Business would flow in from the most unexpected quarters, and when we took time to investigate we could always trace it direct to some of our advertising.—Col. Geo. Merritt, of Waterbury Watch Co.

"Hearst has no following among the people that make delegates," says a New Yorker that is supposed to know whereof he speaks. Perhaps this is true in New York city, for it is said that Tammany is opposed to him, but it is none the less true that among the masses of the Democratic party he has many more friends than any man that has been named or is likely to be named by the reorganizers. And this is significant, not so much as indicating the nominee at St. Louis, as indicating the condition of mind among the millions of Democratic voters. And still more significant is the fact that this condition of mind is a direct result of Democratic teachings for years.

If we may judge from the utterances of distinguished scholars and statesmen, we believe that Russia will win. It seems to be the destiny of this nation to become one of the mightiest powers on earth. The failure on the part of Russia to keep her agreement regarding Manchuria was one of the principal causes of the war, yet some people see good in Russia's attitude and believe that in the end all the means will be justified.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "If there is anything that Hon. Jim [Watson] is looking for just now, it is greatness." The Sentinel forgets that greatness is often "thrust upon" people and sometimes seeks people who are broad enough and strong enough to bear the responsibilities it imposes. If Jim were a howling Democrat, the Sentinel would sing his merited praises and honor him for what he is and has been.

The Red Men of Indiana will regret to hear of the death of Charlie Hicks of Lebanon. He was a member of the highest councils in this order and devoted all his fraternal energies to the promotion and welfare of this fraternity. To know him once was to know him always, and the better you knew him, the more you loved him.

David Bennett Hill says that Judge Parker is the logical candidate and Thomas Taggart is of the same opinion. Indiana and New York in harmony, in either party means the nomination of their choice among the candidates.

The Iandis and Steele forces will fight their battle in the eleventh district today, and, when the smoke clears away this evening, there will be a surprise for some one.

Yesterday was the first day of spring, but did not have the appearance of spring. Today gives fairer promise.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of these diseases a threatened attack of pneumonia may be ward off. There is no question whatever about this, as during the thirty years and more that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of a cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." Sold by A. G. Luken & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, fifth and Main.

RAILROADS

C. C. & L. Making a Stir Among Competitors.

The Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville, for a new line, is making a stir among its competitors. On Saturday it took four trains of twenty-two cars each out of Muncie loaded with fruit jars for the southern states.

R. E. McCarty, of the Pittsburg division of the Panhandle, has appointed C. S. White assistant road foreman of engines, vice John Roach, deceased. Mr. White has been acting in that capacity for a month.

Stock of the Pennsylvania road last Saturday sold at $117 per share against $111 the day before the merger decision. The adverse effects of this decision on the railroad situation, whatever they may be, had evidently been discounted some time before, for the stock market has certainly been stronger and more active since the announcement of the decision.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific's new line from St. Louis to Memphis is so nearly completed that it will be opened for traffic on April 1. The line between St. Louis and Shelbyville, Ill., will give the Chicago & Eastern Illinois direct traffic from Chicago to St. Louis, and will be opened on the same date. The Rock Island expects soon to be able to run trains from Chicago to New Orleans.

H. C. Shepard, division freight agent of the Panhandle, with headquarters at Indianapolis, who spent last week in Philadelphia in conference with Pennsylvania freight officials, returned yesterday. He thinks good results will follow the conference, and under the new arrangements for the movement of freight the service between the seaboard and western points will be considerably quickened.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

William Shaffere, a brakeman of Dennison, Ohio, was confined to his bed for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. "I used many remedies," he says. "Finally I sent to McCaw's drug store for a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, at which time I was unable to use hand or foot, and in one week's time was able to go to work as happy as a clam." For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, corner fifth and Main.

THE CRY OF THE ALIEN.

I'm an alien—I'm an alien to the faith my mother taught me;
I'm an alien to the God that heard my mother when she cried;
I'm a stranger to the comfort that my "Now I lay me" brought me—
To the Everlasting Arms that held my father when he died.
I have spent a lifetime seeking things I loathed when I had found them;
I have wrought and been rewarded in full many a winning cause;
Yet I'd yield them all—fame, fortune and the pleasure that surround them—
If I only had the faith which made my mother what she was.

I was born where God was closer to his children and addressed them With the tenderness of messages through bird and tree and bloom; I was bred where people stretched upon the velvet sod to rest them. Where the twilight's benediction robbed the coming night of gloom. But I've built a wall between me and the simple life behind me; I have coined my heart and paid it for the fickle world's applause— Yet I think his hand would fumble through the voiceless dark and find me. If I only had the faith that made my mother what she was.

When the big world came and called me I deserted all to follow, Never noting in my dazedness, I had slipped my hand from His; Never dreaming 'mid the glamour, that the bauble Fame was hollow— That the gold of wealth was tinsel as I since have learned it is. I have spent my substance seeking things I spurned when I had found them; I have wrought and been rewarded in full many a winning cause; Yet I take them all—fame, fortune—with the pleasures that surround them And exchange them for the faith that made my mother what she was. —S. W. Gillilan, in Baltimore American.

A JAB AT INFIDELS.

After the opening meeting of the Religious Education Association's recent convention in Philadelphia, Rev. Erastus Elakeslee, of Boston, entertained Dr. Frederick Tracy and Dr. Halsey Gulick with stories of his youth.

"A friend of mine at college," this learned editor said, "was a lad of skeptical views. He and I made a walking tour one summer, and late on a certain evening we stopped at a lonely farmhouse and asked for shelter for the night.

"The old woman who owned the farm welcomed us. She had a simple, pious mind, and she insisted on our taking part with her in the evening prayer.

"At the prayer's end my skeptical companion attempted to deride her piety.

"Do you really believe," he said, "that men are made of dust?"

"The Good Book says so. Therefore I believe it," said the old woman.

"How about wet weather, then, when there is no dust, when there is only mud? What is done then?" said
