ANOTHER TRIBUTE.

The Marion News-Tribune of yesterday contained a unique editorial on Mark Hanna. It is a brief summary of his qualities of head and heart with those of heart predominating. The editorial is a prose poem and is as follows:

"Mareus A. Hanna, the pathfinder, is taking his rest after a long journey. His last years were full of grieving for the man he loved above all men, the lamented William McKinley. Today the great leaders are united in peace, in quiet, in surecease of pain in supernal contentment after the struggle. Mark Hanna—let him be remembered as 'Mark' Hanna—had his fight to make, and fought like a man. Few knew that he had served in the army of the Union, for in his modest way he chose to forget that service. He was a lieutenant in the days of strife from 1861 to 1865. The records of his soldier days is a story of gallant deeds, a story of danger faced with manly courage. Mark Hanna was a leader in the world of trade. He gained success through toil. He set before the business world a fine example of fairness and honesty. He was ruled by justice in all his dealings. Labor saw in him the friend of honest toilers. Capital looked to him for precept and for counsel. Mark Hanna was a splendid judge of a man. He saw William McKinley, the gentle, and loved him long before the people knew McKinley. Mark Hanna had faith in William McKinley, and through that faith, and through his love for McKinley, the people learned the heart of Mark Hanna. There were those who abused Hanna. It pleased him to be able to shield his friend from the shaft of scorn. He bared his broad chest to the arrow of political warfare and smiled and led the charge. He knew the joy of victory. He saw traducers fly before his generalship; he saw his friend become the idol of the millions. In modesty he kept a shadowed place. But when occasion called he lent his genius, his sagacity, his power, to further enterprises that to him seemed just. He was the willing helper of the President. For years his party friends were slow to see his worth. He was content to win them one by one. As time went on he grew and broadened and made his own the problems of the people. He gave himself to labor and her claims. He gave himself and all his wonderful vitality to the pursuit of industrial peace, the greatest boon that man can hope to gain. He did much work that was practical. He did much work for which men gave him credit. He did many things in a forceful, manly, sensible way, many things that worked for human happiness, without a thought of praise. In a large sense he gave his activity to inducing brotherhood. No nobler purpose ever stirred the heart of olden knight than that which sent Mark Hanna to the task of arbiter where conflict raged between the forces of our commerce. Mark Hanna knew that civilization owes its greatest debt to commerce. He knew that commerce is not all sordid, but useful; not greedy, but gift-bearing. His conception of business was founded upon equity and honesty and social comfort. Mark Hanna did much to stop the mouths of ranters who arrayed the elements of industry one against the other. His sturdy logic, his clear and cogent reasoning and his store of knowledge served his country well when issues new to press and hustings forced themselves upon the public mind. Mark Hanna was a general. Keen eyed, calm, serene through all the thunder; smiling in face of most impetuous advance, he gave the rank and file his confidence; he inspired the party at his back with his undaunted courage and unwavering purpose. He will be missed by those who rallied at the call of his far-running bugles. His hand unerring will be needed in the years to come. There will arise new leaders, strong and true, wise and devoted, but in the all-grasping, all-compelling sense no man appears today to do his work. It has been forced home to the millions in recent years that Mark Hanna was moved by motives patriotic. In all he did he held his country over all most sacredly in trust. He was 66 years old. But he wore the smile of youth, and in his breast there thrilled a young man's heart, full of the joy of living, filled by the ecstasy of battle. If that young heart gave aging faculties too much work to do; if young ambition set too strenuous errands for the feet of age, we must content ourselves with knowing that Mark Hanna was a man who loved activity and that he chose to work until the last. It was his way. Mark Hanna was a splendid American type. His character is a study fit for schools of young Americans. His deeds are not unworthy of our emulation. The practical and honest in this life are to be sought with diligence. May Mark Hanna's spirit move forever in the cause of brotherhood."

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is for babies and children who are thin and pale when they ought to be fat and ruddy; for men and women who are weak and delicate when they ought to be strong and hearty—for all who are not getting proper nourishment from their food.

Poor blood, thin body, open the door for disease. Scott's Emulsion bars the way. Makes the blood richer, produces healthy flesh and above all provides nourishment.

Avoid these so-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil that are prepared for the taste only, contain none of the value of cod liver oil and which contain a large percentage of alcohol. Scott's Emulsion has been the reliable cod liver oil preparation for over a quarter of a century.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

We are All Familiar with the deep, hoarse bark, grimly called "a grave-yard cough." It is the cry of the tortured lungs for mercy. Give them mercy in the form of Allen's Lung Balsam, a remedy for pulmonary trouble, so highly esteemed that it is recommended even in the earlier stages of consumption. In the later stages mortal skill is unavailing. Nobody can afford to neglect a cold. (13)

BEECHYMIKE

Herman McAdams has returned from a visit of two weeks in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Will Hart and Miss Ollie Hart attended the Schumann-Heink concert at Richmond Thursday evening.

Miss Sophia Sanford of Lotus is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Percival Sanford this week.

Mrs. James Allen has been confined to her home by a severe cold.

Miss Clara Struffer of Indianapolis who is engaged in missionary work in that city, gave a very interesting talk at the church Sunday.

Everett Owen and family were guests of Maria Hart Sunday.

Fred Greggerson will have a sale at his farm February 25.

There Are Some Simple Remedies indispensable in any family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded. Painkiller. For both internal and external applications we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.—Christian Era. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis' Price 25c. and 50c. (13)

DUBLIN

Buckskin Ben with his novel exhibition is billed for Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 18.

Rev. Walters is now in the midst of revival work at the M. E. church, which may run for several weeks.

Property in Dublin seems to be changing hands quite frequently.

The funeral of Exum Elliott was largely attended last Thursday. The procession in coming from his home was a long one and quite a number of friends and relatives from a distance were present.

Another dance at Odd Fellows' hall on Feb. 19. These dances have become somewhat popular in Dublin. Three lady seamstresses viz. Mrs. M. J. Woodworth, the Misses Maude Clifford and Belle Garner, are working in the Cambridge City overall factory.

Mrs. Kate Schooley with her father, O. C. Green, are on a few weeks visit to Dr. A. Huddleston, son-in-law of Mr. Green's, at Winchester, Ind.

The talk is that James Thompson will move back on his farm, two miles southwest of Dublin this spring.

Ed E. Morgan is having quite a lot of Rock Island farming implements shipped to his care already for the spring trade in the east end of town.

Quite an advance has lately been made on chickens. Buyers are now anxious to buy them at 10c; roosters a little less.

The Women's Cemetery Association of Dublin have now a program of summer work which it is hoped will be fully realized.

One feature of the late midwinter storm of Saturday night a week ago, was that probably not more than one-half the citizens of Dublin heard but little of the pelting storm or saw the terrible flashes of lightning during that fearful night, which showed the hold that sleep had on them.

Bishop Floyd received word Tuesday evening of last week of the death of his oldest and last brother, at Russiaville, Ind., and left immediately to attend his funeral. His brother was 76 years of age.

Robert L. Bushing, who has been farming in Washington township for several years, will move to Dublin this spring.

The surprisers brought a nice supper with them which was served during the evening's entertainment. Mr. Rupe and family will move to Eaton soon and all regret to lose them from the neighborhood.

The sale of William Morrow was largely attended.

Wilmer Hall, George Minor, Roy

Wesler are reported on the sick list.

Roy Morrow and Leslie Chenoweth and their friend, Howard Tate, have returned to Indianapolis.

Alsie Kendall was at home from Earlham over Sunday.

Roy Robinson is visiting in Randolph county.

Walter Huffman has returned from a very pleasant visit in Ohio.

James Kerlin, in memory of his mother, has presented the M. E. church with a silver communion set.

We are very glad and thankful that the reported death of Rev. Harter, Chester's former pastor, is untrue. It was reported here last week, but it has been corrected and he is still a worker in his Master's vineyard.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local application as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

How Peruna
Saves
Lives

the doctors fairly gave me up, and I despaired of ever getting well again.

"I noticed your advertisement and the splendid testimonials given by people who had been cured by Peruna, and determined to try a bottle. I felt but little better, but used a second and a third bottle and kept on improving slowly."

"It took six bottles to cure me, but they were worth a king's ransom to me. I talk Peruna to all my friends and am a true believer in its worth."

—Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Tens of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state in the Union. We have on file a great multitude of letters, with written permission for use in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for a book written especially for women, instructively illustrated, entitled "Health and Beauty." Sent free to women.

MEN THINK
THIS

The best Overcoat in our store is offered at $10. In other words, your choice of any Overcoat we have, that sold for $13.50, $15, $16.50, $18 and $20, for TEN DOLLARS

For $6.00 Your pick of all overcoats formerly priced at $8.50, $10, and $11.00—blacks, greys, fancies—long and short coats.

For $4.00 You may take your choice of all coats marked to sell for $5.00, $6.00 and $7.50.

These offers were made known to public Monday evening, and naturally a large number of men have taken advantage. Many bought coats for next winter—

They were far-seeing men, and men who appreciate a good thing.

Of course they all selected what they thought was the best of the lot. But there is still a good lot of rare bargains to be had. Don't delay much longer.
