The headache used to return every seventh day, but thanks to Celery King I have had but one headache in the last eleven months. I know that what Celery King cures Constipation, and Nerves, Stomach, Liver and Kidney diseases.

The g. o. p. is all right. Stick a pin there.

The most shocking disillusion that can befall a man occurs when he happens to meet with a bevy of theatrical women in a railroad car or at a hotel just after seeing them on the stage or viewing their pictures in newspapers and show windows.

The result of the Ohio municipal elections yesterday is a great big straw showing how the political wind is blowing. The Republicans made gains nearly everywhere. In Cincinnati the fusionists were snored under. Instead of the 7,000 plurality they had three years ago they were placed 5,000 in the whole yesterday. The Republican victory in that city is a wholesome rebuke to the renegade Commercial Tribune which did all in its power to aid the conglomerates. In Cleveland where the Democrats were very confident of success on account of local Republican dissensions the Republican ticket won by handsome majorities. As a whole the result in Ohio is particularly gratifying at this time in view of the croaking that has lately been indulged in and of the fact that the contest was in President McKinley's own state.

Richmond is slowly but surely getting there. The C., R. & M. railroad may be regarded as a certainty. The projectors state that in four months from the time the subway in this township is voted cars will be running on the southern part of the road from this city to the C., H. & D. Yesterday the county commissioners granted the right of way for an electric line west to the county line, taking in Centerville, Cambridge City and Dublin. This line will undoubtedly be built within the time agreed upon by the projectors, and it will be a paying road. Though represented by local parties the real power in the enterprise is Mr. Murdoch of Lafayette, a capitalist and hustler. It will be worth a good deal to Richmond to have him interested in our welfare, and we predict that his interest in us will not stop with this electric line. There is a ripe field of enterprise here for men of his qualities.

Senator Fairbanks is receiving many congratulations on his Porto Rican speech. It was the first clear exposition of the case and it has done more than all the other speeches on the subject to harmonize the conflicting views in the party. After carefully reading this speech and studying the provisions of the bill which will pass the house today no true Republican, whatever his predilections may have been on the Porto Rican question, will find excuse for not supporting the administration policy. The bill is simply a temporary relief measure for the island, and its adoption will sacrifice no principle or bind the government to any fixed insular policy. Under it all articles of vital importance at present to the people of Porto Rico are admitted absolutely free. The food stuffs alone which are imported by Porto Rico from the United States, and which go free of duty, constitute more than one fourth of that island's imports from this country. With such important concessions in the way of free trade for Porto Rico this bill cannot fail to commend itself to those Republicans who, like the PALLADIUM, have been attached to the free trade idea so far as that island is concerned. All reasonable Republicans will admit that the compromise is a fair one and that it should end the discussion within the party lines.

MARY ANN EVANS' DEATH.

Particulars Concerning Her Sickness, Demise and Burial Near Jerusalem.

This morning a representative of the PALLADIUM called upon Mr. L. J. Woodward, son-in-law of Mary Ann Evans, and from him learned the following particulars of Mrs. Evans' sickness and death. Details are very meagre, but they have the following facts obtained from letters and cables received:

Mrs. Evans contracted a slight cold while visiting the pyramids at Cairo, but it was not thought to be serious, and when they left Alexandria on February 22 she expected to be well very soon, but at Jaffa, on the 23rd of February, she was unable to get out of bed and hastened to Jerusalem, and by next morning it was found she had an acute attack of pneumonia. She was at once taken to a good German Catholic hospital in Jerusalem, where she received every kindness and attention it was possible to give. The mother superior of this institution is a very kind lady, and the same person who, as nurse in a like institution at Alexandria, ten years ago, was so kind to Miss Sarah Hussey while very ill in that city. Meeting her again was a glad surprise.

Mrs. Evans' two daughters, Mary and Sarah, and sister, Miss Sarah Hussey, were allowed free access to her, and when they were in Jerusalem, they also remained with her until her death. At the end of the first week she was thought to be improving but when the ship was due to sail from Jaffa, she was unable to join the party and Miss Hussey was also sick at the same hospital, with influenza, and so Mr. Hussey went to the ship and had all the trunks put off and the rest of the party sailed away and left them behind expecting, however, to join the party a little later. This was on March 7. Mrs. Evans soon rallied and was able to get out of bed and walk about until the afternoon of March 9 when to her daughter coming from lunch Mrs. Evans said "now Mary you had better go for your lunch. Before, however, she had gone a difficulty in breathing was observed and she passed quietly away at 2 p. m. in less than ten minutes from the time she had spoken.

The laws are such that it is almost impossible to bring a corpse from that country, and it was decided to bury her at Ramallah, a village and mission station ten miles north of Jerusalem.

New England Yearly Meeting of Friends have a mission there and own a plot of ground. Here her brother, Mr. Hussey, spent two years superintending the mission work, and her sister, Miss Hussey, spent one year. A missionary, Charles Jones, was also buried here some years ago. It is said to be a beautiful sunny spot.

Here Mrs. Evans was buried on the day following her death. Miss Hussey was too ill to leave the hospital. Ten men on foot carried Mrs. Evans' body over the rough and narrow stony way from Jerusalem to Ramallah, and her brother, Mr. Hussey, and her two daughters, Mary and Sarah, three sorrowful mourners, followed on donkeys.

Miss Hussey seems to have grown worse after her sister's death, but the 19th of March she was able to leave the hospital and go to Jaffa, where it is warmer. A cable from there on that date says "Sarah improved."

IN PALESTINE.

The Holy Land No Disappointment—Visit to Many Places Spoken of in the Bible—Letter Num. R 25.

Correspondence Richmond Palladium.

ON BOARD NEW ENGLAND, March 9, 1900.

Have I been disappointed in Palestine? No. Or, perhaps, better to say it, yes, in a very agreeable way. It has been an unexpected revelation as to the light it sheds on the Bible narrative. The Bible will be ever to me freer, fuller of interest and more real, because of what I have seen. Having seen Pisgah, Nebo, Tabor, Hermon, Olivet, Carmel, Ebal and Gerizim, Brook Kedron, Cherith and Kishon, and many other familiar places, puts an unexpected reality in Bible history, and furnishes many reasons for things hitherto unaccounted for. It is a revelation of things which I had not known, and which I will be my place rather to talk when I return, and for the present write only of the details of our journey.

Our passenger coaches from Jaffa were divided into sections and seats were arranged along sides, like those of the winter street cars. Instead of cramping us in tickets we were counted. A guide was furnished to each coach to point out and explain places of interest. The railroad is as smooth as the excellent Panhandle.

At first it was quite sandy on either side, but strangely enough it is sand that will produce grapes and figs in abundance. In a very short time we came to wonderful orange orchards. The trees stand closely together and are loaded with fruit, so it seems like a great mass of "apples of gold." One cannot walk through without touching them. Fifty million oranges are produced here last year. Farther on we came to the Plain of Sharon. And now having seen all Palestine, I say once for all that I have been agreeably disappointed as to its productive qualities. I had expected chiefly a barren Sharon and the Plain of Esdraelon, and all the plains and valleys, as well as on many mountain slopes, there is most fertile soil and the products are abundant. There is also close and careful cultivation. The limestone formation is constantly enriching it. Beautiful and extensive wheat fields appear. Gradually the plain becomes rolling, and then we were in the Judean hills. Now large olive orchards come into view. Yonder to our right is an agricultural college, and every lover of humanity is glad it is here to enlighten these people. Yonder also in plain sight is where Samson caught the foxes and set fire to the wheat. Watch houses are seen, and they were formerly used to protect travelers, but are now no longer needed. They are built so closely to each other that a traveler would not disappear from the vision of one serpent like around the slopes. For a time the scenery is as beautiful as in the Rockies; cattle and goats are grazing on the slopes. Great ravines and great rocks give a sense of grandeur. The hard rocks have been cut away to make a road for us to travel. But there is another view. Succeeding terraces appear one above the other, with vines of grapes, carefully laid, and even the mountain slopes are under cultivation. Wheat and barley are growing, and it gives a pleasing scene of beauty, as we look upward at platform after platform of green. And now the mountain heights grow somewhat less. We are approaching Jerusalem. Stone houses here and there are built on each other. Our passports are collected and we are at the station. To carriages we are led and our drivers dash us down hill and up hill at a lively rate.

It is Friday, and if we see the Jews waiting it must be this afternoon, so as soon as we can we go through the J. J. Gate (our hotels are all outside the walls) and down David's street to the Temple streets till we stand before the Jews who are reading their Hebrew Bibles, some standing with their faces toward the east and others from place to place kissing the rocks in the wall. Most of the men have their hair shingled closely, except a spot over each ear, which is permitted to grow long and hang down in front of the eyes. We were told that these were priests, but I did not exercise much confidence in the information. Many of them were richly dressed in robes of purple or of gold. Others there were who were poorly clad. All seemed earnest and were not in the least disturbed by the presence of visitors. ELLWOOD O. ELLIS.

Caught a Beautiful Gold.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits by its sale by A. G. Luken & Co., and Curme & Co."

COUNCIL MEETING.

LOTS OF BUSINESS TRANSACTED LAST NIGHT.

City Engineer "Jacked Up" by Councilman Meyer. The Engineer Explains the Plunge Business Minor Matters Follow.

The city council held a busy session last night. The most interesting feature of the session was the resolution introduced by Mr. Dobbin, demanding that the chairman of the railroad committee explain why a communication from the promoters of the Cincinnati Northwest-railway company had not been presented to council at its last session, and also demanding an explanation of the fact that the city engineer had answered letters from P. C. E. Kiley, president of the company, which were addressed to the council. Mr. Dobbin maintained that the engineer had no authority to answer the letters without being instructed by council, and in support of his statement substituted letters from Mr. Crosey which set forth all the correspondence between himself and the engineer. Mr. Crosey, who was present, also made a statement in defense of the engineer, claiming that the Cincinnati Northwest-railroad scheme was only one of many that he had been asked to consider, and that he had assured them that after the Cincinnati, Richmond & Muncie railroad was started, he would consider the Cincinnati Northwest-railroad. Mr. Crosey was present and stated that the Cincinnati Northwest-railroad people were acting in good faith and accused Mr. Weber of being the promoter of the scheme. ## IN THE COURTS

Morristown Natural Gas Trouble to Be Adjusted.

Morristown, Ind., April 3.—The town council has been restrained by the Rushville Natural Gas company from any further interfering with its mains within the corporation line. The case will be called for trial by Judge Morris on the 10th inst. In securing the injunction the company was compelled to file affidavits that it had a contract with the town; otherwise it would have been a trespasser. Before filing the injunction proceedings, it is alleged that the company claimed that it had no contract. The town council had given notice that it would cut the mains of the company April 1, unless former rates were established. The company refused to reduce, but fromed to compromise. The town council declined overtures, and the matter was carried into the courts.

Fatal Dose by Mistake. Princeton, Ind., April 3.—Daniel Dougan, 24 years old, son of Robert Dougan, a prominent resident of Princeton, died from the effects of taking a dose of arsenic, thinking it was quinine. The dose was administered by his cousin, William White, at whose home Dougan was visiting.

Wanted Also at Bedford. Bedford, Ind., April 3.—Leroy Chan also Sheriff, under arrest at Washington, D. C., is wanted here on a charge of forgery. It being alleged that he passed six checks, calling for $100 each.

Indiana Heirs. Hobart, Ind., April 3.—Joseph Treagler, also brother, who live near here, are heirs to an estate of $100,000, by the death of an uncle in New York.

The French Way. Paris, April 3.—Baron Edouard De Rothschild, has appointed Count Louis De Turenne and M. O'Connor to be his seconds in response to the letter of Count De Laborac, threatening to throw the latter's glove in the former's face whenever they met. The two seconds consulted together and have written to Count De Laborac informing him that the duelling code prevents Baron Edouard De Rothschild from accepting the challenge until the latter has given satisfaction to Baron Robert De Rothschild. They point out that the fact that the latter is a minor forms no excuse for Count De Laborac refusing to meet him.

Count De Laborac wrote M. Ephrussi last evening expressing his willingness to do without a duel, and adding: "I am ready to fight, the sooner the better—and I await your seconds."

Dr. Hilla Withdraws. Chicago, April 3.—The resignation of Rev. Newell Dwight Hilla, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, from the Chicago presbytery and the request that he be allowed to deny from the Presbytery church was yesterday placed before the annual meeting of the Chicago presbytery. No action will be taken on the matter for two weeks, the committee to which Dr. Hilla's letter of resignation was referred for consideration requesting that much time on account of the many important interests involved, and being unwilling to take hasty action on a matter so important to the Presbytery church.

Unfavorable to Intervention. Berlin, April 3.—Count Dr. von Helldorf, president of the Reichstag, has been asked by Count Mureff, the Russian foreign minister, to present a joint intervention note, although it is correct that Germany has been sounding Austria-Hungary and Italy, her partners in the triple alliance, with reference to the intervention question. The note in each instance has been unfavorable.
