ROOSEVELT DAY.

COMMITTEE ON RECEPTION MET LAST NIGHT.

A Glorious Time to be Had—Rough Riders Galore—Present Plan for Letting the People See the Famous Rough Rider Colonel.

The committee on reception for Roosevelt day met last night at the Republican headquarters, and discussed plans for conducting the reception for Col. Roosevelt, Senator Fairbanks and John L. Griffiths. The committee was subdivided into other committees, and each was assigned to its work. The plans under contemplation now are most elaborate, but they will be carried out. While not all of the plans are to be divulged as yet, it is now planned to give the people of Richmond a sight of the Rough Rider colonel. Each person in the city that day—and there will be tens of thousands of them—will be given an opportunity to see the famous governor of New York, and to get a good look at him. The Glen will be packed with a sea of humanity, and it will be difficult to see him there, except for the few thousand who can get within speaking distance of the platform. The plan of the committee is to have the man seen, with Senator Fairbanks accompanying him, from the depot to the Glen via Main or some other principal street, the line of march to be fully announced before the day itself. There will be not fewer than 800 to 1,000 Rough Riders from various places within this district, and hundreds of people are coming from points within twenty or thirty and even forty miles, if the weather be at all passable. The train will be met at Muncie or at Winchester by five members of the reception committee, and will be in here at 1:18, according to present schedule. According to present indications there will be not fewer than 20,000 people in the city on that day. It will be such a crowd as has not been seen here in twenty years. Most of the business houses will perhaps close, and quite a number of factories will be shut down for the day. There will be an elaborate program of all over Wayne and joining counties from the country and from the small towns. Announcements of perfected plans will be made from time to time.

Afternoon, industrial parade. Afternoon, Roosevelt's speech at Glen Miller, followed by Roosevelt's departure and a speech by Senator Fairbanks, at the same place.

Evening, a speech by John L. Griffiths, followed by a speech by Roosevelt's prime favorites in oratory. It will be such a day of Republicanism as has not been known here at any time hitherto, and will be a day to remember.

Turn out for Roosevelt day. A large committee from the reception committee will be at the station to wait on the incoming trains and guide visitors to whatever places they may be seeking.

Newton W. Gilbert, candidate for lieutenant governor of the Republican ticket, will speak at the Main street rink next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This is no use prophesying a large crowd for Mr. Gilbert, as he is sure to have it anyway. It would be advisable once more for those who desire good seats to go early and avoid the crowd at the door as well as the rush for seats.
