FINAL JUDGMENT

Highest Court Says James Lynchheau is a Free Man.

Washington, May 3.—The attempt to extradite Thomas Walsh or James Lynchheau, who is wanted by Great Britain, has failed as the result of the decision of the case by the supreme court of the United States.

Lynchheau was sentenced to life imprisonment in Ireland for assault and battery. He escaped from prison and was arrested in Indianapolis by Marshal Pettit on a warrant issued by Commissioner Childs of New York. The court below held that Walsh or Lynchheau should have been given an examination in Indiana before turning him over to New York. This decision was affirmed by the supreme court and the order of the discharge was declared to have been correct.

MINES TIED UP

Twelve Thousand Miners Out in Ohio Sub-District.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 3.—Between 11,000 and 12,000 coal miners in the eastern portion of Ohio sub-district No. 5, went on strike yesterday because of their failure to reach an agreement with the operators. President Werker of the coal miners arrived in Bridgeport today, and will conduct the strike from that point. He has already counseled peaceable methods in an address to the miners. It is understood that the operators will meet in Cleveland this week to consider the situation. Four counties in West Virginia withdrew from the sub-district, with the consent of both operators and miners, because of the different conditions here, and now constitute the Pan Handle district. Although the Pan Handle miners are also out, they are not without hope of settlement with the operators within a fortnight.

THE YALU VICTORY

London rejoices with Japan over success of Mika-do's Troops.

ARDENT ADMIRATION

Is Expressed by Britons for the Brilliance of Japanese Campaign On the Yalu.

The English at Last Realize That They Have an Ally Worth While.

London, May 3.—The latest dispatches received here confirming the completeness of the Japanese victory on the Yalu, could hardly have given greater satisfaction in Tokio than they have done in London. The editorials in today's papers ring with admiration at the success of General Kuroki's strategy in a manner indicating that Great Britain has been in considerable doubt of the capacity of her ally's troops when matched against the Russians; and despite the lack by Japan of good cavalry to follow up her victory, it is believed that she will speedily drive the Russians out of Feng Huan Cheng also. Few other details have yet been received, but it seems that the Japanese imperial guards fought with conspicuous bravery and sustained the brunt of the fighting, losing heavily. Some dispatches speak of bayonet charges. It is evident that the Japanese success is largely due to the superiority of their artillery, the Russian guns being too light.

The Japanese victory has caused complete surprise in the European capitals, and it is expected to lead to difficulty in Russia's efforts to raise a loan.

An unconfirmed report of severe fighting between 3,000 Russians and a similar number of Japanese at Gensan is sent by a St. Petersburg correspondent, who says the Japanese were compelled to retire into Gensan, both sides losing heavily. Two Russian officers are said to have been among the bullet.

A Tien Tsin correspondent, cabling under date of May 2, states that Vice-roy Alexieff has sent a lengthy dispatch to General Ma, commanding the Chinese troops, informing him that the occasion may arise for Russia to increase her forces in Sin-Min-Tung, Chen-Yang and other places, and requesting him to withdraw the Chinese military and police. An answer, the correspondent says, is required within three days.

As an indication of General Kuropatkin's anxiety regarding the whereabouts of Japan's second army, a Shanghai correspondent says that all the Russian troops stationed in Chang Chu, Fu Chu, Hai Cheng, Kai Ping and other places have been dispatched along the sea-coast to watch for a Japanese landing.

According to a Shan-Hai-Kwan correspondent, evidence is accumulating that China's neutrality is tottering. The Tartar generals in Kirin and Feng Tien, the correspondent says, are urging the Pekin government to adopt a strong policy against Russian aggression west of the Liao river. It is alleged that Viceroy Yuan Shai-Kai is secretly making war preparations and everything, in the opinion of the correspondent, points toward China making a military demonstration against either bellicose fighting west of the Liao river.

A special dispatch from Port Arthur says that about 100 Chinese ships were observed on the horizon yesterday between the mouth of the Yalu and the Liao Tung peninsula.

HOW IT WAS DONE

Russian General Staff Describes the Yalu Retreat.

St. Petersburg, May 3.—The general staff has given out an outline of the operations on the Yalu river during the past week. The Russian force, including the reserves, was composed of General Kashtalinsky's rifle division, General Mistchenko's Cossack outposts and a brigade of artillery, the whole under General Sassulitch. The Russian lines were at Kulien Cheng or Turenchen, opposite Wiju and Antung, both on the Feng Wang Cheng road. A mile north of Kulien Cheng lies the village of Potletinsky, near a tributary of the Litzavna, five miles up which is Chin Gow. On the opposite bank of the tributary is the village of Litzavna; opposite Potletinsky stands Housan, with a dominating height. Still higher, on the right of the Yalu, is the village of Ambikhe, at the confluence of the Yalu between Ambikhe and Antung. The whole course of the Yalu is divided by islands, the largest Somalinda, facing Kulien Cheng. Another lies between Housan and Sindagow. The Japanese forces, the staff believes, approximated 100,000 men, of which four divisions, thirteen battalions and fifty-six guns were in action. The Japanese prepared for crossing the river by posting all their available guns, of which the Russians say the Japanese had five times more than they along the line facing Kulien Cheng and Antung, and also landed from their warships forty-seven guns. This array of artillery eventually made Kulien Cheng untenable. Under cover of powerful batteries north of Sindagow, the Japanese crossed to Housan, occupying the height. As the latter position would have enabled them to direct a raking fire against the Russians at Kulien Cheng, General Sassulitch ordered it to be retaken Friday. This was done, but on Saturday the Japanese, under cover of a battery reoccupied it, the defenders falling back across the Litzavna and continuing the fight with the Japanese, who were attempting to flank them from Chin Gow. The Russian force at Antung and Kulien Cheng had meanwhile retreated to its second line a few miles westward. The whole Russian force engaged Sunday and formed a semi-circle, the horns of which were being gradually drawn in preparatory to retiring to a position further west. This was the situation when the last Russian official reports were sent.

A member of the staff says that the issue ultimately turned probably upon whether the order to withdraw was given at the proper time. A slight delay at a critical moment might have enabled the enemy's vastly superior artillery to concentrate on the Russian guns, killing horses and gunners and compelling the abandonment of the guns. But if so, the Russian plans will not be changed by accidental losses. General Sassulitch would continue his retreat, contesting stubbornly a possible Japanese advance along the Feng Wang Cheng road, which runs through a hilly country, crowned with heights and exactly suited to Russian tactics.

RUSSIAN ANXIETY

Rumor is Supplying the Lack of Official Reports.

St. Petersburg, May 3.—The interest of the public in the news of the fighting on the Yalu is at fever heat, especially since the last official report which announced the fighting at Chin Gow was given out. To the general disappointment, no further telegrams from General Kuropatkin have been published by the war commission, nor will the censor pass press dispatches wired from the front.

The absence of news led to the circulation of wild rumors. For instance, it was reported that General Sassulitch would be relieved of his command and court-martialed for making too strenuous a stand on the right bank of the Yalu. As a matter of fact, while the war office is surprised at the resistance made by General Sassulitch, a telegram from General Kuropatkin to the emperor on April 26 announced that Sassulitch, in view of the preparations which the Japanese were making to cross the Yalu, had begun to reinforce his troops on the Manchurian bank.

Another report says the war office has been informed that the Russian casualties numbered 2,000. Should this be true, it can be accepted as a certainty that the Russian plan of operations never contemplated such a sacrifice. In view of the cautious advance of the Japanese it is not expected that they will quickly follow up Sassulitch, but will take a few days in getting the remainder of their troops and supplies across the river and in clearing the country of Russian detachments in order that their communications may not be exposed to attack.
