Germany's latest note of conquest is in an Asia Minor key.

The PALLADIUM has been selected by the United States district attorney at Indianapolis, Judge Baker, as the paper to print the bankruptcy notices in this county.

Governor Clough of Minnesota says Uncle Sam may go to the devil. Yes, but Bryan isn't elected yet, and won't be, so that destination is not Uncle Sam's for some years to come, to say the least.

There are some good Indians left that are not dead Indians. Fully 100 of the Box Island Indians who belong to the disturbing tribe in Minnesota, have expressed their loyalty to the United States and have gone back to their reservation, having refused to assist in any way the outlaws who are carrying on the bloody and futile war against the government.

On many points the inhabitants of the countries recently wrested from Spain are divided, but on a certain question they stand together without a single exception, and that is with regard to ceding back to Spain of any of the captured territory or ports. The Cubans, the Filipinos and the Porto Ricans are unanimous in saying:
"We want independence, but what we want worse is to be assured that Spain will never rule us again, even if we must be annexed to the United States to avoid that other alternative."

The Germans and other Europeans have had a hard interval and have come to the conclusion that it would not be desirable to have the Philippines or any part of them go back into the hands of the Spaniards. They prefer to have so important a commercial station in the hands of a nation competent not only to conduct the affairs properly, but to prevent intermeddling. That Dewey precedent was one of the events of the Spanish-American war whose beneficial effects we will feel for many years to come.

Oregon's United States senator-elect is a Jew. He is also a good, dyed-in-the-wool Republican, a gold standard man from the word go, and is one of the first fruits of the recent election by which Oregon expressed herself as irrevocably sore on any attempt to foist a new and dangerous financial system upon the nation. Oregon is an oasis in an immense free silver desert. By means of a thorough irrigation of intelligence, however, the oasis is spreading, and soon the little leaven that was hid in three measures of meal will have leavened the whole western lump.

The Trans-Mississippi exposition means so much and proves so much that it ranks very closely with the Columbian exposition as a revelation to the visitor. One of the most interesting features of the exposition to an eastern man is the congress of Indians which was brought together at the fair through the aid and co-operation of the government. All the principal tribes are represented, from the Apaches of the southwest to the Assiniboin and Sioux of the north. An Indian on foot is generally a rather dignified person, but a six-foot warrior sitting back almost on the haunches of a disconsolate little pony is about the most ridiculous sight imaginable. Our illustration, for which we are indebted to Harper's Weekly, shows a scene at the Indian congress.

Regarding the political outlook, the Washington Post of today says:
"While Democratic gains are outlined in many states, the figures given by the correspondents of the Post do not yet make it positive that the Republicans will lose control of the house. There is at present in the house of representatives a Republican majority of fifty-six over all parties combined, and this large majority will be difficult to completely overcome.
There is no doubt that it will be reduced to a very small number, but the present indications do not point to its entire disappearance. The estimates made by the Post correspondents show that 196 districts in the United States will certainly be Republican in the approaching election—unless the unexpected happens—and thirteen additional districts will give the Republicans a majority of the house. According to the Post's figures there are no less than forty-two doubtful districts, the large number being in great measure due to the caution of the Post's correspondents in declining to place in the certain column any district which contains an element of doubt. Out of these forty-two, however, there are at least twenty districts in which the chances are said to favor the Republicans. For instance, there are districts in Massachusetts, Maryland, Delaware, New York, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and Wyoming which are classed as doubtful, but which the Republicans will probably carry. With 166 districts assigned with certainty to the Republicans, as against 128 assigned to the Democrats, according to the Post's figures, the party in power has an easier path to travel to the desired goal. The Populists are given thirteen seats and the silver Republicans four."

"All the correspondents of the Post agree in their statements as to the apathy shown everywhere in the coming elections and that this lack of interest is the one great obstacle to Republican success. All efforts are now being made to get out the vote and the campaign has undoubtedly become enlivened. The Democrats are encouraged by their fighting and the Republicans, appreciating the danger that threatens them, are vigorously laboring to impress upon their voters the necessity for casting every ballot at the polls."

Dun's Review for last week deals the following blow to calamities: The final returns of failures for the third quarter of 1898 considerably exceeded last week's estimate, numbering in all 2,556, with liabilities of $32,608, 214, and of commercial failures only 2,540, with liabilities of $25,107,778.
Comparisons given today show that the failures have been smaller than in any other quarter since 1892, both in amount, in average per failure, and in defaults per firm in business. The ratio of defaulted liabilities to solvent payments through clearing houses was only $1.56 per $1,000, excepting in 1892, the smallest ratio since 1882, when the modes of reporting were essentially different. But for a few real estate failures in Alabama and Chicago, the comparison would have been far more favorable.

The sermons delivered yesterday from the various pulpits in the city on the subject of Sabbath desecration were mainly avowals of the stand the church takes on the subject, and set forth very clearly the evil element that is in the Sunday sport. It is seldom that this community has been so thoroughly aroused and such decided pro and con positions taken on anything as has been taken for and against Sunday base ball in the past week. It is only by arousing the minds of the public on any subject, and by compelling men and women to take decided stands for or against that important thinking may be made to prevail in any community, and that the question may be expected to have ultimately its correct solution from the most practical standpoint.

newed health and strength and internal cleanliness, which follows the use of Syrup of Figs, is unknown to the few

Without a Bonus.
The telephone company that was asking a franchise here and that was being asked to give a 5 percent bonus, has been admitted into Anderson without any bonus, and on about the same terms, or less liberal, than those the company offered to this city. Anderson is a good, live city, looking after its own interests, and Richmond might do well to look into her action in that matter.

HORTICULTURAL.

October Meeting of the Wayne County Agricultural and Horticultural Society.

In the society's room at the court house on Saturday afternoon, the 8th inst., the October meeting of this society assembled. Called to order by the president near the usual hour, and the minutes were read and approved.
The display on the tables was fine for this time of the year. James Smith, four varieties of potatoes, Jersey sweet potatoes, apple and champion quinces, Concord and Niagara grapes and fine mixed bouquet of cut flowers. Jesse Stevens, large white corn, samples of apples, peach, quince and Russian plums. O. D. Addelman, the large quince, C. W. King, potatoes. J.
C. Ratliff, Garber and Deal pears and varieties of grapes. Mary P.
Thory, Josephine Newkirk, Mary Sutton and Hannah C. Grave, each choice bouquet.

From reports, the farmer and gardner has this year been blessed in harvest and in store. The enormous corn crop has been cribbed without being frozen, and is generally the case in many localities.

The president and others in recent travels over ours and sister states find the abundant rains have produced extraordinary crops everywhere, and that Indiana ranks first in their estimation, in corn and fine growing wheat—the garden spot of this republic, where contentment reigns among happy farmers on improved and reasonably well-kept farms.

But little clover seed is seen in this locality, and corn is rotting badly, due to too much rain, where the stalks are lying on the ground.
Joseph Ratliff, Caleb W. King and James Smith confirmed former fruit and vegetable reports, finding the season most favorable for the latter.
Some exceptional yields of sweet potatoes were given, one being six hills yielding over one-half bushel.
The prevalence of the scab on Irish potatoes is largely obviated by care in the selection of seed, discarding affected tubers.

Many members gave reports on our recent Richmond fair. The vegetable and grain departments, under the supervision of our society, were well filled, but from a scarcity of fruit, this and the culinary classes were far below the expectation of all, and the society tends to co-operate in like manner if the fair is continued.

The following resolution was adopted:
Resolved, That this society expresses to the management of the Richmond fair its generous and grateful thanks as an appreciation of the courtesies so freely and hospitably given to our members at the recent fair.
Mary Farry Thorp read an excellent paper entitled "Our Rural Homes," that was appreciated and complimented and ordered submitted for publication in our city newspapers, and a vote of thanks was given her for her efforts.

After consideration of minor matters, the closing of the fair was made and wife and Thomas Clark and daughter as members of our society were made.
The society adjourned to meet in the room of the second Saturday in November, when J. Edgar Hilt will address us.
JESSE STEVENS, Pres't.
WALTER RATLIFF, Sec'y.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Oliver in Scotch Recitals.

Referring to the recital to be given by Miss Katharine Oliver at the Lindley hall, Earlham, next Friday night, the patronized this morning at Ross' drug store, and the attendance bids fair to be good. Tickets are also on sale at Fletcher's. When Miss Oliver recited in Thurins, in Scotland, the British Weekly, under date of July 30, 1898, says:
"It was a unique and delightful entertainment which was afforded the good folks of 'Thurins' one evening last week by Miss Katharine Oliver, the well-known interpreter of Scotch character from America. Miss Oliver was only paying a flying visit to the 'red town on the hill,' and at the suggestion of a few of the leading inhabitants she kindly consented to give a recital of her own compositions. The audience, which was thoroughly representative, included Mr. John Barrie (author of Mr. David Barrie) and Miss Barrie, & David Ogilvy (nephew to the novelist), and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Winter. The Rev.
Wm. Roy, of the North Free church, kindly took the chair and introduced Miss Oliver, who fairly excelled in her delightful portrayal of the many and diverse characters in Mr. Barrie's famous novel, and quite roused to enthusiasm many in the audience whose interest in the novelist's works had hitherto been but anxious. Miss Oliver's impersonation of old Nanney Webster in the madhouse, previous to her expected removal to the poor house, was a bit of powerful work, and brought tears to the eyes of not a few. At the termination of the recital Mr. John Ogilvy complimented Miss Oliver on her rare literary abilities, and called for a vote of thanks to the entertainer from the audience, a compliment which was most enthusiastically accorded."

A CAT FOOT
Found in the Bolog a Sausage
—The Matter Referred to Dr.
T. Henry Davis—His Letter to the Unfortunate People.

A day or so ago, at Fountain City, a family purchased from a local dealer some Bologna sausage that made the whole family sick. A sample of the sausage was sent to Dr. Henry Davis of this city for examination. The family was rather seriously ill, and had to be under the care of a physician. The doctor upon examination in this city found a cat's foot in the sausage, and sent to the Fountain City dealer the following characteristic letter: Gentlemen: I have in my possession a specimen of Bologna sausage, which I am sending you for your examination. It was bought at your establishment. It was chewed and then eschewed. It is not a foot long, but it is a foot all the same, and has claws. I am saving the claws. If you can give me satisfactory evidence that it was not sold by you it will be your saving clause.
For the purpose of identification (if it still appears) please send me the balance of the cat. This will obviate the categorical inquiries, and perhaps avert business catastrophe. Evidently some Bologna manufacturer requires cathartization. This Bologna was not as is customary sold to a boarding house, but to an esteemed citizen, who is still caterwauling about it.
T. HENRY DAVIS,
Health Officer.

The Richmond district convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary society will be held at Fifth street M. E. church, this city, November 3 and 4, 1898. Mrs. Eldridge of Irvington will have charge of Bible readings and services for young people. Mrs. C. G.
Hudson of Elkhar, conference secretary, will have charge of the rotatable work and of a special meeting for the district and auxiliary officers.
General B. R. Cowan of Cincinnati will address a meeting on Thursday evening. There will be reports from all the organizations in the district, called auxiliary organizations, and there will be a report for the branch meeting at South Bend this week. The district corresponding secretary will give a report. There will be a report from the district financial secretary. The amount raised this year was $715 in the district.

FOULKE'S FUN.

William Dudley Foulke Pokes Fun at the Family Coats-of-Arms in the Most Ruthless Manner.

(Washington Post.)
It seems that, some time in May last,
the descendants of Edward Foulke, who settled in Montgomery county two centuries or so ago, held a family reunion. About six hundred persons were present on the occasion, and there was great rejoicing, not to mention the usual happy and complimentary remarks. The really important result of the celebration, however, was the agreement to prepare and formulate a genealogical tree for the Foulke family, and in due time, to brandish it in the faces of the Philadelphia aristocracy, especially that section of it which lays claim to royal lineage.
Now, after some months of laborious excavation, the Foulke committee have completed the family pedigree and laid it before an astonished and delighted world, and what is still more to the purpose, before that eminent Magnate and reformer, the Hon.
William Dudley Foulke, of Richmond, Indiana. We shall not undertake to follow the royal origin of the American Foulkes is immortal. Even in this opulently equipped office the supply of consonants is unequal to the demands of a Welsh pedigree. It may serve all needful purposes to say, however, that the Indiana Foulke has carefully examined the statement and gives to it his cordial, if not enthusiastic approval. Indeed, after emerging from a perfectly bewildering labyrinth of Boddyns and Glyndydrses, and Graftydes and Llanuwellyns, Hon. William Dudley Foulke recovers breath enough
to say:
"It will be seen from this that very little of the royalty on Europe has managed to escape from the ancestry of the Foulke family. It is to be regretted that the grand princes of Moscow, the Shahs of Persia, and the em-perors of China, cannot as yet be clearly identified, but it is to be hoped that time and a still more exhaustive re-

THE TEST BRIDGE.

Contract Let to the Massillon Bridge
Company for $3,895.

This county commissioners opened bids Saturday afternoon late, for the bridge over the Whitewater near Test's mills, and the contract was awarded to the Massillon bridge company. The bids were as follows:
Massillon bridge company, $3,895.
New Castle bridge company, $4,349.
Indiana bridge company, $4,485.
J. D. Adams bridge company, $4,590.
The bid of the bid of the Massillon company being the lowest and best, the contract will be awarded accordingly.
The bridge is to be a good one, 200 feet long, and a three-span steel structure.

rades of the G. A. R. are requested to meet at post hall, north eighth street, this (Monday) evening at 7:30 o'clock to make arrangements to give the deceased a military burial with honors of war.
Post, Sons of Veterans, and all other people who will take part in the burial will assemble at post hall promptly at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and go to 234 south west second street, where religious services will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Ellis, of South Eighth Street Friends' church, at 2 p. m. Interment at Earlham.

FOULKE'S FUN.

the Family Coats-of-Arms in the Most Ruthless Manner.

It seems that, some time in May last,
the descendants of Edward Foulke,
union. About six hundred persons
remarks. The really important result of the cele-
royal lineage.
Magnate and reformer, the Hon.
William Dudley Foulke, of Richmond,
Foulkes is immortal. Even in this
all needful purposes to say, however,
that the Indiana Foulke has carefully
his cordial, if not enthusiastic approval. Indeed, after emerging from
a perfectly bewildering labyrinth of
tydes and Llanuwellyns, Hon. William Dudley Foulke recovers breath enough
to say:
"It will be seen from this that very
perors of China, cannot as yet be clear-

search conducted under the auspices of some member of the Genealogical society of Pennsylvania will at least supply the broken links which connect us with these dynasties. In order to stimulate still further such researches I would suggest that the order of American Queens be divided into various degrees, according to the number of royal dynasties from which the 'queens' are respectively descended. Thus the precise quantity of royal ancestry may be gauged with mathematical exactness.
"The Foulke prospectus has been subject to irreverent observations by the uninformed. 'Twenty-six coats-of-arms,' we are told, 'with their heraldic descriptions, are distributed throughout the tables, all based upon authority.' One skeptic thinks it extraordinary that the Welsh tribesmen who had no coats to their backs should now eluminate in history as the possessors of brilliant coats-of-arms. Such criticism is due to the critic's still more scanty knowledge of their actual apparel.
"One member of the family, using the answer of Artemus Ward to the mistralist proposals of the 'Mormon widows,' said that it was the 'march-ness' of these ancestors that he objected to, that he did not mind a duke or two, or even a king, but he did not want so many of them. Such moderation is manifestly impossible when intermarriages between royal families are considered. If you are willing to take one king for a progenitor you may have to take a dozen.
In the matter of royal ancestors as well as that of intermarriages there is no perfect safety except in total abstinence.
"The prospectus tells us that 'within the limits of such a circular it is scarcely possible to do justice to a work of this description.' There is no reason to doubt the statement. Something more than a brief circular—indeed, something more than any common literary production, however tabulated and adorned with coats-of-arms—is needed to portray adequately the glories of such ancestry. The marvel is that these tables are offered to members of the family as well as to others at the low price of $3 per copy.
"Up to the present time a royal ancestry has been generally confined to the families of such Americans as have been best able to pay for it. It is gratifying, at least to the Foulkes, to find one which is most placed within the reach of modest purses. The man who will not give $3 for such propitious must be insensible to the calls of fame and to all noble aspirations.
"It is to be hoped that the step thus taken toward the democratization of royal and noble blood will be generally followed, and, although few families can hope to live in ancestry with the extricated luxuriance of that of a family of Foulkes, yet that all may in time find some sort of nobility, and even royalty, within easy reach, thanks to the diligence and ingenuity of the members of the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania."

What Shall Be Done

FOR THE DELICATE GIRL.

You have tried iron and other tonics. But she keeps pale and thin. Her sallow complexion worries you. Perhaps she has a little hacking cough also. Her head aches; and she cannot study. Give her

Scott's Emulsion

The oil will feed her wasting body; the glycerine will soothe her cough, and the hypophosphites will give new power and vigor to her nerves and brain.
Never say "I cannot" take cod-liver oil" until you have tried Scott's Emulsion.
You will be obliged to change your opinion at once. Children especially become very fond of it; and infants do not know when it is added to their food.

THE TEST BRIDGE.

Company for $3,895.

awarded to the Massillon bridge company. The bids were as follows:
Massillon bridge company, $3,895.
New Castle bridge company, $4,349.
Indiana bridge company, $4,485.
J. D. Adams bridge company,
$4,590.
The bid of the bid of the Massillon
company being the lowest and best,
ingly.
structure.
