RAID ON PANAMA

Affairs On the Isthmus Are Far From Settled.

Colon, Jan. 8.—Information received here as to the conditions existing at Panama characterizes them as very unsettled. Ships belonging to the revolutionary forces were seen last Sunday 50 or 60 miles from Panama. It is reported that these vessels were unable to take aggressive measures against the government because one of them, the cruiser Padilla, lacks coal. Subsequent reports, however, say that the steamer Montombo from Nicaragua has supplied the revolutionary general Herrera with coal. General Herrera landed a revolutionary expedition at Tonosi Dec. 24 in the revolutionary steamers Ibis, Darien and Gaitan.

General Carlos Alban, the military governor of this district, has captured correspondence from Liberals in Panama setting forth that General Herrera had perfected plans for capturing Panama by effecting a landing during night at the railroad dock at LaBocha, the Pacific entrance of the Panama canal, about three miles from Panama. Since this discovery a six-pounder and 100 men under General Sarria have been stationed on the dock at LaBocha, rendering a landing in that vicinity impossible.

The Colombian gunboat Boyaca, with troops from Chepo, is expected to reach Panama soon. Government troops from Chorrera reached Panama Monday after a march overland. Small detachments of government soldiers now at Nombre de Dios and Coole (both on the Caribbean coast of Colombia) it is also expected will reach Panama shortly. There is now a total of between 600 and 800 government troops at Panama and much excitement prevails there owing to the movements of the soldiers up and down the city.

Movement Spreading Out.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The National Woman Suffrage association to be held in this city Feb. 12-18 inclusive, will assume an international character. Fourteen nations have now well defined woman suffrage movements. The organizations in each of these countries have been invited to send delegates to this year's convention, and seven already have accepted. Those countries from which the delegations have been promised are England, Canada, Australia, India, Russia, Germany and Sweden. It is expected that Norway, France and Holland will send delegates.

Couldn't Resist Temptation.

Boston, Jan. 8.—The mystery of the disappearance of small sums of money from cash drawers in various departments at the statehouse at night was solved yesterday when J. William Henry Johnson, a colored porter, was caught rifling the drawer in the office of the bureau of registration in pharmacy. He was arrested, admitted his guilt in the municipal court and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. It is said he is a regularly ordained Baptist minister.

Cold Comfort From Doctors.

Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pinners. A word of advice to him: stay indoors and use Perry Davis' Painkiller. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment can not be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Don't Interfere.

The meeting of the Republicans Saturday does not interfere with that of the Horticultural association. The first meeting will be held in the court room. The other meeting is held in the Horticultural association room, and is of more than usual importance since it is the first of the year and a sort of annual meeting. Caleb King, the new president of the association, will deliver his inaugural address.

Remarkable Cure of Croup
—A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. Who had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—JOEL DEMONT, Inwood, Iowa. WOMAN AND FASHION

A London Notion.

To be in the fashion one must wear fur. This is a decree which no woman who cares to be considered smart can ignore. To make the matter more difficult, however, furs are this season more elegant and expensive than ever, and one must have the purse of Fortunatus to make a notable display.

Chinchilla is the material of the hat shown, and a soft drapery of white lace trims it, in addition to the snow white bird considered chic by some milliners. Fur and feathers are not a very happy or artistic combination. Soft velvet roses and leaves seem more beautiful and appropriate allied with fur. Besides, they lend the necessary note of color.—New York Mail and Express.

FUR AND FEATHERS.

About Elbow Sleeves.

A word here upon the effect of wearing elbow sleeves or pronounced undersleeves with a flaring sleeve model in relation to one's height. It is impossible to do so without losing that precious height line, and no matter how much a short woman may admire the cuff sleeve or the very wide flaring one she should not indulge herself in wearing either, but cling to sleeves which mark a long line from shoulder to wrist. If by any chance she insists upon the newer sleeve, then she must have the top fit rather closely and below the elbow have a glove fitting additional sleeve to wrist. This will suggest the long arm line. In the matter of undersleeves, have them as small as possible and not strikingly in contrast with the gown. By these little management should women study their particular figures in their relation to the modishness of the day. Dressmakers in their rush of business cannot be expected to do this, nor are they much inclined to it as a general thing, as their experience proves that their clients pay no heed whatsoever to their advice, always going their sweet way in direct opposition.

The Shirt Waist Set.

Quite the latest thing in fashion's whirl is the shirt waist set. The shirt waist, with hat to match, is no novelty, but the shirt waist set is comparatively new. It consists of four pieces—the hat, the stock, the belt and the umbrella. A fashionable woman of the east end wore a few days ago a gown of dark brown. It was an uneventful gown except for the "set" which went with it. This set, in tomato red, was charming in setting off the costume. The hat, all in tomato red panne and scarlet tips, was supplemented by a stock of tomato colored silk, which in turn was made noticeable by a belt of tomato red satin lined with black silk velvet put on in rows. And all were set off by a red umbrella of regulation rain size. The brown gown was in two parts, a shirt waist and a skirt. The shirt waist was tucked in front and buttoned in the back. The skirt had tucked hips and a flare skirt.

also to trim the belt and the bell shaped sleeves. The large collar is of cream cluny lace and gives a charming air to the bolero, which opens on a blouse of white silk dotted with black.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SELECTIONS

WHY IT HAS FADED.

The Partial Obliteration of the Declaration of Independence.

"I saw recently in the press dispatches from Washington," said R. T. Smythe of that city, "an item to the effect that the original copy of the Declaration of Independence was fading. The story is true in that the document is fading, but not true that this partial obliteration is of recent occurrence. Many years ago, in taking an impression of the Declaration for the purpose of reproducing copies of it, an acid was used which had a most disastrous effect upon the ink with which the paper was written. The writing began to fade rapidly—so rapidly, indeed, that in a short time it was with extreme difficulty that either the text of the instrument or the signatures to it could be deciphered. At this time the Declaration hung upon the wall in the library of the department of state. It was in a wooden case supplied with doors, but during the hours when the library was open to the public the demands of the visitors caused the doors to be open also. The action of the light upon the document was very hurtful, and in order to preserve it from further decay the secretary of state caused a specially constructed safe to be manufactured for it.

"You must possess a strong pull to-day to obtain a glimpse of it, for as the years pass the fading of the writing, while checked, nevertheless steadily continues. As a consequence the department officials guard it carefully and expose it to the light with extreme reluctance. The safe in which the Declaration now rests is on the right of the entrance to the library, while on the left hand wall hangs the case in which it was formerly kept. A reproduction now takes its place, but ninety-nine people out of every hundred who visit the library depart after examining this copy believing that they have seen the original. They have seen something, however, for below the large case is a smaller one containing a rough draft of the Declaration in exactly the form in which Jefferson wrote it. This is an original, but as acids have never touched it it has faded only a little."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Rubber From Greasewood.

The ingenuity of a Yankee inventor has devised a use for that humble and unlovely shrub of the western deserts known as the "greasewood." It has been found to contain a gum that affords a valuable substitute for rubber. The method of obtaining the gum, which has been newly patented, consists in bruising the woody stalks of the greasewood, soaking them in a solution of carbon disulphide and then drawing off the liquid, which is distilled. The chemical used as a solvent is driven off by heat, and there remains in the bottom of the vessel a gummy stuff, flexible and elastic. Finally the gummy stuff is washed and purified, the result being a very fair substitute for india rubber—so good, in fact, as to suggest the notion that some day the American deserts may be made to yield very satisfactory profits in the production of raw material for gum shoes and bicycle tires.—Saturday Evening Post.

Golf Luck of a Greenhorn.

Down on the Wenham golf course a few weeks ago a new member was playing around the links for the first time. It was really his first serious effort to play golf. He made a pretty good strike off from an elevated tee across a valley to the top of a hill about seventy-five yards beyond. Thinking to have a little practice across the valley, he struck his ball back toward the green beside the tee whence he had previously struck off. The ball sailed gracefully over the hill, and to his inexpressible surprise the player heard it go "kerchunk" into the hole on the green. He had struck the ball seventy-five yards and landed it in the hole. Probably few players ever did such a thing, and this player says he does not expect to do it again if he plays golf for a quarter of a century. It was "the luck of a greenhorn."—Boston Herald.

Horned Horses.

Recent excavations in Greece have resulted in the finding of the heads of several horned horses and the shin bones of rhinoceroses. Greece seems to have been the land where the prehistoric horned horse most flourished. Out of six places in the world where the remains of the horned horse have been found three are in Greece and one in Samos, in the Grecian archipelago. The portions of horned horses recently unearthed were found in Euboea, where Professor Woodward has been making experimental excavations looking for paleontological remains. He has been excavating also at Pikerman, near the plain of Marathon, for some time.

A Good Reminder.

Conspicuously posted near the exit of a Rinnford Falls (Me.) dry goods store is the query in bold print, "Have you forgotten anything?" In the half dozen odd years that the sign has hung there it has saved innumerable return trips for forgotten parcels and done away with months of worry on the part of customers with short memories.

Utilizing Peat.

Peat is being made into a kind of wood that will answer admirably for paving and railway sleepers. Peat wood can be made to resemble any kind, from willow to oak. It will not warp, is very durable, holds nails and screws with a firm grip and becomes harder when laid on damp surfaces.

THE SPORTING WORLD

Fourier on Auto Driving.

Henri Fourier, the world's greatest chauffeur, has some very valuable ideas on the subject of auto driving. Fourier says that in order to become a trustworthy motorist a man must begin early and practice long. He must not become afflicted with that ever prevalent disease, overconfidence, and should always be cool and cautious.

The French speed demon names the ability to steer as being one of the important requisites for the successful chauffeur. He speaks as follows on the subject: "Any man who has ridden a bicycle should be able to adapt himself to auto driving without much trouble.

HENRI FOURIER IN HIS MOTOR MACHINE.

A steady hand is absolutely necessary, and practical experience as a steersman is the only means of obtaining it.

"In regard to overconfidence, I will say this much. The man who affects to know everything about automobiles and automobilism is a dangerous personage to come in contact with. The worst smashups I have ever seen were brought about by operators who imagined that their reputations would shield them from all chance of mishap."

Indoor Athletic Meet in New York.

The annual winter athletic meet of the Knickerbocker Athletic club, which is scheduled for Madison Square Garden on the evening of Feb. 3, 1902, gives promise of being a very successful affair. At this meet the athletes, who make it a point to compete indoors throughout the winter season, will be dealt quite leniently with so far as spiked shoes are concerned, for there will be no restrictions. The competitors may wear spikes or not, as they wish. The interscholastic team relay race, eight laps, each runner to run two laps, will no doubt prove the star event on the programme. The other events are a 60 yard run, novice; 60 yard run, handicap; 220 yard run, handicap; 440 yard run, handicap; 880 yard run, handicap; three mile run, scratch; 440 yard run, novice; running high jump, handicap, and a 600 yard run, open to boys of the public schools of Greater New York.

The prizes will be new, novel and of exceptional value and without doubt the best prizes offered this year outside of the championship events.

Keeler Is In Demand.

Unless the owners of the Brooklyn Baseball club are wide awake they will lose that prince of ball players, the redoubtable Willie Keeler. The sturdy little outfielder has received a gilt edged offer from the Detroit club of the American league, which he intends to accept if the Brooklyn club does not meet it with one that would make it worth while for him to remain here. "Business is business," says Keeler. "and I propose to go where I can get the most money, especially when the offer is of the gilt edged kind made by the Detroit club."

Wants Racing Course Shortened.

E. G. Storrow, Harvard's head rowing coach, has received much commendation in aquatic circles because of his suggestion to lower the distance of the annual eight oared race with Yale. Coach Storrow advocates that the race be rowed over a three instead of a four mile course. The scheme is a good one and will probably be accepted by the two colleges.

Lawson Loses His Trainer.

It is announced that Thomas W. Lawson has decided to quit the turf. This does not mean that he will go out of the horse business, but that he will pay no attention hereafter to racing. Jimmy Gatecomb, Lawson's trainer, has ended his service in that capacity and made arrangements to go into partnership with Scott Hudson, the Kentucky driver.

New West Point Football Captain.

Cadet Robert E. Boyers of the second class has been elected captain of the West Point football team. Cadet Boyer has been on the team since he entered as a plebe and is one of the soldier players. Cadet Douglas MacArthur, son of General MacArthur, will be manager. He is also a member of the second class and stands at its head.

Arkansas Jockey Club's Dates.

The Arkansas Jockey club has announced the receipt of the official notification of the assignment of dates, March 24 to 29, inclusive, for the spring meeting.

A small damsel of twelve who disliked boys wrote an essay upon them, in which she said, "If I had my way, half the boys in the world would be girls and the other half would be dolls."
