ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS.

From all appearances the political agitators in the Republican party in Indiana will soon be out of a job. The Republican congressmen and other leaders in state politics have nearly all declared for the nomination of President Roosevelt at the Chicago convention. It is almost certain that every district in the state will instruct its delegates to vote for Roosevelt in the convention.

Moreover, the party is organizing, from the precinct to the congressional district on no other lines than those pointing to the forthcoming nomination of President Roosevelt.

If Senator Fairbanks will allow his name to be used in connection with the vice-presidential nomination, it will add strength to Mr. Roosevelt both in the convention and at the polls in November.

Roosevelt and Fairbanks would make a winning combination. They are both men of recognized ability and the most unwavering integrity.

The people of Indiana would love to honor Senator Fairbanks and there are many politicians, in the state, who would like to succeed him in the senate.

Democratic newspapers which have been preaching unreasoning social discontent, which have been railing against the existing order six or seven days a week for several years, and which by it all have disseminated more communism than patriotism during the past decade, need not hold up their hands in holy horror over the candidacy of William R. Hearst for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Hearst is the natural flower and fruitage of the perpetual propaganda of discontent—not a petty product, but a perfectly legitimate one. He represents the ultimate goal of the Democratic drift of the past decade, whether his nomination comes now or is postponed for four or eight years.

The Lincoln League of Indiana will hold its annual convention and banquet at Evansville on February 13. From all appearances the attendance at this annual rallying of the younger Republican clans will be unusual. The railroads have made a half-fare rate plus 20 cents, tickets to be sold on the 12th and good returning until the 15th. At the banquet every congressional district in the state will be represented on the toast list. Information relative to the convention may be obtained from George D. Heilman of Evansville, secretary of the league.

Two continents rejoice at the release, from an English prison, of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who was convicted of poisoning her husband and sentenced to death. The sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment. She had served almost fifteen years of the sentence, and during that time, had elicited the sympathy of many noted women both in Europe and America. It was only on a technicality that she was convicted.

There is a fad among the young society girls for "doing things," says the Indianapolis Star. This is a hopeful sign. They cannot all be typewriters or story writers and they are turning their attention to work for the poor. This is one result of the industrial phase of education. These young ladies, while helping others, are helping themselves to become better home makers in the future.

It begins to look like Messrs. Taylor and Hanley will have a clear field in the gubernatorial contest. It is said that Judge Penfield may withdraw. Even if he do withdraw, the dreams of Taylor and Hanley are disturbed by the ghost of a veteran congressman, who, while in congress, was as true as steel to his district.
