MAINTAINS RECORD

Wabash Train Wrecked Last Week Kills Four At Crossing.

A FAMILY WIPED OUT

C. L. Shaffer and Wife and Two Daughters Caught at a Crossing Near Huntington.

While Returning From Church Their Carriage Was Struck By Fast Train.

Huntington, Ind., July 1.—While returning from church last evening C. L. Shaffer, his wife and two daughters were run down by west-bound passenger train No. 3 on the Wabash railroad. Another daughter was terribly crushed and bruised and cannot recover. The train which crushed the life out of the three unfortunate victims was the same train that was wrecked at Cass last Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer were instantly killed. The body of son was horribly mangled. The younger girl, Lillian, was badly crushed and both her legs were broken. She died while being conveyed to a nearby house. Mary, a 7-year-old daughter, was terribly crushed and is lying at the point of death. The accident occurred on a crossing west of the city, the train striking the carriage squarely in the middle, throwing the father and mother and younger daughter several feet and the older girl on the other side. Nothing was left of the carriage but splinters. The Shaffers were among the most prominent residents of this county.

AT THE CROSSING

Two Prominent DeKalb County Citizens Meet Death.

Waterloo, Ind., July 1.—Lee Hine and Isaac Tryon were struck by the westbound limited mail on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway, four miles west of this city Saturday afternoon, and both were instantly killed. They were driving across the track, and their carriage was struck and splintered. The horse escaped unhurt. Hine was a brother of ex-Treasurer S. M. Hine, of De Kalb county. He was 25 years old and left a widow. Tryon was about 50 years old and left a widow and several children. He, too, was prominently connected and was a rural mail carrier.

A Distressing Accident.

Hartford City, Ind., July 1.—While John Hanzell, laborer employed on the new bridge the Pennsylvania Railroad company is building over Lick creek here, was shoveling concrete into a concrete mixer, a large auger, which revolved a huge sausage grinder, his left foot slipped into the machine, and his leg to the knee, was ground to shreds before the engine could be shut down. The man would have been ground to mince meat had not Elmer Williams, a fellow-workman, caught Hanzell and held him until the mixer was stopped. The "tickets" will be on sale July 3 and 4 and are good for returning until July 5.

A complaint against Joseph Young will come before Squire Connor's court Friday, for nuisance, for dumping objectionable matter on a farm north of the city.

Miss Carrie Oblinger of Germantown, O., Mrs. W. L. Allen, Miss Nellie Lowe and Charles A. Blair formed a dinner party at the Westcott last evening.

The traction line did a remarkable business yesterday. The Glen, Driving park and Earhart cars were crowded from early morning until the last car was run into the barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smyser left yesterday for a two weeks' trip to the east. Before returning they will spend several days at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo.

A meeting in the interest of the public waiting rooms will be held this evening at the Friends north A street meeting house. Business men and others are requested to be present.

The police department are using temporarily an express wagon while the patrol wagon is undergoing necessary repairs. It will be out of the shop within a few days nicely painted.

J. M. Coe is back from his western trip, in which he saw the most of Sioux City and Galesburg. He was particularly interested in the corn crop, which he says is not so good as in Wayne county.

Two extra coaches were attached to the train going east this morning, filled with employees of the tin plate works at Elwood and their families, en route to Pittsburg, where they will remain until early this fall, when the tin plate works will again resume work.

SLEPT ON DUTY

And the Guard of Beltinger Miners Was Easily Broken.

Thacker, W. Va., July 1.—Saturday night Detective T. L. Fells, assisted by John Justice, deputy United States marshal, and a posse of six men, went to the Kentucky side of the river and captured nine persons who are charged with terrorizing the miners on the West Virginia side for the past 10 days by shooting at all who could not give the proper strikers' sign as they passed and repossessed along the railroad. They were all brought to this place and are now being held in the jail here, awaiting the train to take them before a Kentucky judge, who remained there at Judge Jackson at Parkersburg, this state.

They were surprised in their sleep with their Winchester rifles under their pillows and surrendered with but little resistance. Even their guns were captured as they slept. It is generally thought that this will break up the fighting end of the strikers' troubles and that their differences will soon be compromised in a way satisfactory to all concerned.

Charles Burke, president of the local union of the United Mine Workers of America, was arrested at noon Sunday by Deputy United States Marshal Haddock and Detective F. T. Fells and taken to Parkersburg to appear before Judge Jackson on the charge of tearing down the notices of the injunction granted by Judge Jackson. The nine strikers arrested Sunday morning in Kentucky were lodged in jail at Williamson last night to await the action of the Kentucky courts.

CUBAN POLITICS

This Will Be Busy Week With the Constitutional Convention.

Havana, July 1.—During the present week the constitutional convention will discuss the electoral law. The project submitted by the commission provides only for the election of congressmen, governors, state representatives, mayors and councilmen. No agreement has been reached as to whether or not to elect the president and senators by direct popular vote. The discussion of the electoral law will undoubtedly open up an argument between the Conservatives against a Federal republic with many provincial officers as entailing heavy expenditures. The Conservatives will oppose granting absolute autonomy to the provinces and municipalities. An effort will be made to change the constitution and to invest the central government with appointive and veto power.

Universal suffrage seems to be a popular movement, but the general opinion is that it will be impossible to get the convention to change the form of voting.

A Victim to Science.
Albuquerque, N. M., July 1.—Particulars of the recent death of Prof. Francis J. Birtwell, the ornithologist, are brought here by the undertaker who has just returned with the body. The professor died from strangulation, the result of accidental hanging. He had climbed a large pine tree for a bird's nest, and was descending on a rope, when in some manner the rope wound around his neck and before he could be rescued he died.

Senator Fairbanks has agreed to deliver a Fourth of July address at Ottawa, Kan. On July 2 he will speak before a Chautauqua assembly in Nebraska.

Nathaniel Powell of Madison, who is prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, was here yesterday.

Mrs. Eklund on the Stand.
Evansville, Ind., July 1.—The habeas corpus proceedings to have Mrs. Louisa Eklund released from the Southern Indiana Insane asylum, may come to a close late this afternoon. Mrs. Eklund was on the stand and gave testimony. She was able to tell about her business affairs and made a good impression on the court.

He Will Have to Serve Time.
Marion, Ind., July 1.—The Grand jury returned the motion for a new trial in the case of the State vs. Robert Kirkham for criminal assault on his wife's body. Chas. Addison, aged 13, and he was sentenced to 1 to 21 years in the state prison.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Correspondence.)

"Every now and then one reads an advertisement something like this, 'I will give $100 to any one securing me a government position paying $100 a month,' or the advertiser will agree to give a certain percentage of the salary secured to the one procuring a place." remarked an official of the civil service commission.

"Now, the person who thus advertises and who no doubt receives numerous responses and frequently is successful little dreams of the danger attached to his offer for a government position. The person thus offering a tempting price for an appointment in the federal service does not realize until too late that he has placed himself in the power of an unscrupulous person to be blackmailed. Such is the fact, however."

The official then called attention to section 1781 of the Revised Statutes, which is part of the civil service law and relates to appointments in the federal service. It provides that "every person who, directly or indirectly, offers or agrees to give or bestow any money, property or other valuable consideration whatever for the procuring or aiding to procure any such contract, office or place shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than two years and fined not more than $10,000."

A Real American Flag.

In compliance with a resolution passed by the house of representatives March 1, 1901, the flag that for the past 15 years has hung draped above the speaker's desk has been transferred to the department of agriculture. This magnificent emblem, made of silk raised in the United States and woven by American hands with American machinery, is still in a perfect state of preservation. It only defect lies in the insufficiency of stars representing the states of the Union, there being but 38, the number of states in the Union at the time the flag was presented. It was the desire of Speaker Henderson that this flag should be replaced by one containing stars representing the full number of the sisterhood of states at the commencement of the new century and so the old flag came down, and a new silken banner with 45 stars was draped in its place.

In accordance with the desires of the house the artist of the capitol had a splendid walnut case eight feet high and two feet wide, with glass doors, constructed for the old flag. The case, containing the flag tastefully draped over its staff, was delivered to Secretary Wilson, and it will have the place of honor in his office.

Big Map for the White House.

The coast and geologic survey has for some time been preparing a map of the world for the "war room" at the White House. It will cover one whole side of the room, which means dimensions of perhaps 20 feet by 15. It contains all the geographical information of a general nature that a president of the United States and his corps of telegraphers would seemingly need to know. It shows the location of all the great cities in the world, of all the great shipping stations, of all the docks where ships may be repaired, and every foot of soil, including the smallest islands is marked so as to indicate the sovereignty to which it is subject. This is done by the adoption of a color for each of the great colonizing powers. It is surprising to note the number of small islands which already belong to the United States through their acquisition for one purpose or another by America.

Will Mary Man She Never Saw.

Miss Ferrouh, one of the most popular girls in the diplomatic set—that is, among the women folks—must go back to Turkey to marry a man she never saw. She is the young sister of Ali Ferrouh Bey, the retiring Turkish minister, who sails for home from New York on July 5. Miss Ferrouh has engaged to marry a Turkish prince, a son of a Turkish minister. Of course she has never been allowed to meet a man. She is 20, beautiful, winsome, clever, witty. She loves even the little freedom she has had here. But now she must go home the affianced bride of a rich Constantinople merchant. This is only Mohammedan custom. The merchant paid court not to her, but to her family in Turkey. They approved and accepted him. A few days ago Miss Ferrouh was astonished to hear that she was betrothed. The beautiful young Turkish girl had been rapidly imbibing western ideas on love and matrimony. Still she will obey, just as the Koran directs.

To Electorate Conventions.

The citizens of Washington who had the management of the last presidential inauguration have decided to establish a permanent convention fund, from which to derive means for the entertainment of the numerous organizations that hold here their national meetings. It is recognized that Washington is naturally a convention city and that it is especially pleasant for many organizations to meet at the capital of the country. The citizens are glad to entertain such visitors and in the course of the year do so in a manner highly creditable to them. The inauguration committee having a balance left this year after paying all accounts, was called on for the application of $15,000 to the expenses of the national convention of charities and reform, which was held here recently, and later for $400 to pay off a lingering debt for the entertainment of the Union Veterans and their families last fall.

The string of horses and carriages which Attorney General Knox has brought to Washington is the talk of the city. The attorney general's stable here contains is unsurpassed. It is one team for which $25,000 was paid.

CARL SCHOFER.

It is Badly Needed.
"There is always a great future for the inventive man."
"Sure."
"There are opportunities on all sides if we only know enough to grasp them."
"Do you happen to see any just now?"
"I do. I see a grand one. Yes, sir. The man who perfects an invention that will enable the girl with a new spring parasol and the latest model bicycle to exhibit them both at the same time will place himself clear up in the front rank of millionaires."—Chicago Post.

Disappointed in Bella.
"How did you find your married daughter getting along when you visited her in the city, Uncle Josh?"
"Oh, Bella's getting along well enough, but she's just like all of the society folks now, and I don't think I could ever get used to their ways. The first thing she did when I went into the house was to give me a splendid big rockin' chair to sit in, and the next thing was to tell me it wasn't good form to rock it."—Chicago Tribune.

Her Idea of It.
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I wish you would wear up your money and buy a yacht."
"What for?"
"We need so many things for the table. And winning races seems such a cheap way to get silverware."—Washington Star.

The Intelligent Type.
"Look here," cried the foreman. "Aren't there any 'n's' in your case? You've used 'n's' for 'n's' all through this 'n's'." "How's that?"
"I don't do," replied the compositor, "unless it's because I've a cold in the head."—Catholic Standard and Times.

From a Safe Distance.
"Why, George, you didn't call on papa as you positively promised you would?"
"No, dear, I am going to notify him a little later."
"How?"
"By wireless telegraph."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In a Dressing Room.
"Wouldn't you like to play the part of Cigarette in 'Under Two Flags'?" asked the "first old woman."
"Well, yes, I'd love to," replied the cigarette.
"The critics would be so apt to put me, you know."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Minute Caution.
"Every woman ought to know something about cooking," said the wife girl.
"I don't know about that," answered Miss Cayenne. "In case of incipient fire it gives the husband a chance to blame her for his dyspepsia."—Washington Star.

The Place for Him.
"I'm surprised at the stupidity of the editor."
"What has he done now?"
"Failed to engage that peerless wretched Turk as his humor of bill collectors."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Equal to the Occasion.
Antiquity Dealer—Madam, this Spanish coin is old—more than 100 years old. Madam—H'm! It is stamped 1870. Antiquity Dealer—Is that so? Well, that, of course, is a misprint.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Constitution and the Flag.
"That Mr. Flagg from Boston seems to be very attentive."
"Yes, I think he must take me for the constitution the way he sticks to me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Proper Excuse.
"Please excuse William from school today," wrote the boy's mother to the teacher, "as he sat up late last night studying his lessons and is too sleepy to come today."—Tit-Bits.

Mangled's Extremes.
No incident is more of us. And some are so indolent. We try to own the blooming earth.—Washington Star.

Spraying Potatoes.
Spray potatoes with the bordeaux mixture and paris green, using copper sulphate six pounds, lime four pounds, water one barrel and paris green one-half pound. Use paris green only during June, but the above formula during July and August. Spray two or three times a month. At the Vermont experiment station spraying during ten years in succession resulted in a yield of 236 bushels of potatoes per acre. Where unsprayed the yield was 178 bushels.

Boiler and Engine.
In making a selection of the boiler and engine for the farm the owner should figure out the power he needs and then buy a machine just double that power. Thus, while a little costly at first, it is economical in the end, for invariably the engine is made to do more and more work, and if only of the size needed at first it immediately becomes inadequate and unsatisfactory.—Director Cornell (N. Y.) Experiment Station.

Care of Young Chickens.
The secret of rearing newly hatched chicks consists in keeping them free from vermin, keeping them out of water and feeding all they will eat clean and no more. If one observes these precautions, success can be obtained with either the dry or wet method of feeding.

For burns or sores use Dr. DeCoursey's Irish Liniment. Manufactured by J. S. Fitzgibbons, 48 south seventh.

Irish Liniment is a sure cure.
