Young Honore Palmer's salary as Chicago alderman will be $1,500 per annum. This will keep the wolf from the door. No wonder his mother is so elated over her boy's election.

The annual report of the Panhandle railroad just issued shows a gain in business over last year of $1,137,000. The gross revenue for the year on the 1,407 miles operated was $22,264,900. The net earnings were $5,757,600, and the net income over all charges was $2,382,350.

The cool weather, while it delays the donning of winter garments has its advantages. It is keeping the fruit buds back and preventing fall wheat from growing too rapidly. The wheat prospect has rarely been better at this season than it is now.

The Northern Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opens at Elwood today. The session promises to be a very interesting one. The meetings will be held in the new M. E. church at that place, one of the finest in the state. The American Tin Plate company has invited the ministers to visit the mammoth plant at Elwood and they will avail themselves of the opportunity some day this week.

The report comes from Topeka that David Nation has become tired of playing the role of "Carrie Nation's husband." He is going to move to his own farm and do business on his own account. He was a captain in the army, a business man, and he prefers the honor of having been a snasher of the great rebellion to that of being the meek and lowly spouse of the saloon snasher. His counsel in this matter may have been somewhat influenced by the fact that Mrs. Nation's zeal in the saloon smashing business was largely produced by the drunkenness of her first husband. David probably has no sympathy with the saloons, but he may prefer that his predecessor's career should not cut quite so large a figure in his own domestic affairs. In fact he may not care to be constantly reminded that he had a predecessor, especially as he was not at all a creditable one.

Just after Easter is an appropriate time to call attention to the cruel slaughter of birds that is going on in this country to supply the demand for ladies' hats and bonnet ornaments. A report of a "committee on North American birds" gives some startling information on this subject. The case of one hunter in Texas is cited who boasted that he and a companion had, in 1889, shot 816 birds in five days and 1,023 in six or seven days. The principal birds taken were water birds, but brightly colored land birds bore a ready market, and any white breasted birds could be sold. Special war was waged on the gulls and terns, whose white breasts are just now greatly desired by the plumed hat wearers. The report says: "The close of the year 1899 marked a great increase in the demand for gulls, terns and other sea birds for millinery purposes. In one case postal cards offering a regular scale of prices for birds were sent to postmasters all along the Gulf coast, with requests to place them in the hands of gunners and fishermen." All these birds are useful. The gulls are the scavengers of the sea. The land birds are the destroyers of harmful insects. Without birds life in this world would lose much of its charm. Shall they be exterminated by man's cupidity, woman's vanity and boys' destructiveness?

The Indianapolis Press is the only respectable American newspaper that has found fault with Governor Wood for suppressing the Havana sheet that indecently caricatured President McKinley and General Wood, representing them as the two thieves in the crucifixion scene and Cuba as occupying the position of Christ on the cross. Here is the burden of the Press' howl:

One of the fundamental rights of man, as the founders of our Republic conceived them and as we have developed them, is the right of free speech, with the correlative right of a free press. Where there are no denials of liberty do not exist and freedom is a farce. Thousands of more offensive cartoons than this are published in the United States every year, yet no officer entrusted with power by the people would dare for a moment to think of suppressing the newspapers that publish them or of imprisoning their authors.

We are endeavoring to teach the Cubans self-government, and here we have the man appointed to do this using the military force at his command to carry out a whim caused by puerile resentment. Is the picture a pleasant one?

We are endeavoring to teach the Cubans respect for law and order. We rescued them from an unscrupulous and merciless despot at a cost of many precious lives and millions of money. Shall we now allow any upstart who happens to be in control of a newspaper to undo all that has been accomplished by teaching the half civilized natives of Cuba that their rescuers are thieves, robbers and enemies? Cuba is in a transition state that may end in good government or anarchy. It is in the throes of a struggle for existence as a civilized community. When this country was undergoing such a struggle Abraham Lincoln did not hesitate to suppress seditious speech and newspapers. Any patriotic President would have done the same thing.

DUBLIN.

Several new patterns of the lawn swing are the products of some of the genius of Dublin.

A. J. Kelly is having considerable repairing done on the property lately bought of Mrs. Jane Hammond.

A proposition is now on foot to pay our marshal one dollar a day or $300 per year, with no extra pay for any kind of work, which will bring out a large number of candidates for the office this spring.

Prof. Guy Jones of Cadiz was down to see his parents Sunday week ago. Miss Myrtle Layman was visiting friends in and about Cadiz part of last week.

There will no doubt be some from Dublin who will attend the M. E. conference the last of the week and over Sunday at Elwood.

Tuesday evening the citizens meet in the Odd Fellows' hall to nominate a ticket. There will be two points in this election that will elicit some interest. One is that of the marshal, and the other whether we are to have cement sidewalks.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lamb of Mishawaka have been here several days, visiting with Mrs. Prof. Jones, Jane Gilmore, and other friends.

The sick of our town at present are John Snyder, Jesse Hiatt, Mrs. Chas. H. Snyder, Samuel Schneider and David Milon. Some others not so serious.

Mrs. Jane Gilmore sold her eighty acre farm, three miles southwest of Dublin, a few days ago to Dr. Daniel Ellabarger of Richmond. Mrs. Gilmore did wisely in this sale as she is entirely alone, her children having all left her and no one to see to anything but herself. She certainly sees more satisfaction in her new home than she did in her old one, and she is well satisfied.

Cliff Mason and father sold their fine lot of hogs the other day at Indianapolis at top of the market prices.

Mortgage Exemption.

Persons desiring to get the benefit of the $200 exemption, let better come to the court house to get their affidavits made. The description must be the same as on the tax duplicate or the auditor can not give the proper credit. Price 25 cents.

Remarkable Confession of Young Man Arrested at Columbus.

Columbus, O., April 9.—A young man giving the name of D. M. Dewar, arrested at the Clifton hotel on the charge of attempting to beat a board bill, yesterday made a remarkable confession to the chief of police. He stated that his right name is M. R. Dewar, and that his home is at Minneapolis. While there he was employed as a confidential clerk and bookkeeper for Fletcher Brothers of the Minneapolis Elevator company. In that capacity he claims he had the combination of the safe and one night stole $200 from the safe and fled. In a few months after this he went back to Minneapolis, and as he had taken one of the front door keys with him, he let himself in and stole goods to the value of $100. He then collected a lot of old letters and set fire to them, fire destroying the entire block. He made his escape again from the city and shortly afterward was met by his parents at another place. He informed them of what crimes he had committed in Minneapolis and they aided him in getting away. His parents, whom he claims are respectable and wealthy people, did this in order that he might escape prosecution and not disgrace them. He promised to reform and says that so far as his parents know he is supposed to be leading an exemplary life.

Dewar said he had gone to Chicago and thence to Dayton, where he had a Pinkerton badge made and forged the names of Allan and William Pinkerton to a certificate that he was in their employ. From Dayton he came to Columbus and he says he intended to fleece a number of persons by pretending that he desired to employ a stenographer and to secure what money he could from applicants and then jump the city.

Bishop Turner's Recommendations.

Macon, Ga., April 9.—Bishop Henry M. Turner of the Atlanta Methodist church, who has been conducting services among the negro churches here for the past two days, openly advocates the banishment of negro criminals to Africa. He deprecates the fact that this country has no steamship lines to Africa. He thinks southern ports in the United States would profit a great deal by the commerce that would thus be built up.

Somewhat Affected.

"Does this literary atmosphere affect you any?" asked the tramp dog of the newspaper office cat.

"Oh, I drop into poetry once in a while," answered the cat as he climbed up the wastebasket and went to sleep.—Indianapolis Sun.

A Historic Throne.

The biggest episcopal throne in Europe is at the Exeter cathedral. Composed of the very best oak, with magnificent carvings executed by the most expert designers of the day, the throne seats upward in beautiful tapering pinnacles, which rise up to the lofty roof of the sacred edifice. The throne is not only the greatest but one of the oldest. It was saved from destruction by the Puritans by the ingenuity of the Cavaliers, who when the Roundheads marched on Exeter pulled down the throne and divided it into 365 pieces, one for every day of the year. The pieces were safely secured in many hiding places, and when peace was restored the pieces were put together again without the aid of a single nail.

An Alternative Conclusion.

A Jersey farmer visiting New York last week looking at a sign in a bookstore window, "Beware! Vow! All This Week For Two Dollars." "Beware!" he remarked, "my 'pition is that that Dickens fellow is either a mighty poor workman or else he's confounded hard up for a job."—Boston Courier.

Revised in Time.

"Miss Strong," he began, "will you be mine? That is to say, er—"

"She had knotted her hair in a bun."

"Er—that is, may I be yours?"

"Yes," she said, with a smile.—Philadelphia Press.

A MAN HUNT

Dogs and a Mob After a Couple of Negroes in Alabama.

Mobile, Ala., April 9.—Reports from Bay Minette, near here, in Baldwin county, tell of a case of attempted lynching by two negroes who are now surrounded in a swamp near Hurricane Bayou. At 10 o'clock Saturday night the negroes were discovered attempting to set fire to a large storehouse. They made off, but the fire was extinguished, and a chase was made after the negroes by an armed posse. The railroad telegraph operator at Hurricane Bayou reported that he had seen two negroes answering the description of the ones wanted pass his office early Sunday morning. One of the negroes was wounded by some shots fired by the posse and was being assisted by his companion. The negroes entered the swamp near Hurricane Bayou, where they were followed by a large force of armed men, who will capture or kill the negroes as they show themselves. There has been no chance for the negroes to make their escape from the swamp, and it is said their capture is only a question of time. One of the posse, a white man named McSwain, was shot in the arm and leg by the fleeing men during a pistol fight. His injuries are serious. The country in the vicinity is highly aroused and there is little doubt the negroes will be lynched if captured by the posse.

A Mysterious Malady.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 9.—The university authorities here are making known the name of the student in the university hospital pesthouse with the mysterious disease supposed to be bubonic plague, but it is learned from a medical student that the student is named Charles B. Hare of Pawnee City, Neb. He is a sophomore medical student and has been taking special work in bacteriology and has been handling culture tubes. It is supposed that he contracted the disease while working on the scrap heap and without question need a brand new mount for the present year.

The percentage of cases who take even ordinary care of their wheels during the winter months is small. Carelessness is certainly a predominant characteristic in the human family, and the fact that nine times out of ten they are compelled to pay dearly for their fault seems to leave no salutary effects. For many riders are there who, when the air becomes chill and the roads frozen, give their bicycles a thorough setting of valves, shelter them with a canvas cover and store them carefully in some dry, wholesome corner, where to remain until the ensuing season shall call them forth again. In this respect there are few Solomons and equally few men who are in the ranks of the reckless. Neglect and carelessness work destruction often than not, and the life of many a big grade wheel has been shortened by neglect and mismanagement. It is a dangerous and actual war and tear.

Bicycles, like men and horses, suffer from neglect and abuse, only they suffer to a greater extent because their skeletons and exskeletal parts possess no recuperative powers and are dependent for their life and condition upon the care and attention they receive from others.

A Fraternal Appeal.

London, April 9.—The Turkish Free Masons have sent to King Edward a serious appeal on behalf of the unfortunate monarch, older brother of Abdul Hamid, who reigned as sultan under the name of Amrath V for three months and was then deposed on the ground of insanity. The appeal refers to him as "one who for the last quarter of a century has been imprisoned on the pretext of a mental malady," and begs King Edward to use his influence to secure the freedom of a brother Mason.

Plague Reappears in Egypt.

Cairo, April 9.—The bubonic plague has reappeared in Egypt, one case having occurred in Alexandria.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Six fresh cases of bubonic plague in Cape Town were officially reported yesterday. The king is in quite good health. Mr. Meyer, one of the most prominent capitalists in the West, was shot yesterday at Rosendal by shooting. No cause is assigned for the deed. Vladimir, a Russian, was shot at Vladivostok on American machinery, iron and steel. The case is being investigated. A special communication to the state department.

Two burglars who attempted to rob the private bank of S. W. Clark at Spencer, Ind., were captured yesterday. They left burglar tools after them.

The Canton-Akron railway company of Canton, Ohio, has been incorporated with $500,000 capital to construct and operate an electric railway connecting Canton and Akron.

The steamer Nimrod, which arrived at St. John yesterday with 12,000 seals, is being loaded with seal products. The sealing fleet is jammed in the ice off Cape White Bay.

Fredrick Gove Cochran, aged 55, a broker, died at his home in New York yesterday. He had been suffering from a long illness.

The United States export company was able to pay from $200,000 to $300,000, for the purchase of the surplus of the government, which has been sold at auction, and the amounts which the powers at present demand aggregate from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

Mrs. Prudence Smith, Mrs. Jane McNott and Mrs. Mary Smith, who were arrested yesterday in Kansas City, Kan., yesterday made a remarkable confession to the chief of police. He stated that his right name is M. R. Dewar, and that his home is at Minneapolis. While there he was employed as a confidential clerk and bookkeeper for Fletcher Brothers of the Minneapolis Elevator company. In that capacity he claims he had the combination of the safe and one night stole $200 from the safe and fled. THE SPORTS WORLD NEW SHORT STORIES

When Your Kid Tests.

Where has your kid been during the past four months? What condition is he in? In for a good spring and summer? With riding season of 1901 but a few weeks away the question is an acute one. To many riders possession of long pocket-books the condition of their 1900 mounts or the after they may not have received the full benefit of the old year's riding. The old mounts may be intended for one year's use in any case and will be discarded or pass into the hands of some other rider.

Witness Wasn't Interested.

Gardner Lathrop of Kansas City tells this: The witness at the trial of a man charged with the murder of a woman, and he seemed anxious to convict the defendant. The defense was an alibi. The witness said he had seen the defendant slip up to the deceased, plunge a few cold knife into his heart, and he had even gone so far as to distinguish the sort of buttons he had on his coat at the time it was nighttime. The defense got hold of him something in this way: "You say you saw this murder committed?" "I am certain of it, sir." "It was 9 o'clock at night?" "Yes, sir; the clock in the church tower had just struck 9." "I believe you said you were about 75 feet away?" "Between 70 and 75 feet; somewhere along there." "Of course this killing was not done under an electric light?" "Oh, no; it was done in an alley. There were no lights there." "And yet you say you distinctly remember that you saw a jeweled knife in the defendant's hand and that the buttons on his coat had a curious little cross on them?" Then, musingly: "And yet you were 75 feet away, and it was a dark night? Now, are you lying or were you drunk?" "Oh, said the witness, "you can figure it out to suit yourself. I don't care anything about the case anyhow."

Dolliver Besieged.

It is seldom that any one who is not entitled to the privilege of the door of the senate manages to slip by the keen eyed doorkeepers who guard the entrance. Their watchfulness is unerring, yet one day during the recent session the doorkeeper admitted himself, unwittingly, and by a book agent at that. The feat was accomplished by a combination of unmitigated assurance and prosperous appearance. A stout, middle-aged man, with a few books under his arm, walked in, and the doorkeeper, who was a young man, did not seem to notice him. The man walked in, and the doorkeeper, who was a young man, did not seem to notice him. The man walked in, and the doorkeeper, who was a young man, did not seem to notice him.

ENGAGED HIM IN CONVERSATION.

Volodyovski, favorite for the English Derby, holds the center of the turf world at present. He is the most talked about and sought after horse on both continents. Recently he was the topic of contention between Lady William Beresford and Lady Mox. To the latter question, when the conversation turned for this season the case was taken into the English courts. Happily the trouble was adjusted satisfactorily. Volodyovski is a bay colt, 3, by Floriz II—La Reine. As a 2-year-old he ran in two races, of which number he was a winner. His owner, Mr. J. W. Weldon, was disappointed in the first three efforts he was failed. He did not develop his great speed and staying qualities till the season was well advanced, and once in form he defeated all the best colts of his age without any great effort.

Red's Warning.

The struggles of the speaker and his lieutenants, they have to keep down appropriations and to curb certain committees of the house that have been in recent years thoroughly dominated by certain departments have brought to light a bit of unwritten history of Mr. Reed's more recent regime. One day one of his lieutenants came in with an earnest request for certain legislation which the department was clamoring for.

Mr. Armour Knew a Hog.

On one occasion the late Mr. Armour made a Christmas present of a suit of clothes to every clerk in his office. With the exception of one they all selected good business suits worth $35 to $50. The exception went in for a dress suit that cost $125. Armour called him up.

"How is this, Mr. Blank? It's all right, of course, but I notice you were lavish to yourself beyond all your associates. What surprises me is that after all my many years in the business you should think I failed to recognize a hog when I saw him."

Angora Goats.

It is estimated that there are about 400,000 Angora goats in the United States and that each annual production of mohair is about 1,000,000 pounds. Although very little has been said or written about Angora goats during the last 40 years, they have been extensively bred in the western states and territories, especially in Texas, New Mexico, Nevada, California and Oregon.

CONUNDRUMS.

The Information and Exchange Editors Get Off Some Good Ones.

"While you're talking about smoking," said the exchange editor, "smoke you can tell why a 5 cent cigar is like a young half breed Indian squaw." "Maid of poor stock," replied the information editor. "What's the difference between a roller towel and the people who have to use it?" "One is a wiper, and the other is a generation of wipers. What's the difference between a catfish and a wad of chewing gum?" "All in your eye. Why does a?" "Not much. It's all in the mouth. Why is a ripe apple like the ghetto?" "Full of juice. Why is a grain of sand like the ghetto?" "All in your eye. Why does a?" "Hold on. That isn't right. You didn't have the answer, either, about the 5 cent cigar and the young squaw. It's a mistake to furnish a match for it, then. You were all wrong, too, about the roller towel and the people who use it." "The one's a crash, and the other's a push. If that isn't it, I wash my hands of it."

"Soap yourself! It's because the people are changed every seven years and the towel is never changed. Why is a?" "Then you ought to change boarding houses. You didn't get the right point of difference between the catfish and the chewing gum."

"They're just alike. You can't get stuck on both. Why does a?" "Gum off! I say they're not!" "I say they are! It isn't meet to use either."

"All wrong. You can use one for a big fry, while it is only the small fry that uses the other."

"Worst I ever heard. You made the wrong guess about the ripe apple and the ghetto, besides."

"Did it on purpose. Why is a present of a mummy like a wig?" "Because it's a dead give away. Why does a man?" "Why is the leader of an orchestra?" "Like a fast waltz." "Because it's a custom at a department store."

"Like a man 100 years old? Because he's waiting a long time for his change?"

Then the information editor closed his knowledge box, while the exchange editor sheered off.—Chicago Tribune.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR CURED.

General Thomas, Oldest Living General of the Civil War and Formerly Lieut. Governor of Vermont, relieved of Rheumatism by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR THOMAS CURED BY DR. GREENE'S NERVURA. Ninety-two years of age is the illustrious soldier-statesman, General Thomas of Vermont. He has held office as Representative, Senator, Judge of Probate Court, and Lieutenant Governor. Strong of purpose and of clearest reason, everyone may depend absolutely on his word. Listen to him now, you who suffer with rheumatic pains and twinges. Read his letter telling "for other's good" how Dr. Greene's Nervura relieved him of pain. (General Thomas says):

"I am pleased at this opportunity to add my testimonial to the worth of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. The many years of life's journey left its touch upon me in the form of rheumatic pains. I have found benefit and relief from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura, and give my permission to publish this letter for others' good."

Rheumatism creeps into the joints and muscles through deficient blood circulation and disordered nerves. Every thick atmosphere aggravates it. Every trifling cold strengthens its grip. Ordinary practice never cures rheumatism, but volumes of evidence exist to show that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, devoid absolutely of mineral elements, is the true and certain specific. Why let your pains accumulate? Read his letter telling "for other's good" how Dr. Greene's Nervura relieved him of pain. (General Thomas says):
