VISITED "AUNT MARY."

President Has a Friendly Chat
With Wife's Old Nurse.

"JUST SAY IT'S MR. ROOSEVELT."

That Was the Form of the Chief Executive's Announcement—A Red Letter Day in the Flynn Household. Where "Aunt Mary" Led with Lives in New York.

The New York World gives the following incident in connection with President Roosevelt's recent visit to New York:

"Mrs. Flynn, is Aunt Mary here?" President Theodore Roosevelt had stopped off on his way back to Washington from Oyster Bay and climbed a dark stairway to the second floor of the house 150 East Forty-eighth street, Manhattan, to call upon the old nurse, Mrs. Mary Ledwith, who had nursed not only Mrs. Roosevelt herself when she was a baby, but all of the children of Mrs. Roosevelt and the president.

"Yes, she is here," said Mrs. Flynn, who is Aunt Mary's sister, "but I can't see who you are."

"Just say it's Mr. Roosevelt and that I want to see her, please. I came up to see how she is."

Mrs. Flynn, though she had known the Roosevelts for many years, was not unnaturally a bit "flustered" by the honor of a visit from the president of the United States, with his secretary and valet and detectives waiting outside.

She ushered him into her little sitting room and then went and acquainted the old nurse, seated in an invalid's chair in another room.

"It's the president of the United States, and he has come up to see you," said Mrs. Flynn.

"The president of the United States?" echoed Aunt Mary in amazement.

"Certainly, and he says to tell you that if you are not too ill he wants to see you."

A light dawned on the old nurse's mind.

"Oh, the president! I'll be bound now that it's nobody but Mr. Roosevelt. Why, you quite took my breath away."

And then she fixed her hair a bit, as women will, old or young, and, adjusting her glasses, announced that the president could be shown in.

Mr. Roosevelt came in smiling and bent over the old nurse and shook her hand. Then he drew up a chair and sat down beside her. He told her how sorry he was that she was ill.

In a few minutes the bell rang again and Mrs. Roosevelt came in and took a seat on the other side of the nurse. She remained only a short time and then went to another room to be fitted with some gowns which Mrs. Flynn is making for her.

When the president's party came out, the sidewalk was lined with children, who set up a cheer. Some of them called for a speech. The president passed through the crowd, patting their heads and laughing as he went. Frank Flynn, who escorted the president to the carriage, had on a Low button. "That's the right sign," said the president.

In the meantime the old nurse in her invalid's chair was smiling happily and saying over and over: "He ain't a bit changed; not a bit. He might be ten times the president and still be just Mr. Roosevelt, always thoughtful and kind."

Mrs. Ledwith has been in Mrs. Roosevelt's family for forty-five years. She is seventy-six years old and has the culture that comes of much travel with refined people, besides a good deal of kindness of heart. She took care of Mrs. Roosevelt in her childhood, accompanied her abroad and has been the right hand of the present lady of the White House in the care of her children. A few weeks ago, on her way from Oyster Bay to Washington, she was taken suddenly ill and was carried to the home of her sister, Mrs. Flynn. As soon as she recovered sufficiently she will go back to the Roosevelts at the White House.

She is quite overcome by the fame that has been thrust upon her by the president's call and says: "They were nice people before ever they went to the White House to live."

SCHWAB QUESTIONED.

President Tries to Learn Secrets of Giant Steel Trust.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the steel trust, called at the White House, says a Washington dispatch to the New York World, to pay his respects. President Roosevelt interrogated him closely as to the nature of the combination of the constituent companies. The secret of that agreement has never been divulged. The industrial commission tried to get it, but failed. Whether the president learned it is not known.

Mr. Schwab announced that the capacity of the Homestead armor factory will be increased from 300 tons a month to between 600 and 700. This increase is undertaken at the request of the ordnance bureau of the navy department.

Regulating Use of X Rays.

The cure of cancer and other diseases due to bacteria by the X rays, says a Chicago dispatch, will result in legislative action to prohibit any one but physicians and surgeons operating with the powerful rays upon patients. Dr. Gilman's case of Mrs. Orrin W. Potter, who has suffered for years with cancer, has greatly interested medical men. The Chicago Medical society will ask legislative action.

Perfectly Plain. Uncle Rastus, who was seeking information concerning mushrooms, had been referred by a preternaturally solemn student to the professor of botany, and, with hat in hand, he was addressing that dignitary.

"Would you mind telling me, Mistah Mandrake," he said, "how to distinguish a mushroom from a toadstool?"

"Willingly," replied the professor.

"In the first place, you must remember that the Amanita phalloides, or deadly agaric, closely resembles the Agaricus campestris, or edible fungus, which is our common variety and absolutely innocuous. Next, it will be necessary to fix firmly in your mind the distinguishing marks or characteristics of the Agaricus campestris, which are these: A pileus not covered with excrecence-like scales; gills of a brownish purple when mature; stalk solid and approximately cylindrical; ring near the middle of stalk; base not bulbous and not sheathed by membrane. The distinguishing characteristics of the Amanita phalloides, or deadly agaric, are these: Pileus destitute of distinct excrecences; white gills, hollow stalk; large ring and prominent bulb at base, with membranous upper margin. Bearing these points of differentiation fully in mind you will never be at a loss to determine which variety you encounter in any given case."

"Yes, sah," said Uncle Rastus, turning his hat round and round in his fingers. "I un'stand dat all right, but hows I gwine to tell 'em apah?"—Chicago Tribune.

His Foot Was In the Way.

A gentlemanly chap riding in an elevated car permitted the sight of a man's foot in the middle of the aisle to exasperate him to a most unreasonable degree. Women tripped over it. Men stepped over it. A few folk purposely dragged their feet against it as a hint. But its owner calmly read his paper and moved not. Finally, "I beg your pardon, my friend," said the gentlemanly chap, leaning down, his face set and teeth clenched, "but don't you think you are taking up more room than you are entitled to? Your foot has been in every one's way for half an hour. I protest, sir!"

The man folded his paper, remarking without the least show of anger: "Ah, thank you. I had not noticed it." With that he reached down, picked up his foot, gave it a violent twist and pushed it partly under the seat. To accomplish this he had to move his body to the edge of the seat.

On discovering that the leg and foot were wooden our gentlemanly chap blushed in confusion, muttered a sort of apology and hurried off at the next station, while the car tittered.—New York Press.

Very Trying.

"Johnny," said a provincial grocer to the new boy, "what kind of butter did you send over to the Hendersons?"

"Some of the rolls here," said the new boy respectfully.

"Oh, great Caesar!" groaned the grocer. "Sent 'em some of that good butter just after I have got 'em down to this here in the barrel! Sent 'em the best butter in the shop just as I finish a two years' course of getting 'em down to the barrel butter! Gave 'em a taste of good butter after I have got 'em to the world! And still you say you hope to own a grocer's shop some day! The taste of that butter you sent 'em will awaken all their old slumbering desires for good butter, and I'll have to work another two years getting 'em down a little poorer each time before I get 'em where there's any profit on 'em again! You might just as well put on your coat and go. Groceries ain't your line!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Boston Rake.

Bertha—Tell me, Harry, do you think George is dissipated? I smelled cloves on his breath last evening, and I am afraid he drinks.

Harry—No, Bertha; he isn't dissipated. He's only just an ass; nothing more. He eats cloves to make people think he drinks liquor. He wants to be regarded as a duce of a fellow, you know.—Boston Transcript.

He Didn't Die.

Laura—While Jack was here the other evening he made the statement that he would kiss me or die in the attempt. Belle—Yes? (After a pause.) Well, did he kiss you?

Laura—You haven't read any account of Jack's death in the papers, have you?

Ancestors of the Ostrich. The ostrich is a descendant of a genus of bird which in prehistoric times attained an enormous size. In the alluvial deposits of Madagascar evidence has been found to show that ostriches fourteen and fifteen feet in height once lived on the island.

At a French Table d'Hote.

She—Oh, horrors! Here is a snail in this salad!

He—Sh! If the head waiter heard you, he'd charge us for a portion of snails.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

OVER THE LINE.

Procrastination is the Thief of Health.

Nature is a very wise and careful mother but she is dumb. She speaks by signs. The man or woman who does not heed her signs or fails to understand them must pay the penalty. Some day there will be a step over the line beyond which Nature's warnings cease and her penalties begin. For instance there is a man who for years never knew he had a stomach, it performed its work so perfectly. Some day after eating he has a little sour or bitter rising in the throat. He does not heed it. Later he feels an uncomfortable fullness after eating, a distress in the region of the stomach and perhaps he is uncomfortable enough to wonder whether he ought not to "do something" for himself. But he does not get any farther than wondering. He becomes sleepless, loses flesh, and has other warnings of the development of disease but he still tries to work. Some day he collapses, drops down perhaps at his task and when he comes to himself in bed he is seriously ill. He is paying the penalty for his heedlessness of Nature's warnings. Whenever there are undue fullness after eating, sour or bitter eructations, belchings, and kindred symptoms it is the sign that disease is fastening on the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts. Disease unless checked is always progressive, and it is only a question of time in such cases, when the health and strength will be seriously undermined.

TAKE NO RISKS.

The wise man or woman will take no risks but will attend to the first symptoms of disease of the stomach. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which has cured thousands of people who were suffering from the most aggravated forms of disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition may be relied on quickly and permanently to cure such diseases in their earlier stages. Its action is prompt and efficient. Its effects are lasting. The whole body being fully nourished is built up with sound flesh, not with flabby fat.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation (tin-smith). Some four years ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

HOW STRENGTH IS RESTORED.
People as a rule have a somewhat vague idea of the manner in which life is sustained and supported. They know they must eat to live. But they do not consider that when the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are diseased, the object of eating, which is the nutrition of the body, cannot be perfectly attained. Only part of the food eaten is converted into nutrition, and the body is but partly nourished. Yet the body is required to do as much daily as if it were being fully nourished. The result is the wasting of the flesh, loss of weight which goes hand in hand with loss of strength, and general debility. When the diseased stomach is cured by "Golden Medical Discovery," the food is digested and assimilated and in the form of nourishment restores the strength and vigor of the body, the proof of this being written in the pounds and ounces of lost flesh which are rapidly regained. The only way in which physical strength can be made is by food, digested and assimilated. When the stomach and its allied organs are diseased the digestion is imperfect, consequently there is a daily loss of strength. When Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, the food eaten is properly digested and assimilated, the body is adequately nourished, and thus its strength is restored.

"I will express my thanks to you for the kindly advice you have given me in regard to my case," writes Miss Carrie J. Wharton, of Dunaway, Spottsylvania Co., Va. "When I wrote to you last spring I was in a terrible state of health. Had given up all hope of ever being better. I spit up my food all the time and it seemed sour as vinegar. I would have a bad sick headache every other week; in fact, my head never felt clear, and I was perfectly broken down under the strain of losing my food constantly. I was not able to have a physician attend me, but had read a great deal in your books of what your medicine had done for others, so I wrote you and got your advice. Bought two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the first dose I took I felt better. When I had finished taking the two bottles the spitting up had entirely stopped and my head was much better. I do not say it has yet made an entire cure of me, as it required more than that for me, as I was so very bad, but I believe your medicines are just what you have said of them."

"I carefully read the books you sent me and shall always speak a good word for the 'Golden Medical Discovery' whenever I have a chance. You can publish this if you think it worth while. It might induce some one else to try your medicine who was suffering as I did. It was not at all testimonials of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do as you tell me."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do as you tell me."
