

SCHLEY FINISHES

Long Ordeal to Which Admiral Had Been Subjected Is Over.

HE LEAVES THE STAND

After Further Searching Inquiry On the Part of the Court His Examination Ceases.

Admiral Schley Explains a Bit of Magnanimity Toward Admiral Sampson.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The long ordeal to which Admiral Schley had been subjected since Monday morning ended yesterday afternoon, when his cross examination was concluded and he was allowed to leave the witness stand. When the judge advocate finished the cross examination, shortly after 3 o'clock, the court pronounced to the admiral 34 questions, prepared by members of the court. These questions touched many points of the campaign of the flying squadron, but mainly centered about the difficulties encountered in coaling and the reasons for the retrograde movement. Not one of them related to the battle of Santiago. The judge advocate's cross examination covered the retrograde movement, the reconnaissance of May 31, the loop of the Brooklyn and the alleged colloquy with Lieutenant Hodgson of the Texas.

One of the most interesting features of the day was the development of the fact that the report of the battle written by Admiral Schley July 6, 1898, was not the original report. The original report never has been published, and in accordance with a previous decision the court declined to go into the records. Admiral Schley was allowed to explain, however, that Admiral Sampson declined to receive the first report, because it did not mention the presence of the New York. "I felt that the victory at that time," said Admiral Schley, in explaining the matter, "was big enough for all and I made this change out of generosity and because I knew if the New York had been present she would have done as good work as anybody else."

Captain Thomas Borden of the marine corps, who was aboard the Brooklyn, will be the last witness called for Admiral Schley. After he testifies today the judge advocate will put on the stand witnesses on rebuttal, of whom there are understood to be about 15, and it is probable that Admiral Schley's counsel will call several witnesses in rebuttal.
