THE CORRECT WAY.

Make a cross with a fine pencil, inside the circle which contains the eagle and monogram, and you will get a straight Republican ticket. Four ballots will be handed to each voter by the election officer, and in the "Country and State" on white paper; "the County," on yellow paper, and the "Constitutional Amendments," on white paper.

Let not your hearts be troubled.

Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Milk-and-water methods never won a victory in war or in politics. Hair splitting never elected a President. Rail splitting helped to elect one.

The button-badge business has become a large industry. The largest manufacturer of button-badges is located at Newark, N. J. Its annual output of button-badges in an ordinary year is 150,000,000, or about two buttons apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States. In campaign years the output reaches 300,000,000. Four years ago about $1,000,000 was spent for badges. That record will be broken.

A silly report has been circulated recently that Richmond preachers were all going to vote for Bryan. Of course nobody knows anything about this community would give such a report a moment's consideration.

Richmond preachers are to say the least fair representatives of the intelligence of this locality, and their honesty is above question.

That any of them could be carried away by Bryan's sham issues of imperialism and militarism is preposterous. That any of them could be induced to advocate his dishonest financial theory is simply absurd—a theory that would practically rob the laboring man of one half of his earnings whether they be in the shape of weekly wages or deposits in savings banks. That any Richmond preacher would or could endorse Bryan's policy of fomenting class jealousy and hatred is not for a moment believable.

No, the story is a base slander.

In a speech delivered by Mr. Bryan at Indianapolis, October 6, '96, he said:

"Gold is arrogant and tyrannical in time of peace, and it deserts any nation in time of war."

In 1898, the year of the war with Spain, the gold that was sent to this country from abroad amounted to $120,402,195, while only $15,533,719 was exported, leaving a balance in our favor of $104,868,476. On July 1, of that year, the stock of gold in the United States amounted to almost $900,000,000, an increase since Mr. Bryan's nomination of $300,000,000, and since July 1, 1897, an increase of $200,000,000. If Mr. Bryan had been President during the Spanish war he would not doubt his statement would have been verified. Gold would have deserted this nation. But there would not have been much left to desert. The desertion would have begun immediately after Bryan's election. He would have been a greater menace to it than war.

The vote of the presbyteries on the question of the revision of the Presbyterian confession of faith, as thus far decided, is as follows: For revision only, 30; declaratory statement, 2; supplemental creed and revision, 10; substitute creed, 5; dismissal of the whole subscription, 33. There are 222 presbyteries. The vote thus far indicates that any important change in the confession of faith is not probable. The following are the articles in the creed which have given rise to most of the demands for revision:

"By the decree of God, for the manifestation of his glory, some men and angels are predestined unto everlasting life, and others fore-ordained to everlasting death."

"These angels and men thus predestined and fore-ordained are particularly and unchangeably designed, and their number is so certain and definite that it cannot either be increased or diminished."

The declaratory statement proposed by some presbyteries is as follows:

"In accepting the standard, it is not required to be held that any who die in infancy are lost."

It will be observed, however, that only two presbyteries have thus far expressed themselves in favor of a declaratory statement.

A VERY FUNNY THING.

People will eat all kinds of poorly prepared food and abuse their digestive system in every way imaginable until they get the grippe. Then they will come all run down from lack of proper nourishment. Isn't it a funny thing that we are a mil of dyspepsia and for twenty years have cried their dyspepsia cures and number become millionaires without even knowing it?

Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y., "was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good guarantee for the personal use of any case of dyspepsia and restore the bowels and to perfectly natural action of the medicine. TO YOUNG MEN
OF AMERICA

At Indianapolis Hon. Albert J. Beveridge, United States Senator from Indiana, was created by one of the most notable audiences of the campaign in Indiana. His great address to the young men of America, delivered in Tomlinson hall, was received with the closest attention, the many pointed references contained in it addressing creating the utmost enthusiasm. He said in part:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

America is the young man of the nations. In this campaign more than one million young men will enlist under the political banner under which the initial force of their first vote and all the influences that bind men to the party will cause them to stand by the principles of their party. It is to these young men that I speak.

It is to their future that I appeal. The election of President McKinley seems now an absolute certainty; and no appeal is now necessary to insure the re-election of a man who has been great enough to understand the needs of the nation.

It is to their future that I speak. The young man has neither money, friends nor any asset but his industry, his courage, his honor and his ability.

Would he have as great an opportunity if all these combinations were destroyed, as he has today? Could he find a position in the era of the small shop as easily as in the era of the department store? No, because each shopkeeper has on his own shop.

No, because he would not have the money.

And you could not start a shop more easily than you can now without money. This industrial development of which the department store, the railroad consolidation, the great building and the mighty manufacturing enterprises are another step in our advancing civilization.

It is to these young men that I speak. The question for the young men who are in this campaign are: Will they be enlisted in two great political parties? Will they be enlisted in the party of the nation? Will they be enlisted in the party of the world?

It is to these young men that I speak.

It is to their future that I speak.

It is to their
