The Saturday Cinch club enjoyed a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Shifer, 217, north thirteenth street, Saturday evening. Cinch was played during the evening, and a light supper served.

A number of the members will be out of the city during the next two weeks, and another meeting will not be held until Saturday evening, February 20, after which the meetings will occur regularly each two weeks.

A hob-sled party of fifteen friends associated in the Christian church work drove to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Harris, two miles north of the city, Saturday evening. There a supper was served and a few hours spent most enjoyably. The happy party returned home at a late hour.

The Sketch club meets this evening at the Morrison-Reeves library to view the February exhibit of bookplates. The friends of the club are invited also.

The next meeting of the Wayne County Historical Society will be held at the court house, on the afternoon of February twenty-seventh. The program arranged promises to be an interesting one and has been announced as follows:

Report of the New Orleans meeting of the American Historical Society—Hon. Jesse S. Reeves, Richmond.

Paper, "The First Railroad in Richmond"—Mr. James Van Dusen, Richmond.

Original poem—Rev. Luke Woodward, Fountain City.

Report of visit to Henry County Historical—Miss Helen V. Austin, Richmond.

The reports will be given interestingly, and Mr. Van Dusen's paper will undoubtedly be entertaining, as he was the first railroad ticket agent in Richmond.

The complete program of the Historical Society meetings for 1900 will be announced in the near future, and publication number 2, "History of Germans in Richmond," by Mr. Fred Bartel will soon be ready for distribution to the members.

Miss Mary Descher celebrated her seventeenth birthday Saturday evening at her home on south fourth street, with a dinner which was attended by seventeen guests. The table was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, and lighted with seventeen candles. Carnation favors accompanied each place card. Mrs. S. H. Jones and daughter, Miss Bessie, of north ninth street, spent yesterday with relatives in Economy.

MEAT

Farmers Bringing Considerable to The City.

Throughout the entire state farmers are busily engaged in butchering. Since all kill more hogs than they are able to consume they must perforce bring the meat into the city to sell. Thus every farmer who has one or two butter and egg customers comes in each Saturday loaded with scrapple, head cheese, pigs' feet, etc., and other results of the butchering. This sudden influx of fresh meat has caused the demand for salted meats to decrease in a marked degree, and this decrease is felt by all grocers and meat marketmen over the city. Fresh meat is higher than for a good many years. Grocers say that there is a marked falling off in the demand for bacon and other salted meats.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

Larsh.—H. C. Larsh, a former resident of Richmond, died at Atlanta, Ga., Saturday night. The remains will arrive here Friday and be taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. J. E. Brown, 201 north twelfth street. Funeral announcement later.

Kraft.—Mary C. Kraft died this morning at the home of her nephew, Henry Haas, 1317 north H street, of pneumonia, at the age of 51 years. The funeral service will be at the home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the remains will be taken to Dayton Wednesday morning for interment.

Turner.—Ruth, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Turner, died Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at their home at Kokomo, Ind. The remains will arrive here Tuesday afternoon at 3:55, and will be taken to the home of John H. Veregge, 200 south seventh street. The friends may call Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning. Funeral will be Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of John Veregge, 200 south seventh street, Rev. Howard officiating. Interment at Lutheran cemetery.

Klopp.—Henry J. Klopp died at his home, 534 south ninth street, last night at 9:30, of heart disease, at the age of 48 years. The funeral notice will be given tomorrow.

Addleman.—Mrs. Elinor Addleman, aged 60 years, died Sunday morning at her home in Whitewater. The funeral will take place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Methodist church in Whitewater, the interment being in the cemetery there.

Stated meeting of Richmond lodge of Masons tonight.

SHORT STORIES.

New York city consumes 2,000,000 barrels of potatoes a year.

Honduras at present gets all its coal from the United States. Late, however, a promising coal field has been found in the department of Yoro.

A strange case came up in the superior court at Salem, Mass., recently. A minor sued his father for the loss of a finger. The boy worked in his father's shoe factory. The boy got a verdict.

A resident of Chicago has sued a physician of that city for $25,000 damages, alleging that the doctor burned his face with an X ray machine; that before treatment he had a handsome, heavy mustache and beard, quite becoming to his face, and that now the beard will not grow on the left side.

J. C. Jackman of Vergennes, Vt., recently cut down an elm tree which measured four feet on the stump and contained three and three-quarters cords of wood. When the tree fell it split open, and two coons that had been making their home in the tree about sixty feet from the base rolled out. They were quickly killed by Mr. Jackman.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

makes pale, thin children fat and chubby. Overcomes wasting tendencies and brings back rosy cheeks and bright eyes.

It's surprising how quickly children respond to Scott's Emulsion. It contains just the element of nourishment their little bodies need. They thrive on it.

Even a few drops in the baby's bottle have a noticeable effect for good. Nothing better than Scott's Emulsion for growing children.

Why do substitutes for Scott's Emulsion cost less? Because they're worth less. With one you wait in vain for the benefits you had looked for. In Scott's Emulsion you get them. It never disappoints. That's worth the few cents difference in cost.

We'll send you a sample free upon request. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

GRAND JURY

COURT HOUSE

The Townsend shooting affair is being investigated today.

Final settlement was made in the estate of Samuel Moore. An order was issued to transfer notes and mortgage in the estate of Margaret E. Conkle.

The county commissioners are in session today. Regular routine work was gone over, also some liquor license cases are before the board.

A GREAT MUSICAL EVENT.

The Apollo club of Muncie is preparing for a musical event on next Wednesday night that will be attended by music lovers from all over the state. The club chorus of fifty male voices has been trained by Prof. Alexander Ernestinoff, of Indianapolis. They have secured for the evening's soloist Mr. Bispham, of Boston, and the concert is anticipated as Muncie's leading musical event of the season.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

The Agricultural Press.

Before the science of agriculture, based upon geology, botany, chemistry and physiology, was framed or expressed in common words farmers who were thoughtful and studious strove to base their work and explain the growth of crops upon certain changes in the moon's phases. The plantings in "light or dark" moons were the honest efforts of seekers for light on a subject wrapped in darkness for ages. This folklore is supposed to have grown out of the well known action of the moon upon tides. What vestige of truth may have been concealed in this first theory of farming we may never learn because scientific investigation and results point us to more certain methods.

The agricultural press was the first great agent of instruction pointing the people to the reasonable causes of successful crop production. Gradually all papers and books have added their influence against unsystematic farming. The colleges and schools now all point to scientific agencies as a means of increase in farm production.

But the agricultural press is still the bearer of the most technical farm facts based upon science. The farm paper is the "rural trade journal," dealing especially in the intricate subjects that make for profits and higher farm life. Under this instruction a small per cent of the farmers and stockmen—the more intelligent—are no longer "chance farmers." These people are intelligent enough to form clear personal conclusions upon subjects about which they read. The trouble is that there are comparatively few readers of farm papers in the southwest.—Farm and Ranch.

Farmers Are Solid.

In a recent address before the Pennsylvania state grange Judge Troutman said: "You farmers are as solid and substantial as the hills. All classes, whether rich or poor, must ultimately look to you for food and clothes. Your united voices as the result of your splendid organization are being heard by our legislators. You cannot be resisted and can demand as never before what you ask." Never was a truer statement made. Farmers realize more and more the significance of organization and co-operation in the preservation and extension of their everyday rights and interests. Farmers should increase their membership and efficiency in the grange and other co-operative movements in every section. We can hold the balance of power in our own hands by looking after farm interests, as do the men back of large commercial and industrial enterprises.—American Agriculturist.

Horses and Farm Machinery.

Improved machinery requires less horsepower for its operation. Reapers and mowers are much lighter than formerly, and their gearing is arranged on a more scientific basis. The self binding reaper is hauled by two horses, while the old reaper required four. Many one horse mowers are now in use which perform the work formerly accomplished by two horses. The two horse mowers are made to cut a wider swath. The improved plows enable a team to turn a twelve inch furrow, when twenty years ago only two-thirds as wide could be turned. Similar advances have been made in all classes of farm appliances. The improvement in country roads, begun in the last decade, will result in making more effective the power of the work horse and will, therefore, still further reduce the number required to do the work of the farm.

Apple Pomace For Cows.

Experiments by the Vermont station show apple pomace a good ration for cows and greedily eaten by them—in fact, to be quite equivalent in feeding value to corn silage when used as a partial substitute for that material. Both the Vermont and Massachusetts stations have fed from twenty-five to thirty-five pounds a day per cow with entire satisfaction and continuously for five months, the milk flow being maintained remarkably well. Assuming that the pomace costs the farmer a dollar a ton, the Vermont station found apple pomace silage equally as good as corn silage. It is suggested to avoid putting animals on full feed at once, but rather to accustom them to it gradually.

The Potato Planter.

The Kansas City World says that the potato planter of today would make the farmer of a generation ago sit up and rub his eyes. It requires that the potatoes be supplied, but will do all the rest on its own initiative. It picks the potato up and looks it over—or seems to—cuts it into halves, quarters or any desired number of parts, separates the eyes and removes the seed ends. It plants whole potatoes or parts thereof, as desired, as near together or as far apart as the judgment of the farmer on the driving part suggests. Having dropped the seed, it covers it, fertilizes it, tucks it in like a child put to bed and paces off the next row with mathematical accuracy.

Sorting and Planting Corn.

Something new, even in corn planting, is suggested by the work of Professor P. G. Holden of Iowa. His plan, in a word, requires the sorting by hand of seed corn and the planting of just the right number of grains in the hill or drill. He finds that in Iowa the best crops are obtained from an average of a little over three stalks to the hill. Northern corn could no doubt endure thicker planting. As to picking over the kernels by hand, he reckons that a man can sort a bushel a day, enough seed for seven acres, and that the work will make $35 difference in the crop where corn is 50 cents a bushel.—American Cultivator.
