GAS FAILURE.

Natural Gas as a Fuel or Light Almost of winter. Natural gas is a thing of the past. It is so low all over the city that it is almost impossible to keep warm by it at all. In fact, it is an impossibility, and only the foolish and simple can be taken in by this.

From putting in a supply of other fuel, saying to themselves: "If everybody else would quit, there might be enough for me." That would be all right if it were not for the fact that several hundred consumers are saying the same thing, between their chattering teeth. It is the old story of the "pig in the manger."

When one remarked: "If one of us would get off I could ride lots better."

In the meantime there is plenty of opportunity to catch permanent cold and sustain irreparable damage. Many persons waited thus last winter and the scheme worked, except in the very coldest zero weather, but this year the scheme has not worked, and consequently less hope in that sort of "freezing-out" process. The fuel dealers who sell tangible blocks of heat-producer are doing a good business, and will continue throughout the winter, and natural gas either as fuel or light will become a matter of history in the very near future.

Gen. Buller Home Again.

Southampton, Nov. 10.—Gen. Sir

Bernard Buller, on the Dunvegan Castle, from Cape Town, reached the Quay at Southampton last evening at half past eight. He was greeted by Lord Wolseley and his staff, as well as by many of the local townpeople. At 9 o'clock he sat down to the mayoral banquet, the first of a long series of functions in his honor.

Bernard is Delayed.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The members of the French dramatic company, headed by Mme. Bernhardt and M. Coquelin, who had expected to leave for New York in time to begin the company's American tour in that city, have been delayed having an accident to the steamer, but they will leave New York next Monday.

Youthful Party's Correction.

"Mamma, mamma," she cried, "Tommie's making faces at me."

"Ain't doing anything of the kind," reported the boy.

"Why, Tommie," corrected the indulgent mother.

"No, you didn't," persisted the boy.

"I couldn't make a face if I wanted to."

"All I did was to screw up the ready made one I've got."—Chicago Post.

RICHMOND DAILY PALLADIUM, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1900.

PERSONALITIES.

Ex-Governor Pillsbury of Minnesota and his wife are planning a home in St. Paul for poor girls out of work or disabled by ill health.

Miss Helen Chadbick of England has been astonishing both the whites and blacks in central Africa by her five months' journey into the far interior. Charles T. Hills, the millionaire who has given so many public buildings to the city of Saginaw, Mich., recently gave a Masonic temple to the Masonic Lodge of that city.

One of the reckless extravagances of the maharajah of Bhuripore, who has recently been deposed by the government of India was the purchase of a silver coach costing $10,000.

John C. Wingate of Wingate, Ind., owns the famous white beaver hat that helped to make two Harrison presidents. It was made for Mr. Wingate's grandfather, Christian Coon, who wore it to the old Harrison ballroom on the Tippecanoe battlefield.

President Loubet of France is interested in autographs and has one of the best private collections in that country. On that he spends a great deal of money and the other day gave a large sum for a letter written by Balzac.

Francis T. White, of New York city, has given $5,000 to Earlham college, a Friends' educational institution in Indiana, to be added to the like amount given by him a year ago, the whole to be known as the Francis T. White endowment fund.

It is said that Lord Salisbury when in the country recently arose at half past 4 in the morning to read "Monte-Cristo." He was surprised to find Sandringham, by the way of Wales, also a very early riser, who afterward got up to read the same book, beating the prime minister by half an hour.

Miss Jennie Mather, Mrs. Jane Mather, widow of George Mather, a broker; Mrs. Eunice Mather and William Mather, all members of the Mather family of Jefferson county, N. Y., have given $10,000 to Union college for the purpose of establishing an agricultural department to teach scientific farming.

Mr. Robert L. Murphy, a jeweler from a London jeweler five watches of the kind known as "ironclads" for presentation to his Indian orderlies. The watches bear the following inscription: "Presented by Field Marshal Roberts to—his faithful and unwearied personal orderly throughout the South African campaign, 1900."

One of the most friendships formed at Washington during the present national administration has been that between Secretary of War Root and Adjutant General Corbin. The latter is an enthusiastic equestrian, and under his tutelage Mr. Root has become perfectly at home in the saddle. The two ride about a great deal together.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

The latest petticoats are made of satins, foulards, gossamer, and soft and durable.

The new fur muff is long, flat, entirely without stiffening and has two rows of tails, one at the top and one across the lower edge.

Gold trimmings have gone up about 10 per cent in price, a striking commentary on the lavishness with which dressmakers and milliners are using them.

Broad, flat and round is the new style, in which the crown and brim are a blunder.

Put white toilettes are to be as popular during the winter season as they have been during the summer and are being prepared in cloth as often as in lighter materials for house and evening wear.

Fall white chiffon bonnets edged with soft black chenille, long strands of the chenille forming the ends, are worn in the evening. These were launched in the spring, but they are now generally in evidence now.

The plain black stockings seem to be losing favor, and in this place are embodied in various colors and patterns in every that shade. To be up to date and altogether swell the stockings and shoes must match the gown for house and evening wear.

Heavy, lustrous brocades in one tone are once more in fashion, to the unmitigated delight of dowagers as well as young women. In fact, Miss Ida Moore is doing the dowagers particularly well this season, and both materials and designs are in the main well suited to elderly matrons.—New York Sun.

APHORISMS.

Have an aim in life or your energies will be wasted.—M. C. Peters.

Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.—Chesterfield.

No man ever became great or good except through many and great misfortunes.—Gladstone.

He who is lord of himself and exists upon his own resources is a noble but a rare being.—Brydges.

The first quarterly meeting of the Wesleyan Methodist church will take place tomorrow. Elder Lowrance of West Virginia will preach.
