Mrs. Harry L. Weber, 119 south thirteenth street entertains with a whist party.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church held a pleasant but uneventful meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. F. Harris, 48 south eighth street. A disposal of the regular business was made, and it was decided to hold an all day meeting in the church two weeks later.

The Young Ladies' Aid society gave a valentine social at the Christian church last evening that was a very enjoyable affair. The church parlors were decorated with hearts and valentines and a valentine supper was served. Games and music furnished the amusement for the seventy-five guests present.

The ladies of the Duplicate Whist club enjoyed a happy meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. John F. Lontz, 52 south fifteenth street. Valentines were used for favors and score cards and a hint of valentine time was in the service of the pretty three-course luncheon. Mrs. Albaugh and Mrs. Jenkins, of Kokomo, who are visiting Mrs. B. B. Johnson, of east Main street, were guests of the club for the afternoon.

The club's next meeting will be held with Mrs. Harry Kates, 1220 east Main street.

The Wednesday society of the First Presbyterian church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Lillian Paige, 308 north twelfth street. Two excellent papers were read by Mrs. John Wampler and Miss Susan Kelsey. The subjects were "Lincoln" and "Eminent Statesmen of Indiana." Both papers were thoroughly enjoyed by the members, of whom there was a large attendance.

The next meeting of the society is the annual meeting, at which officers will be elected. This meeting will be held in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Dougan, 204 north tenth street.

Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davenport whose country home is north of the city, entertained about forty guests yesterday in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. An elaborate dinner was served, after which several games were played and an informal musical program added to the enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Davenport were the recipients of many beautiful remembrances of the occasion.

Mrs. Gertrude Hoffman, 43 Richmond avenue, gave a dinner yesterday in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Martha Lomax Morton, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who is making an extended visit with relatives in Centerville.

A large number of relatives were present.

Mrs. Will King and Mrs. T. F. Smith were the hostesses of a very delightful party, given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. King, 21 south eighth street.

About thirty ladies were entertained. Prizes were given for two contests. The first was a valentine guessing game, representing popular advertisements. At this Miss Ella Luring won a pretty prize. The second was working button holes, for which a prize was awarded Mrs. Lee Turner. Consolation prizes were also given for each contest.

Heart and valentine favors were used for the prettily arranged luncheon, served buffet in the dining room, where Mrs. King and Mrs. Smith were assisted by Mrs. Shilling-er.

A most delightful dinner was that given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Glass at their home, 2203 Main street. A large table and several small ones were decorated with red carnations. A large center piece of red carnations, forming a heart, was pierced with a cupid's arrow, and held red ribbon streamers which were carried to the places. Clever little valentines marked the places, and were accompanied by carnation favors. The valentine idea and heart shapes were used in every possible way and added much to the beauty and attractiveness of the appointments. The guests numbered about twenty.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First English Lutheran church met and enjoyed an interesting program at the home of Mrs. George Mashmeyer, 110 south fourteenth street, yesterday afternoon.

Readings about "The Foreigners in Our Country" were given by Mrs. August Roderfeldt and Mrs. William Seeker. The very impressive Bible reading and prayer were given by Mrs. Anna Heitbrink. A piano solo by Miss Selma Knollenberg added much to the program, which was followed by a social hour and the serving of refreshments.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Lee Nusbaum, 110 north eleventh street, when "Rex Christus" will be studied.

A business meeting of the Penny club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the new president, Mrs. Mary Dickinson, 8 North Wayne avenue. Committees to search for the poor were appointed for each ward, and several other business matters arranged.

At the next meeting, which will be with Mrs. Charles Swain, 120 north eleventh street, the club will combine a social with the business meeting.

A number of the younger set were guests last evening of Miss Clara Morgan, who entertained with a pit party in honor of Miss Ward, of Denver, Colo. Prizes for the progressive pit were won by Miss Jessie Beeler and Mr. John Starr. After the games refreshments were served at the pit tables.

Those who were present at the party home, 227 north tenth street, last evening, were: The Misses Jessie Beeler, Ruth Masluney, Lena Coffin, Marie Kaufman, Alice Hawley, Edith Harvey, Edith Nicholson and Marie Campbell; Messrs Charles Morgan, Edgar Hamilton, Thomas Kaufman, John Starr, Edward Wilson, Harry Dean, Eernan Smith and Feary Bulla.

A meeting of the Foreign Missionary society of the Whitewater Friends' church, held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. I. S. Harold, 27 north tenth street, combined a "market day" with a pleasant social occasion. This added a welcome sum to the society's treasury. The attendance was good, and each member gave a short missionary sketch. Miss Grace Baker and Mrs. Guy S. McCabe favored the ladies with some piano and vocal solos.

Next month's meeting will be held the second Wednesday with Mrs. R. L. Sackett, National avenue.

MUSICAL NOTES

Old Instruments Should be Collected. (New England Conservatory Magazine.)

The presentation to Yale University of the valuable Steinert collection of old musical instruments and its formal opening during commencement week last June leads us to remark upon the desirability of establishing such collections at musical centers.

The Steinert collection consists of good specimens of early clavichords, harpsichords and spinnets from the sixteenth century up to the modern pianoforte, and there are besides some specimens of the early members of the violin family.

The valuable collection of ancient and modern musical instruments of the Berlin Museum has been removed to the new building of the Hochschule fur Musik at Charlottenburg, and presents to the students of that institution an invaluable opportunity to study this important feature connected with their professional life. The Berlin Hochschule has recognized that an institution of its rank that draws students from all over the world ought to offer every facility for their broadest development. The New England Conservatory exhibited this same feeling when it established its collection of ancient musical instruments, which should become the most important in America if the generous interest of its friends becomes aroused as it could be.

The present interesting collection of rare musical instruments possessed by the Conservatory, while limited in extent yet is strong in certain lines and thus forms an excellent nucleus for the greater collection which it may hope to accumulate in the near future if its friends who have desirable old instruments will add them to those already obtained.

It is becoming more and more difficult to acquire a good collection of genuine old musical instruments, even with unlimited money at one's command, and the prices have risen so enormously that it is now only possible at great expense. The best collections are those which are formed gradually. It is by this process that the Conservatory may hope eventually to become possessed of one that will be truly representative. This can easily be accomplished if the collectors of rare instruments in and around Boston will co-operate by presenting them to the Conservatory which as a practically public institution may well claim the interest of such benefactors. Boston is exceedingly rich in private collections of old musical instruments and these ought not to be allowed to be scattered when their housing under a single roof would add more to the educational attractions of this centre of culture.

THE CRICIS

In the Orient—Boxer Spoiled Race Meet.

The war in the Orient will have a blighting effect upon sport, a minor yet interesting phase of the tremendous situation. Nowhere in the world can there be found more ardent and devoted sportsmen than among the English and American residents of the seaports along the Japanese and Chinese coasts, from Yokohama to Nagasaki, and from Tientsin to Hong Kong. The loyal backers of their respective cricket elevens and racing meets make nothing of a round trip by sea of a thousand miles to attend the annual fixtures of the sporting schedule. Shanghai sends its cricketers across the Yellow Sea to Nagasaki and Yokohama, and the colonies in Japan return the compliment. The race meetings are the great events of the year, and from Hong Kong the ponies and the sportsmen journey north to Shanghai, and then up to Tientsin, a total journey of nearly a week by sea each way.

The Boxer war spoiled the race meets for a year. But it was the crack jockey of North China, who, after four native couriers had been captured and killed in trying to get through the Boxer lines to the sea and the allies, to carry the news of the desperate straits of besieged Europeans in Tientsin, rode the fastest pony north of Shanghai, and succeeded in breaking through alive. So pony racing in China had impressive demonstrations of its usefulness. The war with Russia will put an end to international sports along the coast of Japan for a time, and it will blight the busy pastimes of the Chinese exiles, with hostilities at their doors.

to the lads in the gallery, are intensely interested until the final curtain. The special scenery is especially fine and gives the striking features true to the "real thing" of the interior of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York. "The Earl of Pawtucket" will be greeted by a large audience, and those who appreciate a truly good play will check off their seats as soon as the plot is open.

"Two Merry Tramps," Wood & Ward's rollicking farce comedy, follows on Tuesday evening, and of this company nothing special need be said; for it is too well known to require special mention. Wood & Ward are always in a jolly good humor, and, with a large company, mostly pretty girls, they always please the lovers of farce comedy. This season's company is said to be the strongest ever carried by Wood & Ward, and that's saying a "heap"; for, in times past, they have given the theater-goers of Richmond many enjoyable entertainments.

West's minstrels will "jolly things up" on the evening of February 17th, and of the attraction, many good things can truthfully be said.

"The Katzerjammer Kids," with the Captain Uncle Hienje and other victims, (not including the audience) will prove a drawing card at the Genett February 18th.

Other attractions soon to be here are: "New England Folks," Clay Clement, in "The New Dominion," Kathryn Ostuman, in "Miss Petticoat," "Under Southern Skies," and the Jeffersons, in "The Rivals."

CENTERVILLE

The election Monday passed off quietly, and, I think, satisfactorily.

Revival services commenced in the M. E. church Sunday evening. Rev. W. C. Butts, pastor.

Miss Jennie Bowen has taken charge of the local department of the News-Record.

Will Welfer has bought one of the Coffin lots in the east end and will have a beautiful cottage residence built in the spring.

The venerable Abraham Reynolds is very seriously sick at the residence of his son, M. Reynolds, five miles north of town.

A movement is on foot to bore for gas here again.

The Mexican liniment show did not materialize Monday as promised.

LOST LETTER.

Rev. C. P. Cook reports to this office that on December 2, at 6:30 p. m. he mailed a special delivery letter containing two five dollar bills to Mrs. Pearl Johnson, Marietta, Ohio. The letter has never reached its destination, and Mr. Cook is very anxious about it.
