CHARACTERISTIC OF H. S. CUMMINGS

HIS SPEECH SECONDING THE NOMINATION OF PARKER

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

For President of the United States
—Roosevelt's Eccentric Advertising Methods.

(By Associated Press.)
St. Louis, July 7.—The following speech was made today by Homer S. Cummings, seconding the nomination of Judge Parker:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:—The Democracy of Connecticut, which I have upon this occasion the great honor of representing, has a vital interest in the result of the coming campaign. I therefore crave, at the hands of this great convention the privilege of a few moments in which briefly to set forth the wishes of the Democrats of that doubtful and essential State. It is our wish, our hope and our purpose to present to the Democracy of the nation the seven electoral votes of the old constitutional State of Connecticut. We appeal to this assemblage of Democrats for the invaluable assistance of a wise presidential nomination.

Thoughtful people decline to accept the present chief executive in his favorite role of a mighty military captain. True, he has taken great pains to assure them that he has charged up San Juan Hill, but they have come to the conclusion that he has shed more ink and less blood than any warrior since Sancho Panza. They realize that his chief hold upon a doubtful fame for military activity depends upon such glory as he managed to achieve by impertinences and insults to Miles and Dewey and Schley. They are uneasy in the knowledge that he is painfully lacking in poise and balance, and so constitutionally reckless that he is likely, at any time, to involve our country in difficulties at home and abroad. They have witnessed, with infinite regret, his efforts to stir up sectionalism, and for selfish purposes, to undo the work of patriots by resurrecting the infamous issue of the bloody shirt. They have witnessed his burlesque assaults upon the criminal monopolies, and have found that his warfare against the trusts consists in the use of extravagant language and the assumption of terrifying facial contortions. They have come to know him because of his extravagance, his arrogance, his disregard for constitutional limitations, and his efforts to develop the executive powers at the expense of the legislative branch of the government. They are eager for a real American statesman, of American size, and animated by American constitutional ideas. If you want to secure the seven electoral votes of Connecticut, if you wish to strengthen and inspire her Democracy, if you desire to heed the wishes of one of the doubtful States that must be carried in order that the national Democracy may come into her own, then you must name, as the choice of this great convention, a candidate who appeals to both the regular Democrat and the independent voter, and who is the very antithesis of the Republican nominee. Fortunately, there is such a candidate now before this assemblage for its consideration. He is a man of sound Democratic principles, tried executive ability, great personal popularity, wide learning in the law, profound respect for justice and the constitution, undoubted party regularity, a clean record, and a judicial reputation for dealing in a large way with large problems. He is a man of dignity and self-control, and from his high and honorable position upon the bench has handed down leading decisions upon many vexed and pertinent questions affecting labor and capital. From his character, his attainments and his experience, it is clear that both the party and the country have in him a man who can be trusted to meet every question as it arises, to guide the affairs of State in a safe and proper course, and at all times and in every way measure up to the highest standard of public service. We can place the insignia of the party in his hands, secure in the faith that he will carry it through this contest even with the fidelity with which the Black Douglas carried the sacred basket that contained the heart of Bruce.

Gentlemen, Connecticut unites her voice with that of her sister States, New York, New Jersey and Indiana, doubtful States, every one, and asks this splendid assemblage of Democrats to nominate for president of the United States, Judge Alton Brooks Parker, of New York.

Safeguard the Children.
Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Frank Riggs, of Franklinville, N. Y., in speaking of this remedy said: "I have found it expedient to have a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. It has been a family safeguard and while especially beneficial to children, it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation." For sale by A. G. Lukens & Co., and W. H. Sudhoff, Fifth and Main streets.
