changed to Dewey street in honor of the hero of Manila harbor. —New York Tribune.

His Unlucky Number.

King Alfonso—I wish to thunder my ancestors hadn't tacked that XIII on to me.—Indianapolis Journal.

Remembered. From Cuban shores, in ceaseless pain, Out of the calling sea, Long cried the spirit of the Maine, "Will ye remember me?" At last the longed answer comes From 'neath the eastern sun, Borne westward on the thundering roll, The deep song of the guns. From where the war winds shrieked and sang The battle bugles blew, And deathless names in history sprang, From man ever knew. Comes the wild, wailing voice of Spain, While o'er her warships stir Such waves as wash the martyred Maine: "Ye have remembered her!" —James Lindsay Gordon in New York Sun.

WALTER BAKER & CO.'S BREAKFAST COCOA

"A PERFECT FOOD—as Wholesome as it is Delicious." "I think it is very easy to say that it is a perfect food, as it is so good for the system. It is possibly after the Oregon, but she can retreat to neutral waters. The danger points for America to watch are the Haitian coast and South American coast. If Spain gets a fleet into the Caribbean, she will avoid the harbors connected with telegraph cables. Still I do not see how she can be discovered if American fast scouts are well used. I presume the Puerto Rico anchorage is well watched by the American fleet. Puerto de Guaymas is likely to be a rendezvous, as it is an excellent, defensible harbor, out of the regular track."
