

It is just a common cold, people say, there's no danger in that. Admitting their statement, then there are uncommon colds, colds which are dangerous; for many a fatal sickness begins with a cold. If we could tell the common cold from the uncommon we could feel quite safe. But we can't. The uncommon variety is rarely recognized until it has fastened its hold on the lungs, and there are symptoms of consumption.

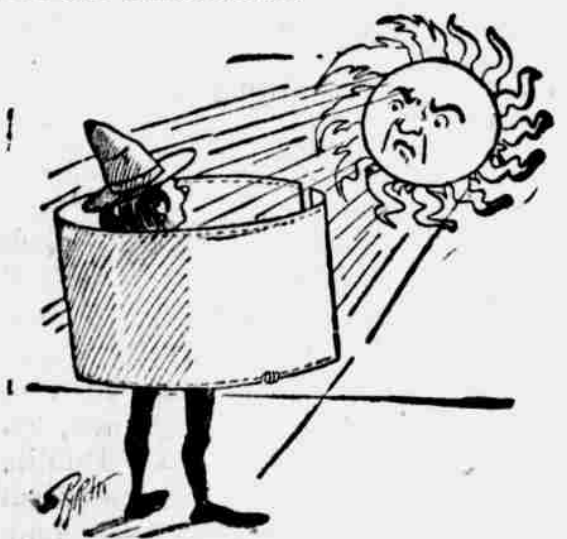

At the first symptoms the careful person will heed the warning by taking a mild laxative; some vegetable pill that will not disturb the system or cause griping. About the best is "Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets." If the cold starts with a cough, and it persists then some local treatment for this condition should be taken. A well known alternative extract, which has been highly recommended by thousands of users, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic compound is composed of an extract of roots and herbs and has a soothing effect upon the mucous membrane, allays the irritation and at the same time works in the proper and reasonable way, at the seat of the trouble—the stagnated or poisoned blood.

It contains no alcohol to shrivel up the blood corpuscles, but makes pure rich red blood.

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page illustrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. 1000 pages. It was formerly sold for $1.50 per copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MARKED REVIVAL IN BUSINESS

CAME WITH SUDDENNESS AND STRENGTH ASTONISHING

HENRY CLEWS & COMPANY

Genuine and Widespread Improvement—So Say Some of the Famous Bankers.

New York, October 22.—A marked revival of the speculative spirit has set in. It has come with a suddenness and a strength that is almost astonishing. Such an outburst, exceeding the most sanguine expectations, is only to be explained by the fact that intrinsic conditions were generally as the banishment of all doubt regarding the crops, was necessary for the release of pent-up forces which sent prices surging upwards during the first part of the present week. Again and again these weekly advances have asserted that confidence was reviving; that conditions were improving; that powerful interests were supporting the market, and that in consequence better prices were to be expected. Recent events have strikingly proved the correctness of such views.

The recovery, however, came with a rush that would raise serious doubts about its stability were it not for the genuine and widespread improvement in underlying conditions that fully warranted the change. A somewhat tardy realization of this change by the public caused the latter to enter the market impulsively in order to recover lost opportunity; and, as is always the case, the public is rapidly becoming as much over-sanguine as it was over-depressed less than six months ago. Such a sharp revulsion of feeling is bound to be reflected in values, and it may be some time before the market recovers its equilibrium and sentiment again and adjusts itself accurately to the general situation. Now that the speculative fever has fairly broken out it must run its course until broken by reverses, although it must be admitted that no natural hindrances are yet in sight. The outside situation continues good, and is improving daily, while the technical situation remains free of weakness. The only checks thus far administered have come from big insiders, who evidently are opposed to a runaway market. This was made quite evident by the recent public utterances of Mr. Vanderbilt, who undoubtedly expressed the opinions of the most powerful banking and financial interests of the country in his St. Louis speech. Mr. Vanderbilt plainly intimated that those interests were opposed to an over-rapid discounting by Wall Street of better business conditions. He frankly stated that in some cases such improvement had been overdiscounted, and gave warning that steps would be taken by big financiers to check the sort of speculative operations that

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address: Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WHY MOTHERS WORRY

Did you ever hear a mother worry over a plump child? There is no better bank of health for a child to draw from than a good supply of healthy flesh.

Scott's Emulsion not only gives a child weight and plumpness, but it feeds the brain, bones and nerves with strength and active power.

Fewer mothers would worry if they knew more about Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is substituted by cheap emulsions and so-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod-liver oil. They can do you no good and are dear at any price. Why buy them? Scott's Emulsion has been the one reliable preparation of cod-liver oil for nearly thirty years.

brought the "boom" of 1902 to an untimely end. This attitude of hopelessness, thoroughly mixed with conservatism, is eminently sound, genuine and understandable. No body will accuse the financiers with whom Mr. Vanderbilt is connected of being philanthropists. They are shrewd, hard-headed business men, intent solely upon carrying out successfully well-laid plans which are not facilitated by such outbursts of speculation as occurred this week. A gradual, steady and well-sustained upward movement is more in consonance with their plans than any speculative craze; hence, neither the sanity nor the sincerity of Mr. Vanderbilt's remarks can be questioned.

In the latter half of the week prices reacted considerably under free realizations. Liberal selling could be detected by certain of the big insiders, but such stocks were readily absorbed, and some of the leaders apparently took back their stocks on the declines. The speculative situation has not yet reached the danger point, but prices are now so high that the temptations to take profits are enormous, and are of course increased with every advance. The public is coming into the market with increasing force daily, and as the big interests are not likely to permit any serious reaction the prospects are for an excellent trading market during the next few days. Technically, the situation has been much improved by the decline which began Tuesday and lasted for several days. This was what is generally called a "healthy reaction." It will undoubtedly cool off the speculative fever that was brewing and bring the market into a safer position for the next rise. One of the influential elements in the situation is that leading bankers have important deals and new flotations in prospect. As a weak market would interfere with such plans, these parties cannot well afford to permit any serious decline, and would probably encourage a bull market within reasonable limits. On their side is the continued improvement in business, also ease in the money market. Railroad managers, who are in an advantageous position for looking ahead, are confidently expecting a heavy traffic this fall and winter; so confident, in fact, that they are pressing for deliveries of new cars and placing additional orders for others in order to be ready for the expected revival. Within a short period our railroads have placed orders for 20,000 new freight cars. In the iron trade the recovery has been remarkable, at times almost rushing into a buyers' panic so complete has been the change. Contracts for nearly 200,000 tons of pig iron have been placed during the last few days at an advance of $1 per ton. Other branches of the iron trade are sharing in the revival, and copper, too, is in large demand at advanced prices. The business outlook is nearly all respects is satisfactory, and if the forward movement can be kept within the lines of moderation present prosperity may be continued indefinitely. Nothing could injure its permanence more than a "boom."

Conditions in the stock market are thus favorable to active trading. On all sharp advances the prudent operator will take his profits and frequent, of buying only on the substantial declines. A good many stocks are selling beyond intrinsic values, and while the market still seems destined for a higher level the necessity for careful discrimination by both investors and marginal operators is increasingly apparent.

RAGGED BLOOMS TOO VULGAR

DEATH KNELL OF THE CHRYS- ANTHEMUMS HAS BEEN SOUNDED.

VIOLETS HAVE THE CALL

Geraniums Are Also the Mode—Roses Are Out of Date.

New York, October 23.—It's all settled and fired. Fashion arranged it. The knell of the chrysanthemum as a buttonhole ornament has sounded. To wear one of the great shaggy blossoms on one's coat lapel now stamps one as in bad form. Fashion has even made the decree more pronounced. A male being who decks himself with one or more chrysanthemums in this, the autumn time of 1904, is vulgar.

Time was when the ambition of the callow college swell was a chrysanthemum. He aped the man of fashion. Now that is all changed. The man of fashion wears violets in the morning and he wears violets in the afternoon. A post-luncheon addition is a gardenia, nestling snugly among pale blue violets. An orchid, violet in hue, may likewise be used to vary the beautiful monotony.

This is one of the changes evident today in 5th avenue and in Broadway. The fall fashion in posies now are in force.

Roses Vanish From the Street.

Here's what an ultra-fashionable florist who knows all about it said today:

"No gentleman or gentlewoman ever wears roses on the street. That's a relic of barbarism in which smart persons have no part.

"Chrysanthemums never now adorn a gentleman's buttonhole, and rarely are they worn by gentlemen. They have reached their proper place as a decorative church or house flower. Solid colors in white, yellow and pink are smart for church weddings and house functions. Autumn foliage, oak leaves and the like are their natural accompaniments.

"Violets and orchids divide the honors for street wear with modish femininity. The bunches of violets at the corsage are varied by the addition in the center of a spray of lilacs of the valley or violet orchids. Virtually no other flowers are worn by smart persons.

Delicate Shades Preferred.

The particular sort of violet is quite as important as the flower itself. The Marie Louise, a heavy-scented, double violet, and the Lady Campbell, which is more delicate in shade than the parme, have the call. Parme violets are about out of the market, these varieties having succeeded them.

In prices, the bowers vary according to the shops patronized. Fifth avenue and Broadway florists take on a bit upon the price, so that violets range from $2 to $3 a hundred. Orchids range from 75 cents to $1.50 each and the chrysanthemums from $2 to $5 a dozen. The big ragged variety of the later flower is preferred and white, pink and yellow are the shades.

Flowers never, the florists say, were in such demand as now. The supply has increased, but the demand has kept pace with it and the shops are prospering. The green ferns and richly tinted autumn foliage form the background for gay blooms.

Potentate or beggar man may feast his eyes at will, for the show is free to those who look, but costly for those who buy.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip eccectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it.
