MONDAY, JUNE 10, 1901.

The "White House" is not so called because it is white or because it is the President's mansion. It was named after the old "White House" near Williamsburg, Virginia, where Martha Washington was born.

The little little affair which occurred in the New Castle court room Saturday afternoon must have been rather a cheerful diversion in the long drawn out trial of the case of Dobbins vs. the C. R. & M. railroad company. Richmond is reasonably conservative and can stand about as much monotony as human endurance ought to be taxed with anywhere. But when the limit has been reached her warm-blooded sons enter such a vigorous protest that our neighbors stand aghast and even adjourn their courts in confusion. Here such diversions expedite rather than retard business in the courts. They are regarded as the escape valves for the electricity that accumulates in a court room from a week's steady friction of brilliant intellects. Without means of escape the whole thing might cause an explosion which would endanger life and property. Coupled with such a possible catastrophe a little mouth shooting, hair pulling or removal of cuticle are the most harmless diversions imaginable.

The recent action of some of the church conferences in forbidding the use of tobacco by the clergy has called attention to the important part the "filthy weed" played in the support of the early "established church" in this country. Mr. Wm. H. Hays, of the Chicago Record Herald has lately been delving into this subject. He finds that "by a law of Virginia enacted in 1606 the salary of every clergyman in that colony, without regard to the size of his parish, was fixed at 16,000 pounds of tobacco a year, and parishes where tobacco could not be cultivated were left without ministers until the Baptists, Presbyterians or Quakers came in and occupied the vacant churches. There seems to have been a suspicion on the part of the vestry of St. George's that some of the planters in that parish were dodging their religious dues, for on January 16, 1736, a resolution was passed appointing a committee to ascertain and make a record of the names of every person growing tobacco and the number of plants grown on each plantation. This was called "prosecution," and it was assessed in tobacco accordingly. The next year Robert Green and Isaac Norman were appointed to ascertain tobacco and the planters were "prosecuted" and assessed to raise that amount in addition to their regular tithes."

Seeking a Branch from the Proposed D. & W. Traction Line Extension from Eaton to Richmond.

(Palladium Press.)

Efforts are being made by the stockholders of Cedar Springs, a summer resort, located near West Paris, to have the Dayton & Western Traction company run a branch from Westville on the extension proposed from Eaton to Richmond, that will pass the springs and run into New Paris. C. E. Underwood and George M. Smart, Dayton, and Auditor Oscar A. Gale, will meet the President Valentine Winters of the traction company at this place to consider the matter. John R. Fletcher, of Dayton, is a large stockholder in the springs, and in addition to those named there are thirty or forty other Dayton persons interested.

Special Excursion to Cincinnati via Pennsylvania Lines.

BIG FOUR LINE

The New Castle Tribune Says the C. R. & M. is, and Gives Some Argument to Back the Assertion.

The New Castle Tribune is doing some guessing on the C. R. & M. in the line of proving that it is to be a Big Four line and produces some pretty interesting straws to support the assertion that this is a fact. Among other things it asserts that the new point being used along the line is the Big Four color, the one adopted by that road as a trade mark. Depots and water tanks are all of that color.

Engineers are at work surveying an extension from Cottage Grove to Harrison, where connection with the Big Four is made and tracks of that road are to be used to get into Cincinnati. Attention is called to the fact that while the C. R. & M. is heading for the Chicago belt line the Big Four has no terminal at Cincinnati, going over the Illinois Central, which track the Big Four uses from Kankakee to Chicago. It would be cheaper for the Big Four to build this line than to build from Kankakee and secure terminal facilities. The Tribune continues:

The request mentioned is made of the (alleged) agreement made some years ago between the Pennsylvania and the Big Four, under the terms of which the former was to "keep out" of Muncie and the latter out of Richmond. However nothing would be easier than the Pennsylvania to already be in Muncie through the C. & S. E., and the Big Four to capture Richmond by the C. R. & M. If it be the Big Four line then the White-water Valley division will soon be extended from Hagerstown to a connection with it, giving to the valley towns what they have long needed.

Whose ever road it is it looks like a winner. It is remarkably well built, and will be a "short line" between Cincinnati and Chicago.

HORTICULTURAL MEETING.

The All Day Meeting at Geo. H. Smith's a Great Success.

At the elegant country residence of George H. Smith, seven miles south of this city, was given, on Saturday last, the event of the gathering of horticulturists and their friends from Wayne and Union counties. The beautiful site for the home stand was judiciously selected, and with the fine and elaborate improvements by the host for many years, has made this one of the most beautiful and desirable places in the west. The well kept lawns, with stately trees surrounding the imposing mansion, together with the artificial lake at the foot of the hill, insures a view of beauty and grandeur, and all wished that Mr. Smith and his estimable wife should live half a century longer, to more fully enjoy the results of their years of patient and laborious work.

Large numbers were spread with such palatable delicacies as are common to big dinners of this society, and scores of persons partook of the repast beneath the spreading branches of fruit and ornamental trees. The afternoon session of the two horticultural societies was held at the east entrance of the residence. During the discussion of forestry Mr. Smith related to his guests of trees planted by him twenty years ago, consisting of 1,200 orange, 500 catalpa, 300 locust and 300 black walnut. Several thousand posts have been cut from them already, and the orange orange being considered the best for lasting qualities. The huge pine trees in the yard were brought from Michigan in 61 by him in saddle bags.

Capt. Lough supervised the planting of 5,000 catalpa trees which had been cut once for posts, and for the second time for cutting. When post timber is cut too young its lasting qualities are lessened. The necessity for immediate future planting is apparent, and new groves will doubtless be set, especially on unutilized lands.

In the agriculture discussion the prospects for the farmer are good. The fruit prospects are good, and oats are short from lack of rain and warm weather. White top in meadows is bad in some localities, but kept in check by frocks of sheep.

The fruit prospects are good. The late frosts however injured materially the early blooming strawberries. The strawberry crop will not be large, owing to the late frost. Many growers failing to renew their plantations. Several will not have many bushels for market that usually have wagon loads.

Mr. Smith's so generous furnished by the host at the dinner, indicated that the yield of his ten-acre patch was maintaining its standard of excellence. The peach, plum and many apple trees will overbear if permitted to attempt to ripen the fruit that are now set.

From other reports the weather has been most successful for the season, but fine for pastures for butter making. The address by Hon. Isaac Jenkins was one of his ablest efforts, on the history of the passage of the "Resolution on the Declaration of Independence of the American Colonies." In the address he treated of the early revolutionary ideas of the people of America, the law of England, and bearing on the law of the preparation of the resolution, its consideration, its passage, the secrecy maintained by the members of the colonial congress, and the subsequent ratification.

The evening many members of the August body, and especially John Adams, who really did more than any man towards effecting an independence. By request Mr. Jenkins' manuscript will be placed among the archives of the Historical society in the court house.

A special vote of thanks was tendered the essayist for his paper, and to the host and hostess for their kindness and courtesies to the guests. A cornet band from Liberty furnished music at intervals during the afternoon. Mrs. R. Morrow and Ella White

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Elaborate Arrangements for Their Reception at Cincinnati.

The most elaborate arrangements have been made for the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor at Cincinnati, July 6 to 10. As many were unable to attend the convention in London last year a larger attendance than usual is expected, especially since the convention hereafter will be held only once in two years. The choir of fifteen hundred trained voices will be a feature at Music hall. Other large choruses have been trained for the exposition and other halls, while all the churches and their choirs have been engaged for the occasion. Hands will be joined in song in Washington park adjoining Music hall for the open air meetings. Governor Nash, Mayor Fleischmann and local committees will deliver welcoming addresses Saturday afternoon, July 6. Dr. Clark will deliver his annual address and Secretary Bar will make his annual report Sunday evening. On Sunday morning there will be special addresses on "Twenty Years of Christian Endeavor," in the afternoon temperance rallies and in the evening meetings for Sabbath observance. The regular program with meetings by sections will be carried out on the four following days, with many of the most eminent men in Christian work participating.

Police Court.

In police court this morning Charles Brown was up for a drunk. He said he had a drink or two but was entirely sober, but officer McManis swore he was called by telephone to north third street and found him in an odd house too much intoxicated to get out, and he brought him to headquarters. It was a dollar and costs.

Edgar Richards and Fred Miller, two boys, were up for some kind of a boy fight, each charged with assault and battery upon each other. Each must answer a dollar and costs.

An odd bum was given leave to go if he would leave at once which he promised to do.

EXCURSIONS.

The excursion and basket picnic given yesterday under the auspices of the R. of P. of Mitchell's grove, was a perfect success in every respect. There was not an occurrence of any character to mar the pleasure of those who attended. There were several families who joined together after reaching the grove and enjoyed themselves as only can be done on occasions of this kind. There were 1,014 tickets sold out of this city.

AN UNUSUAL TRIAL.

Shocking Missouri Murder Hearing Held in a Grove.

Gallena, Mo., June 10.—An unusual scene is presented here at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. John Stallion, for the murder of Alice Stallion, the woman's 15-year-old stepdaughter. The hearing is being held in a grove, the two justices sitting at a table under a tree, and 200 people, attracted from points for miles around, forming a circle about the court and defendants. Notwithstanding the fact that the hearing is being held in a grove, the trial has not yet been attempted, threats have been made against the trial, and the county officials are taking all the precautions to insure the safety of the trial.

Quick End of Thieves.

Chambers, France, June 10.—An American named Constantine Sandahl was robbed on the railway while asleep, by three fellow travelers being the contract for the same. The thief, named John, was caught by the police and sentenced to six months in prison.

Contract Awarded.

The contract for remodeling the old Grand hotel property on Main street was awarded Saturday. Geo. L. Kline, who owns the property, gave the contract for the same to the parties who are now engaged on the St. Andrew's church. The front will be of broken up ashlar construction, that is, alternating one stone for each in face and one stone of five inch smooth face, the effect of which will be handsome. When completed there will be no more attractive front on Main street. It is the intention to make many changes on the interior of the building also. The name of the building will be known after the completion of the work as "The Grand Hotel." O. S. Yates, the architect, will superintend the construction work.

CHAZED BY LOVE

Prosperous Chicago Contractor Killed Mother-in-Law and Himself.

London, Ontario, June 10.—Chased by love for his young wife, whom it is said he had driven from his home in Chicago, Robert Fulford, a prosperous Chicago contractor, killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jennie McLeod, and then blew out his brains. The tragedy occurred on the McLeod farm at Liddell, near here. The victims were first cousins. Fulford married Gertrude McLeod seven years ago, his first wife having secured a divorce from him. Three weeks ago Fulford and his wife had a dispute and she returned to her parents. Fulford followed Saturday afternoon, and Mrs. McLeod, who was milking in the yard, told him where his wife was. She refused and fired four shots from a revolver into her breast. He then turned the weapon on himself, blowing out his brains.

THE CHINESE ARE PLEASED.

Peking, June 10.—The Chinese express great satisfaction at the announcement of the intention of the court to return to Peking in September. All the foreign troops, with the exception of the Russian guards, are expected to withdraw the middle of that month, the only troops not already under orders of withdrawal being the Japanese, whose government is sending reinforcements. It is said, however, at the Japanese legation that when Japan is absolutely certain the other powers are evacuating her own troops can be withdrawn on two days' notice.

A Warm School Row.

Salina, Kan., June 10.—A committee representing the students of the Kansas Wesleyan university, who are a unit in defense of Dr. Frank D. Tubbs, professor of natural science, dismissed last week because of alleged heresy, has issued a manifesto denouncing the board of trustees for "impudently and unscrupulously" taking the side of the trustees. The board has agreed to allow Dr. Tubbs a hearing next week but still positively refuses to reinstate him. The incoming junior and senior classes still seem determined to carry out their threat to leave the university if the trustees do not accede to the demands.

They, with Michael Shay, were crossing the lake in a boat when Berard began to rock it and the frail craft upset.
