CENTERVILLE

Miss Belle Williams went to Springport, Henry county, Ind., to attend the funeral of Lewis Williams a resident of this place several years ago.

A jolly crowd filling a bobsled to its capacity went down to Walter McConaha's Friday night and had a jolly time until way late in the night getting home early in the morning.

Polo—Centerville done up the "Stallions" from Richmond Friday evening.

G. Luken & Co., looking like the grip held him tight for a while.

AMATEUR POLO

Fairview Won by a Score of 7 to 2

From City Restaurants.

The amateur polo game on Saturday night at the Coliseum was not up to the usual standard. The first period was fast and close, but after that Fairview simply ran away with the game.

In the last period the audience was very much amused by a young man who took Norman's place at half back. It appeared as though he had never had roller skates on before, as he could hardly stand up. When Fairview made a goal it was almost impossible for him to skate to the east end of the rink. The young man had ambition, however, and did his best, and with a little practice, might develop into a good polo player. Score, Fairview, 7; City Restaurants, 2.

MULE SUPPLANTS GOAT.

(Trenton (Mo.) Tribune.)

A novel method is employed by the local lodge of Elks to dress the hardwood floor of their apartments in the new Fulkerson building. A white mule is attached to three heavy grindstones, laid flat on the floor. From their center is a large horizontal projection, on the end of which is a heavy weight, so placed that it fills the stones and causes them to rotate when they are dragged. The floor is well covered with clean sand. For two days the white mule has dragged his burden over the smoothing surface. The lower grindstone is already nearly worn away by the process. If the town's stock of grindstones holds out the Elks expect to have their floor in fine shape for the big doin's next week. The mule is receiving consideration as a proper substitute for the regular goat.

THE "GOOD WIFE."

(Caledonian Journal.)

To this day smallpox is alluded to in the outer islands of the Hebrides as "bhean mhath" ("the good wife"), a form of euphemism the idea of which is that, in order to escape the ban of the disease, it should be spoken of respectfully.

CONFESSION POSTPONED.

(From the Warrensburg (Mo.) Journal.)

Here is the way a Benton county man confessed to a revival: He had been pressed to repent, and finally got up and said: "Dear friends, I feel the spirit moving in me to talk and tell what a bad man I have been, but I can't do it while the grand jury is in session." "The Lord will forgive," shouted the preacher. "I guess that's right," said the penitent, "but He ain't on the grand jury."

HAS A $5 STAMP.

(New York Press.)

That one should worry because in the possession of $5 seems unnatural—provided he came by it honestly. Still, there is a banker of lower Broadway who is losing sleep because he has a United States postage stamp of the denomination of $5. It was sent to him by a correspondent. To use it he found that he would have to send first-class foreign mail to the weight of three pounds two ounces, which could be sent by express for $1. To get rid of it on domestic letters at its full value he would have to send a packet weighing fifteen pounds ten ounces. He begged a political leader to have it exchanged at the postoffice department for stamps of a usable value, but that could not be done. What shall he do with the elephant? Only about 2,000 five-dollar stamps are used by the population of this country in a whole year.

A NOVEL CONTEST.

(London Cor. Milwaukee Sentinel.)
Perhaps the queerest of the many odd competitions that are held in London is the potato peeling contest, which comes off at the headquarters of an immense catering company in the east end.

The firm employs 100 boys as peelers, and, to stimulate their industry, the management offers a prize of $5 and the title of champion potato peeler of London to the lad who can peel 28 pounds of potatoes in the shortest space of time. All "eyes" and blemishes must be removed.

This year 30 of the smartest boys in the employ of the firm entered. The rapidity with which the boys pared was wonderful, and 13 minutes and 40 seconds from the start a lad named Conolly shouted "done!" Then another voice yelled "finished," and another cried "done." So close was the race and so excellent the form of the competitions that the last lad threw down his knife after 15 minutes had elapsed.

THE G. O. P. CRADLE.

(Lewiston (Maine) Journal.)

Will Maine have to give place to birthplace of the Republican party? Michigan contends the actual birthplace is Jackson, in that state, and that the event took place July 6, 1854. So cocksure are the Michigan people of this that they are making preparations to celebrate the event. Up to this time it has been generally understood that the Republican party was born and christened at Strong, in Franklin county, August 7, 1854. On that date and in that place the county conventions of the Whigs, Free Soilers and Morrill Democrats assembled, united and voted with enthusiastic acclaim "that the party created by the union of the three conventions bear the name of the Republican party."

ONE OF RILEY'S LITTLE POEMS

It was only the other evening, around a banquet table, in the land of limitless prairies and never ceasing winds, that a band of brave Sir Knights indulged in "a feast of reason and a flow of soul." As Indiana was well represented on that happy evening, a selection from the Hoosier poet was beautifully rendered by a man from Maine. The selection is entitled, In a Friendly Sort O'Way and is as follows:

When a man ain't got a cent, and he's felling kind o' blue,
An' the clouds hang dark an' heavy,
won't let the sunshine through,
It's a great thing, O my brethren,
for a feller just to lay
His hand upon your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way!

It makes a man feel curious; it makes the tear-drop start,
An' you sort o' feel a flutter in the region of the heart;
You can't look up and meet his eyes; you don't know what to say,
When his hand is on your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

Oh, the world's a curious compound, with its honey and its gall,
With its care an' bitter crosses; but a good word, after all,
An' a good God must have made it—leastways, that's what I say
When a hand rests on my shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

DOING ONE'S BEST.

(Success.)

This habit of always doing one's best enters into the very marrow of one's bearing, one's self-possession. The man who does everything to a finish has a feeling of serenity; he is not easily thrown on his balance; he has nothing to fear, and he can look the world in the face because he feels conscious that he has not put shoddy into anything, that he has had nothing to do with shams, and that he has always done his level best. The sense of efficiency, of being master of one's craft, of being equal to any emergency; the consciousness of possessing the ability to do with superiority whatever one undertakes, will give soul satisfaction which a half-hearted, slipshod worker never knows.
