Business would flow in from the most unexpected quarters, and when we took time to investigate we could always trace it direct to some of our advertising.—Col. Geo. Merritt, of Waterbury Watch Co.

Most workingmen have come to a definite conclusion as to the value of protection in keeping up wages, but here is an illustration from the American Economist that is well worth reproducing. This paper says: "In one country workmen in a given line of production receive as wages $4 per week; in another country workmen in the same line receive $18 per week. How long does Dr. Rainsford think the $18 wage would be paid if there was no tariff to restrict competition? The hypothetical case is an actual case. It accurately describes the disparity between the wages received by the potters of Saxony and the potters of New Jersey. Remove the tariff and one of two things will happen—either Saxony will make all the pottery, or else the New Jersey wage rate will fall to the Saxony level, plus the cost of transportation from Saxony to the United States, which is rather less than 5 per cent of the cost of production. What is true of pottery is true of the bulk of the industries in the United States. Take away the protective tariff and what becomes of the American wage rate? It now averages three times the wage rate of continental Europe. Would it continue to hold that high average under free trade? No, it would not."

This is the day for the voting in the World's Fair contest to begin. The person or persons receiving the greatest number of votes is to get free transportation from Richmond to St. Louis and return. It has been suggested that the old people be remembered. By old people, we mean the oldest people in Wayne county. It would indeed be a great event in the lives of an old couple who have lived all their lives in this vicinity but were never able to enjoy the sights and experiences of a great exposition on account of the expense it would incur.

The people of Richmond have an opportunity now to gladden the hearts of some old couples and give them a little idea of twentieth century progress. This will be a great pleasure to these old fathers and mothers and will make a very bright spot in their lives as they go down the slope where lengthening shadows play about their weary feet. The living enjoy these things, but the dead have no use for them.

This suggestion came from one of our leading business men and we think it a good one. If some one feels like he can elaborate the idea, we shall be glad to print what he has to say or write.

A SWOLLEN STREAM

Prevented the Forty Invited Guests From Attending—A Remedy Offered.

Charles Stetson and family live north of Greensfork and were to have a reception Saturday night at their home. Guests were invited to the number of about forty, the ice cream and other good things to eat arrived from Richmond, the good housewife had spent the day in preparing the menu for the feast, and everything was in readiness. But, lo! the weather was not taken into consideration, as it should have been, possibly, and, as a consequence, the whole affair was upset. The rains of the night previous had swollen the stream to such an extent that it could not be crossed and the bridge being washed away, it was impossible for the guests to reach the Stetson home, much to the disappointment of all concerned. The only remedy we can offer is that the affair be repeated and Richmond newspaper men invited, and the Palladium will assure the good people there will be no disappointment.

REV. LEGG

Preached to Large Audiences Yesterday.

Evangelist T. J. Legg, who is conducting with such success the revival meetings at the Christian church, attracted large crowds yesterday at both services. His great sermons on "What is the Christian Church?" and "The Church as the Last Apostle Saw It," were listened to with deep interest and made a profound impression.

These sermons were notable for their broadness and their charity toward all religious bodies. Nine persons were converted during the services of the day.

Tonight Mr. Legg's subject will be,
"The Conversion of an Apostle." Services at 7:30. Several persons will be baptized at the close of the service.

The peculiarity of cancer among diseases is that it consists in the rebellion and malignant behavior of certain parts of the body itself itself, not in the attacks of foreign enemies. Cancer, in fact, is a state of civil war in the body, a reign of terror produced by outbreaks of murderous fury on the part of revolutionists at one or more localities.

The original contract for the eight columns for the church of St.
John the Divine in New York, required that the columns each be made in one solid piece, sixty-three feet long and six feet in diameter. Two of them were broken in turning, however, and the owners modified the contract allowing them to be made in two pieces. The cost for quarrying them alone was $200,000. The building is to cost $200,000.
