LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

The Democrats brought suit recently to test the constitutionality of the apportionment law of March 9th, 1903. One of these suits was brought before Judge Downey, a Democratic judge, and the other before Judge Artman, a Republican judge. Judge Artman has decided that the law is unconstitutional because of unequal representation, in portions of the state, of both senators and representatives.

Indiana has 50 senators and 100 representatives. The senatorial unit is 13866—that is each senator represents that many male inhabitants above 21 years old. Each representative represents one-half that number of male inhabitants over 21 years—that is 6933.

Judge Artman found the conditions to be such that one senator in one part of the state represented two or three thousand more than the unit and in other portions, others represented as many less than the unit. While it would be impossible to apportion the state so that each member of the legislature would represent the unit, yet it is a fact that the number represented by each member differs, in many cases, too much from the unit.

Again, Judge Artman holds that the constitution regards counties as governmental divisions of the state and for this reason, the grouping of two or more counties, neither of which has a population equal to the ratio for a senator or representative, and giving to each district so formed more than one representative, is unconstitutional.

The law, then, is not upheld by a Republican judge and his decision will undoubtedly be affirmed by the supreme court.

This decision, if upheld by the supreme court, will have a salutary effect on this kind of legislation.

Whenever a party comes back to power, the first thing on the program is a bill to redistrict the state and sometimes this redistricting is very much unequal for.

THE STATUE QUESTION AGAIN.

"When the statue of Father Marquette was sent by the state of Wisconsin to be placed in the hall of statuary in the capitol, two years ago there was strenuous opposition for sectarian reasons. It is said the opposition is to be revived. If the controversy could have been brought up when the country was lauding the liberality and goodness of the late Pope Leo, probably it could have been settled generously and consistently."—Terre Haute Tribune.

There was a time—there may have been a time—when such narrowness could be tolerated, but in the new light of the new century, the American people ought to rise above sectarianism.

Pere Marquette was a missionary in the true acceptance of the word. He chose to leave a happy home in sunny France to live among the Indians in the new world. These people of the forest loved him for his goodness and when he was sick, they carried him by day and watched with him at night. He must have been a good man to elicit such devotion from the savage. The historian has been generous in his recognition of the services of Marquette.

Baneroff says: "The West will build his monument." Francis Parkman devotes page after page to his brave and unselfish story. Once when he came to the Illinois, who dwelt on the banks of the Wisconsin, he asked them who they were. They answered as follows: "We are Illini. We are men." and bade him welcome in the following language from Parkman: "How bright is the sun, O Blackgown, when thou comest to visit us! Enter into our houses in peace. Never has the river flowed so gently as since you floated on it; never has our corn tasseled so; never has our tobacco had so fine a flavor. Welcome, Frenchmen."

February is crowded full of important days this year. Ground Hog day today, Lincoln's birthday the twelfth, Valentine day, the fourteenth; Ash Wednesday, the seventeenth. This is the first day of Lent and marks the beginning of an egg famine. Washington's birthday, the twenty second and one more thing. There has not been a leap year since 1896 until the coming of 1904. Therefore, in addition to the above noted days, February will have an extra day and in all twenty nine.

HAPPY MOTHER'S TOUCHING STORY

Of Baby's Dreadful Suffering from Eczema.

CURED BY CUTICURA.

Now His Skin Is as White as a Snow Flake.

"A terrible rash broke out on Charlie's poor little face and spread to his neck, chest and back. I had never seen anything quite like it before," writes Mrs. Helena Rath of 821 10th Ave., N. Y. City. "The skin rose in little lumps, and matter came out. My baby's skin was hot, and how he would suffer. He wouldn't eat, and night after night I walked the floor with him, weak as I was. Often I had to stop because I felt faint and my back throbbed with pain. But the worst part of all was to see my poor little boy burning with those nasty sores. At last I was persuaded by a friend across the street to try the Cuticura Remedies. She gave me some Cuticura Ointment—I think the box was about half full—and a piece of Cuticura Soap. I followed the directions, bathing Charlie and putting that nice Ointment on the sores. Little by little, but so surely, Charlie and I both got more peace by day and more sleep by night. The sores sort of dried up and went away, and now Charlie is cured completely."

"Yes, that fat little boy by the window is Charlie, and his skin is as white as a snow flake, thanks to the Cuticura Remedies. I think everybody should know about the Soap and Ointment, and if it is going to help other mothers with sick babies, go ahead and publish what I have told you."

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, fifth and Main.

HAGERSTOWN.

C. T. Knapp went to New Paris, O., on business last week.

John Hiser moved to the T. N. Williams farm.

Isaac Pitts and wife returned from Salsbury, North Carolina. They went there last fall. They don't like the town nor the country.

William Stonebreaker is in failing health.

Miss Jennie Dykes of Middletown is visiting Mrs. Will Teeter.

Miss Florence Bell of the Exposition office is sick.

Homer Talent will give the play, "The Streets of New York," on the nights of Feb. 5th and 6th in the I. O. O. F. hall. Len Pierce is trainer and stage manager.

Mrs. George Houser spent last Sunday with Dan Houser and wife.

Mrs. Henry Presbaugh was 68 years old last Wednesday. She gave a birthday dinner to a few of her intimate friends.

James Bagford, the drayman, who met with an accident several weeks ago, still walks with a crutch.

Dr. C. J. Stotelmeyer is arranging to build a new house this spring.

What Are They?

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. A new remedy for stomach troubles, biliousness, and constipation, and a good one. Price 25 cents. For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., W. H. Sudhoff, fifth and Main.

DUBLIN

The average "drop" of the thermometers is doubtless lower this winter than for a number of years.

Samuel Dillon, the next oldest person of Dublin, has been feeble for some time.

The interurban track from Dublin east is being scraped after each snow using the township scraper and four horses.

The musicale given under the auspices of the Ladies W. I. of Dublin, was well attended at the hall Friday night.

The people of both Dublin and Cambridge City have of late been talking up the "oil well" business, in the way of forming a stock company and boring for it.

The greatest concern and anxiety felt by many for some time is how to get enough fuel to tide them through this terrible winter.

The hens of Dublin as well as at other places have certainly formed a

MAGAZINES

Some of the Good Things for February.

February McClure's.

The February McClure's contains a stirring article by Ray Stannard Baker on the labor situation in San Francisco. Mr. Baker has just been there, and he finds the worst monopoly in town to be "A Corner in Labor."

Indeed the situation described is more startling than that of Chicago or New York, of which Mr. Baker has already written. Miss Tarbell's third chapter of her "History of the Standard Oil Company," Part Two, is thrilling likewise. Backed by documents, and with the unprejudiced calmness that is her most effective weapon, she gives an amazing account of petty persecution. The other articles are by John La Farge, whose splendid interpretation of great pictures of "War" is the second of his series on "One Hundred Masterpieces of Painting," and Frank H. Schell, who tells of hazardous adventures while "Sketching Under Fire at Antietam."

The fiction is sincere and strong. Booth Tarkington, "The Gentleman from Indiana," has the first of a series of political stories, "The Aliens." This is the first direct literary result of Tarkington's own political experience. Lloyd Osbourne's Western picnic-comedy, "The Fugitives of Pleasure," sparkle with love and repartee. In "Beneath the Wrinkle" a delicate, sad little romance, Clara Morris successfully departs from her former field of reminiscence Rex E. Beach, who sprang into favor with his one story "The Mule Driver and the Garrulous Mute," contributes "The Shyness of Shorty," an exciting and vivid Wild-

West tale. Miriam Michelson has an amusing and ingenious love story, "Prince Roseleaf and a Girl from Kansas." "The Forger," the first of a series of prison stories by R. F. Foster, is a realistic study of temptation and downfall. An old farmer's pursuit of "The Elusive Ten-Dollar Bill" through the mazes of departmental red tape is comically told by Elliott Flower. Several poems and a lot of beautiful pictures make the issue a notable one.

LIMITED CARS.

The break-down in the Greenfield station has been repaired and limited cars on the interurban line were put in operation today, and will continue regularly. City cars leaving the corner of eighth and Main at 8:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. make immediate connection with the Indianapolis car at the west side barns. In addition to these cars local cars leave company office, near the corner of eighth and Main at 7, 9 and 11 in the morning and 1, 3 and 5 in the afternoon. Returning cars leave Indianapolis for Richmond same hours.

FOUR HOURS LATE.

No. 2, the G. R. & I. train from Cincinnati, due here at 2 p. m., was four hours late yesterday afternoon. The engine and mail car jumped the track about fifteen miles from Cincinnati. The accident was caused by the breaking of a flange on the driver, caused by the cold weather. No one was seriously hurt.

Notice to Bidders.
