NEW RESIDENCES

TO GO UP WITH THE OPENING OF SPRING.

Harry Westcott's New Mansion--New Factory Building for Gaar-Scott & Co.

--A. C. Lindemuth to Build--And Others.

The building boom is with us for fair. It is plain that the next year in Richmond is going to be the greatest in amount of building in the entire history of the city, and of a finer class than has been customary here for a long time. All the architects are busy drawing plans. We have given many in the past two weeks; here are some more:

Ossie Yates is busy with plans for at least a dozen fine houses and other buildings to go up here in the early spring, some for renting, but mainly for homes for the owners. Some are of striking originality, others in conventional styles.

One of the most beautiful as well as odd of them is a new residence for Harry Westcott. It is to go on the Westcott square, on the south portion, facing south fourteenth street, below the Hollingsworth residence. It is to be built of cobblestones, or bowlders, a design of which we have no sample in this city and but few in the state. One of the Stud-bakers at South Bend has one made of this material that is noted. The roof will be of Spanish tiles, the second story of shingles, and there will be one large chimney of bowlders on the outside running clear to the peak of the roof. It will be artistic to a finish. There are wide verandahs almost clear around the house, and the roof will be pierced on all sides with "eye wipers" for the lighting of the attic. The interior will be rich and finely arranged. The first floor has a large hall in the center running the entire length of the house with grand stairway to the upper floor, unique in design. At the right is a living room with large grate, pressed brick mantel, nook and seats, opening with a bay on to a fine verandah on the south. Back of this is the "den," with large nook and grate. There are grates of different designs in every room. On the left is the dining room, 13x21, with large grate, extending bay window with seat, dais for flowers, etc. In the rear is a large serving pantry connecting with the kitchen, and a large rear hall with private stairs to second floor. On this floor all will be beam ceilings.

The second floor has four large, airy bedrooms, with linen closets, big bath room, etc. The attic is very large and high and the basement has the laundry, in addition to the furnaces, etc. All is finished in the finest style. The house is supplied with all electrical appliances throughout and is the most modern in Richmond.

A. C. Lindemuth will build a magnificent house on his lot on south fifteenth street, between A and B. It will be a frame house with everything modern, including electric wiring, and will be one of the very best houses in that section of the city. There is a fine reception room on the first floor, handsome stairway, and bath rooms both above and below.

Erie Reynolds will put up two frame houses on the corner of sixteenth and north E. Each will be of seven rooms, completely modern, the best houses Mr. Reynolds has ever put up, we believe. Heretofore his houses have generally been on the cheaper order.

Plans are nearly completed for an immense factory building to be put up by Gaar, Scott & Co., 16x100 feet, four-story, to go on the ground recently acquired by them in the C. R. & M. changes. The building will be of brick and iron construction, with prismatic glass for lighting, slate roof. It will be completely fitted for electricity. It is said that they will soon put in a complete electrical plant for the use of the entire works.

Mr. Yates is also just completing plans for a handsome residence for Mr. Goodrich, at Winchester. That city has many beautiful homes, but none finer than this will be.

Things You Cannot Do.

A man can not raise from a chair without bending forward or putting his feet under the chair or outside of it.

Many a man will back himself to give another a start of fifty yards in a race of 100, providing the man having the start hops all the way. But no runner, however swift, can give that amount of start to an ordinary man. For the first five yards they go at practically the same pace. Therefore the runner to go ninety-five yards while the hopper goes forty-five would have to run more than twice as fast, and it would be a weak man who could not hop forty-five yards at a pace equal to twenty seconds for 100 yards, and that would mean the runner would have to beat all previous records.

Things You Cannot Do.

A Flemish artist has produced what is said to be the smallest painting in the world. It is a picture of a miller mounting the stairs of his mill and carrying a sack of grain on his back. The mill is depicted as standing on a terrace. Close at hand are a horse and cart, with a few groups of peasants idling in the road near by. All this is painted on the smooth side of a grain of ordinary white corn. Those who have seen it are loud in their praise of it. Though it is drawn with perfect accuracy, it is necessary to examine it under a microscope. It does not cover a half inch square and is in many respects one of the most remarkable art products of the day.

Reading Aloud.

A girl who was ill in bed asked her mother to read to her.

"No, dear," said the mother; "the doctor says that I must not read to you."

"Then, mother," begged the child "won't you please read to yourself out loud?"

Sleepy Grass.

There is a kind of grass found in New Mexico, Texas and Siberia known as the "sleepy" grass. It has a very injurious effect on horses and sheep. Having eaten a large quantity of it, they often sleep from twenty-four to forty-eight hours without waking up.

Joe's Punishment.

Me and brother ran away only just the other day. Brother said, "Suppose we go off to spend the day with Joe?" I said, "Let us go ask mother." "No; let's run away," said brother. Well, I thought it would be fun. Hand in hand away we run. Joe lives up a quiet street. Not a person did we meet. I felt kind of scared and queer. And held tight to brother dear. "Brother," said I, "I'm afraid." "That's just like a girl!" he said. I was kind of cross at that. Then he called me "fraidy cat." So I kept right on going. Though the wind was "gaint us blowing. When we got to Joe's house. All was quiet as a mouse. We thought Joe would be out playing. Soon we heard his mother saying: Just inside the kitchen door: "If you run away once more, I shall have to lock you in for a whole long Saturday. So you can't go out to play. And because you run away to the ball ground yesterday I shall have to spank you hard!" My, how quick we left that yard! Me and brother, scared to death. Ran till we were out of breath. We got home 'fore mother missed us. But that night, when soft she kissed us, We both felt so very mean. That we told her where we'd been, And we promised her right then Not to run away again.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Automobiles in Commerce

Automobiles are a royal sport, as any one knows who has ridden in the chauffeur's seat of a forty horsepower machine on a well kept country road. Henri Fournier in January Success, I don't plead for the automobile as a pleasure machine. I am not a faddist. The automobile is a commercial necessity. Its place is with the electric street car, the locomotive and the traction engine.

While automobiling is now a fad among well to do Americans, at least I think it will find a permanent place in recreation and sport, the future of the automobile does not depend upon its use by pleasure seekers. Its great commercial value is not yet appreciated even by those who are most interested in the development of the machine. It is a great time saver. In America "time is money" more than anywhere else in the world. The great newspapers in their race to get the latest news first to distant parts of their cities now employ automobiles to carry the papers from the press rooms to the newsstands. They travel faster than the electric cars. To hospitals, to save human lives, send automobile ambulances to transport the injured more safely and quickly by using automobiles instead of vehicles drawn by horses. The problem of transporting light freight about a large city like New York is being solved by the automobile. Street railways have tried it, but they could not do it successfully because of the interference with passenger traffic and the impossibility of delivering goods away from the few streets where tracks are laid. An automobile delivery wagon does not have its route marked out by rails.

I look to see all the ordinary work of transportation in the great cities of the world, such as New York, London, Paris and Chicago, done without horses, and I think the change will be made much sooner than most people have any idea of. Everything will be done with greater dispatch, the streets will be less congested and, most important of all, clean. Think what a crowded thoroughfare like Broadway, New York city, would be with no horses in sight, only motor vehicles speeding about hither and yon!

RACE OF GIANTS TO COME.

Professor Henry L. Bruner on the Future Man.

"Strange men, far different from those now living, will walk the earth in centuries to come. They will be a race of brainy, four toed giants," says Henry L. Bruner, head of the biology department of Butler university, near Indianapolis.

"The chest and the upper and lower limbs of the coming man will be larger," prophesies Professor Bruner, according to the Philadelphia Press. "and the future man will be much taller than his brother of today. The future man will live longer. Within a few generations old age will not fall upon men until the century mark is reached. I believe that the ultra blond and the ultra brunette type will constantly decline. Uniformity of the color of the eyes and the hair, however, will never be reached. The man of the future will have superior teeth and hair. Thought saving machinery will relieve the future man of much of his present routine of brain work. The sex of the future man will be pre-determinable. For a time there will be a preponderance of one sex and then of another."
