

UNDER BOND FOR $4,000

THOMAS HALE IN JAIL UNDER HEAVY BOND

DEATH OF THOS. SEIBERT

Struck By Hale While in a Passion
Caused by Drink—Autopsy.

Thomas Hale, the Wayne county boy who struck Thomas Seibert a severe blow, at Indianapolis, and knocked him through a window, and who afterward died, is twenty-eight years old, and formerly lived in Dublin, Ind., where a sister still lives. He is of athletic build, his height being almost six feet. He is well dressed and shows no evidence of dissipation. He formerly worked in a foundry and as a motorman, and this work hardened his muscles. He talked of his ambition to gain a business experience. Mr. Deschler, Hale's employer, spoke in the highest terms of the young man and called to see him at the jail, as did many other friends of the prisoner. Hale waived examination and his case will be presented to the grand jury. His bond was fixed at $4,000.

The autopsy on the body of Seibert, which was conducted by Dr. Dunlavy, the deputy coroner, showed that death was due to cerebral hemorrhage. The scalp was not cut by the broken glass.
