NEWS

One of the most effective weddings of the mid-summer season was that of Miss Alice Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amasa M. Jenkins, and Mr. Francis Norton Maxfield, of Amesbury, Mass., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins in West Richmond, 223 Central avenue, at half past three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Miss Jenkins, one of the best known and most charming girls in Quaker society, has been away for several years, first attending the Boston Art school of which she is a graduate, and later as an instructor in Oakwood Seminary and in the high school at Union Springs, New York. The wedding was a small one, only the immediate friends and relatives being in attendance with several out-of-town guests. The marriage was conducted after the manner of the Society of Friends, the principals repeating the ceremony by which they were wedded and signing a certificate which was read by Mr. Timothy Nicholson, one of the committee appointed to attend the marriage by the Monthly Meeting of which the bride was a member, as is the custom in this religious body. Mr. Nicholson with Mrs. Nicholson and Mr. and Mrs. Folger Wilson forming the committee for this purpose. President Kelley, of Earlham College, assisted, with Rev. Allen Jay of East Main Street Friends' church and Rev. Elbert Russell, of Earlham. The house was charming in decorations of green and white, the bride's colors, the bridal party being placed before a bank of green in the front parlor and preceded by the ribbon bearers, Raymond and Naomi Jenkins, niece and nephew of the bride, and attended by Miss Olive L. Jenkins, sister of the bride, and Mr. Daniel E. Maxfield, of Boston, who acted as best man for his brother. The bride wore a beautiful bridal costume of white crepe de chine over white silk with trimmings of white silk medallions and carried a shower bouquet of green and white. The maid of honor was effectively attired in a dress of white silk grenadine over pale green, the party entering the parlors to the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Leona Wright, of Fairmount, Indiana, a college friend of Miss Jenkins. A two-course wedding supper was served by Miss Katherine Moelk, Mr. and Mrs. Maxfield leaving immediately thereafter for Casco, Maine. Mr. Maxfield is instructor in science in the German-town Friends' School near Philadelphia, and Germantown is to be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maxfield after the beginning of the college year. The out-of-town guests were: Miss Mary Gove, of Boston, Mass.; Miss Alice Paige, of Lynn, Mass.; Miss Annie Maxfield, of Amesbury, Mass.; Mr. Daniel E. Maxfield, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jenkins, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Verinda Talbert, of Spiceland, and Miss Leona Wright, of Fairmount.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Mae Quigley and Mr. Clarence Betty took place yesterday afternoon at half past three o'clock at the parsonage of the Third M. E. church, in Fairview, the Rev. W. H. Pierce, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Betty will make their home in Richmond.

Miss Miriam Harrison is home from an extended visit to Mrs. Lillian Rutledge, formerly Miss Davis, of this city, now of Zanesville, Ohio, Miss Harrison also visiting in Pittsburgh and elsewhere in Pennsylvania before her return. COL. HOLLOWAY Doing the Evangeline Country.

(Indianapolis News.) Col. W. R. Holloway, now consulate-general of the United States to Halifax, N. S., has been doing the Evangeline country with a party of friends. In the course of a letter to a friend in this city he writes: "We were at Digby, on the Bay of Fundy, where the rise and fall of the water was twenty-one feet and at the head of which it is between sixty and seventy feet twice each twenty-four hours—greater than at any other place in the world. Piers where boats land have two orthree stories for use at the various stages of the tides. The bottom is dreadfully muddy. The boats run in and the tide runs out and leaves them standing high and dry and they are loaded and unloaded, and must wait for high tide before they can go out. We saw nothing but Americans during our absence from Halifax. Every hotel and house where they entertain tourists fly the American flag and sometimes both, but surely the American flag because nearly all the tourists are Americans from all parts of the states, but particularly from New England.
