HOW SMOKE EXPLODES

Interesting Experiment Shows How the Baltimore Fire Started.

(Baltimore Sun.)

It is generally known that the great conflagration which destroyed the heart of the business section started in the building occupied by John E. Hurst & Co. The belief also prevails extensively that the blaze would probably not have attained the extraordinary proportions it did in such a remarkably short time, if at all, but for several explosions, or at least one, of unusual force. The cause of this explosion or explosions has not been explained. In fact all persons connected with the firm deny in the most positive terms that there was anything of an explosive character in the warehouse, and those charged with the inquiry into the matter have been making persistent efforts to ascertain what exceptional and hitherto little recognized force it was that scattered the flames to nearly every part of the big structure in a few moments.

That smoke will explode under certain conditions is not known to persons interested in such subject, and was demonstrated Saturday by Chief of the Fire Department Horton and District Chief Burkhardt to the city and fire department officials. William McDevitt, a fireman of 30 years' experience, had a model of a warehouse containing windows and an elevator shaft, and was in effect the Hurst building in miniature.

He explained that when smoke accumulated in the upper floors of a building and was heated by the fire in the lower stories it expanded and traveled downward, generally descending through the elevator shaft, and when the smoke reached the fire if it had no means of escape, it exploded.

The upper floors of the model were filled with smoke, and when a blaze was placed at the bottom of the elevator shaft the smoke exploded with a loud noise and blew every window out of the model. The report was accompanied by a whistling sound such as Chief Burkhardt heard when he was hurled out of the Hurst building.

Iron shutters on the model were closed, and at the second test the smoke exploded down the elevator shaft, blowing away the experimenter's instruments in front of the model.

Mr. McDevitt says he has blown off the roof of the model when it had 75 pounds of weight on it. The black smoke, the explosion and the peculiar whistling noise at the Hurst fire were duplicated in the smoke explosions in the model building. Mr. McDevitt says smoke will explode at a temperature of from 160 to 200 degrees.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local application as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FISH SWALLOWED DUCK.

(Titusville, Fla.) Star. The channel bass of Florida, caught in the salt lagoons, is known to have a voracious appetite, but we believe that history fails to record that this fish will devour the feathered tribe as well as the fishes, but such was proved the case here last week. A large sixty-pounder, when cut open laid to view a fat duck in its maw. Outward appearances indicated that it had swallowed more it could digest.

A Favorite Remedy for Babies.

Its pleasant taste and prompt cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a favorite with the mothers of small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds and prevents any danger of pneumonia or other serious consequences. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, fifth and Main streets.

A MONTH OF THE WAR.

(Chicago Record-Herald.) If the Russian and Japanese fleets had come together in open waters the control of the seas in the far East would probably have been decided in a single day. But with the Russian vessels clinging close to port and fighting only under the protection of land guns behind them is it a remarkable achievement for the Japanese that they have made the Yellow Seas safe for their unescorted merchant ships in so short a time as a month. The trip of the Chikugo Gawa Maru from Kobe to Chemulpo may be accepted as practically marking the close of the first period of the war. All information that we have indicates that the Russian fleet at Port Arthur is now completely non-effective and evidently the Japanese are better convinced of that fact than anyone else.

As to land operations it is true that we have little exact information, but it would be entirely wrong to think because of that fact that little has been accomplished by the belligerents. War has been described as a game of "positions," and from that point of view the great movements of troops that have been so secretly carried forward are just as truly war, and in just as important a sense, as will be the battles that are to follow. Nor is there any justification for saying that the Japanese land operations are dilatory. It would be much more correct to say, even on the basis of the few facts available, that considering all the conditions the Japanese advance has been very rapid. The good old principle of "getting there first with the most men" is one that the island powers shows no indications of overlooking.

Victory on land can unfortunately not be obtained with as little sacrifice of life and as little destruction of property as the victory on sea has cost. Japan is compelled to be exceedingly economical of the lives of her soldiers, for if the war is protracted she will need them every one in the end. The economical way in war is not to strike at all till one can strike decisive blows. Japan is now free to choose both time and positions, but how soon she will avail herself of her choice, whether in days or weeks, or even after longer time, it would be venturesome to predict.

It Never Disappoints.

F. J. Williams, proprietor of the Hamilton Drug Co., Hamilton, Iowa says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is practically the only remedy he sells for cramps, diarrhoea and colic, for the plain reason that it never disappoints. For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, fifth and Main streets.

Clean Harness Racing.

The second 1904 meeting of the Grand Circuit stewards was held at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, last week, and very little was accomplished. They resolved to organize, and it was agreed that there should be two stewards and a paid judge at each of the coming race meetings. With characteristic penuriousness it was decided that a certain number of men of unquestioned reputation should be asked to preside without compensation, two at two meetings each.

Of course, if Colonel John E. Thayer, J. Malcolm Forbes, E. T. Bedford, Harry Devereux, George W. Archer and men of their stripe consent to act and give the necessary time to their duties, the public may rest assured that harness racing will be conducted on an immeasurably higher plane than ever before, but the scheme seems to be too Utopian for these days of rush and hard cash. If Mr. Thayer, Mr. Bedford or any of the other stewards were to have important business at home, they would necessarily notify the president of the track of their inability to act, and a substitute would be selected, not by the Grand Circuit stewards, but by the track president himself. He might, of course, name some man of equal experience and standing in the community; on the contrary, he might select a good hotel-keeper or a dry goods expert, who had about as much practical knowledge of racing as a goat has of politics. These stewards are to have power not only to suggest action to the judges, but also to reverse their decisions if they seem to be unfair or not according to the rules.

The professional judge is to be employed by the Grand Circuit, which, of course, is as it should be. The two other judges are to serve free, and the selection of them is to be left to the presidents of the respective associations. Long experience will, in the dim, distant future, probably cause track officials to select capable men to occupy these two positions.

SOME SPORTS

That are to Occur This Spring and Summer.

Bobby Walthour, of Atlanta, who won the six-day race at Madison Square Garden last December and who holds the mile record of 1.06, has sailed for Europe, where he will compete against the best middle-distance riders of Paris and Berlin.

The speedy member of the Columbia team, who won 47 races out of 53 starts last year, took Gussie Lawson with him as a peacemaker, and also his manager Eli Weinstet, who is acknowledged to be an expert on motor machines.

Walthour has a contract with Victor Breyer, manager of the Buffalo track in Paris, for six races against any one who cares to meet him. The brown-legged southerner does not expect to secure victories without riding fast, and just before sailing on the steamer he said that with proper peace-making he expected to cover miles in a minute, in order to win over the French and German riders. Walthour will return to America about May first for the middle-distance races, which will be a feature of most of the bicycle tracks this season.

That Constant Feeling

of melancholy that people in wretched health endure, excites the pity of every loving friend. Nothing else cheers up an invalid or so quickly makes him feel good as a tablespoonful of Vitona. Many happy healthy men and women have been made so by taking Vitona to strengthen their nerves, liver, kidneys, etc. One sample bottle proves its merits. Alford Drug Co., Agents.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Macrame lace will be conspicuous in the trimmings of the coming season. Many voile robes have the hairpin insertion interwoven for trimming purposes.

Basket weave materials in one inch checks are meeting with fashionable approval.

For wool tailored suits beige, blue green, ombre, pearl and marine blue are preferred colors.

In the dress fabrics voiles, both plain and fancy, are leading among the inexpensive materials.

The new spring chintilly laces are very decorative in design, principally fruits or flowers woven on a plain tulle ground.

Mohairs, thin cloths, plain, flecked and plaid Scotch tweeds and materials with lace effects name the leading favorites among spring fabrics.

Eolienues in brown, delft blue, navy blue, royal blue, suede and grays in light and medium shades and ivory white are, according to an authority, leading colors in this favored material, named in order of preference.—Brooklyn Eagle.

JAPANESE JOTTINGS.

In Japan there are over 30,000 miles of railway.

In Japan every child is taught to write with both hands.

Until forty years ago the Japanese were vaccinated on the tip of the nose. The principal garments of the Japanese infantry regiments are composed of specially prepared paper of a yellowish color.

Geishas in Japan start their singing education very early. The lessons are taken on the roof of the house—in winter for preference.

On entering her husband's home the Japanese bride does not become mistress of the household. She becomes the slave of her spouse's parents.

The postal and telegraph departments in Japan are very flourishing. Sixty-eight per cent of the receipts go to the expense of their maintenance.

How to be Rid of Rheumatism.

Go after it with Athlophoros.

All forms of Rheumatism owe their origin to the presence of Uric acid in the blood. The mischief may show itself in any or several of the following shapes: Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory, Muscular or Rheumatic Fever. Severe attacks may be brought on by exposure, errors in diet, or neglect of the laws of health. But all result from an excess of Uric acid in the system! Uric acid will only yield to one remedy.

This remedy acts directly on the cause of the disease. A remedy that dissolves the Uric acid. Athlophoros cleanses the system, purifies the blood, relieves inflammation and permanently cures even the most stubborn cases.

An interesting booklet, "Rheumatism—Its Cause and Cure," mailed on receipt of four cents in stamps.
