

An Excess of Talent?

[Original.]
Patsy Dolan, professional burglar, appreciating the opportunity offered at Colonel Bridges' fancy dress ball and realizing that he could not personate any one so well as himself, resolved to attend as himself or rather as the public conceived him, with a coil of rope thrown over one shoulder, a dark lantern in one hand, a revolver in the other (not loaded, of course) and a jimmy sticking out of his pocket.

On the night of the ball, having made himself look as little like the real Dolan and as much like a stage burglar as possible, he put on a mask to cap the costume as well as to conceal his unrefined features and proceeded to Colonel Bridges' residence. Seeing the colonel at the front door taking the names of the arriving guests, Patsy withdrew to the rear, climbed a trellis and effected an entrance into a closet on the second floor, from whence he emerged among a crowd of guests pouring in and out of the dressing rooms. Concluding that for the time being there must be more people upstairs than downstairs, he descended and entered the main drawing room, where stood the family waiting to receive the guests.

"What an original idea!" exclaimed Miss Bridges as Patsy sailed into the room. "As sure as you live that's Ben Harker. I'd know him in any costume. I knew he'd come in something unique. Why doesn't he come up to speak to us? Oh, I forgot; a burglar wouldn't know enough for that."

As soon as Miss Bridges could leave the position of hostess she sought out the burglar. She thought it would be fun to pretend to mistake him for the real thing.

"What are you doing here, sir?" she said. "I'm going to call a policeman and hand you over to him."

If Patsy's face could have been seen through his mask he would have betrayed himself, but it couldn't, and this gave him time to recover his assurance, which admonished him to bluff.

"You're complimenting me costume," he said at a venture.

"It's splendid. What's that sticking out of your pocket?"

"Sure, it's me jimmy!"

"You're the best character in the room. How did you come to think of it?"

Patsy drew a sigh of relief.

"Ben Harker," continued the girl, "you needn't think you can fool me. I knew you the moment I saw you. Come, let's go into the ballroom."

She led the relieved Patsy away and forced him to stand with her in a square dance. He had no sooner displayed his awkwardness than his partner burst into a laugh, and every one in the room was convulsed with mirth at the blunders of the burglar. Indeed, it was not long before nearly every one in the room was watching him. This was too much success, and he tried hard to dance like the rest, but the harder he tried the worse he failed.

When the dance was finished he told his partner that he was tired and must go upstairs for a rest, but she would not permit the best character at the ball to retire for a moment.

"Oh, there's a policeman!" she exclaimed. "How nice it would be for you two to know each other!" And she dragged the unwilling burglar to the cop.

"Here's a burglar for you, Mr. Policeman. You'd better take him to jail. You two are the best made up of any in the house. You're both splendid!"

"Are you an old offender or new to crime?" asked the policeman to keep up the byplay.

"O'm a young bir-r-d," replied Patsy. "Ever cracked a crib?"

"Niver a one. O'm as innocent as the day Ol first went to Sunda school."

Miss Bridges clapped her hands. "He beats you," she said to the policeman. "Isn't he a perfect character?"

"As near the real thing as any I ever saw," replied the cop in a dry tone that made Patsy wish he hadn't such remarkable talents for impersonation.

"He wants to go upstairs and rest," said Miss Bridges to the policeman. "Do you think the jewelry would be safe?"

"Doubt it," replied the cop.

"I think I'll take him into the supper room. I'd like an ice."

"Watch the spoons if you do."

These pleasantries were charming to both food and medicine.

We like best to call Scott's Emulsion a food-medicine. It is a term that aptly describes the character and action of our Emulsion. More than a medicine—more than a food, yet combining the vital principles of both. It is for this reason that Scott's Emulsion has a distinct and special value in all wasting diseases. There is nothing better to remedy the troubles of imperfect growth and delicate health in children. The action of Scott's Emulsion is just as effective in treating weakness and wasting in adults.

the other two, but came rather too near home for Patsy.

"O'm thinkin'," he said, "O'm obtrudin' meself betune two frien's, and the requirements of polite society requires me lavin' ye. Good evenin'."

"I don't think it safe to let you travel about the house alone," said the policeman. "You'd better stay by me till the time comes to unmask." Then, turning to the young lady, he added, "Don't you think so?"

"Unmask?" said Patsy, an ill-concealed alarm in his voice. "What's that?"

"I think," the officer went on, "that your presence at the unmasking would not help these festivities to pass pleasantly, and you'd better unmask else where. Come with me. You're wanted."

The last five words were not only familiar to Patsy, but were spoken in a familiar tone. Patsy followed the policeman out of the room, Miss Bridges looking on admiringly.

"How well those two play their parts!" she said to herself as she turned away without suspecting that a real policeman had arrested a real burglar.

Patsy unmasked on the sidewalk and spent the night behind bars.

"Me taken for pavin' parts was too much for m'," he said to himself. "O should go on the stage."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Progressive Matrimony.

"You can always tell a young husband from an old one by the way he acts when he goes after a bucket of water," says Uncle Hiram. "Three months married, he swings the pump handle, whistles and casts covert glances at the house as though some one were looking at him from the window. One year married, he swings the pump handle more slowly, smiles occasionally and seems to be annoyed because the meal is late. Two years married, he looks sour and grim, kicks the cat over the coal house and looks at the house as if he would like to choke somebody. Three years married, he sits on the doorstep and smokes while his wife works the pump handle."—Kansas City Journal.

WOMAN'S TRIALS.

Her Bitter Disappointment.

The bitter trail in a woman's life is to be childless. Who can tell how hard the struggle may have been or she learnt to resign herself to her lonely lot? The absence of this link to bind marital life together, the absence of this one pledge to mutual affection is a common disappointment. Many unfortunate couples become estranged thereby. Even if they do not drift apart, one may read the whole extent of their disappointment in the eyes of such a childless couple when they rest on the children of others. To them the largest family does not seem too numerous. It will rather appear to them that those on whom this blessing has been most richly bestowed hardly value it sufficiently.

In many cases of barrenness or childlessness the obstacle to child-bearing is easily removed by the cure of weakness on the part of the woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of restoring health and fruitfulness to many a barren woman, to the great joy of the household. In other, but rare cases, the obstruction to the bearing of children has been found to be of a surgical character, but easily removed by the most conservative treatment at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., over which Dr. Pierce of the "Favorite Prescription" fame presides. In all cases where children are desired and absent, an effort should be made to find out the real cause, since it is generally so easily removed by proper treatment.

In all the various weaknesses, displacements, prolapses, ante-versions, retro-versions, inflammation of ovaries, leucorrhoea, giving rise to disagreeable and weakening drains, and in all cases of nervousness, nervous prostration and debility, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most efficient remedy that can possibly be used. It has its credit hundreds of thousands of cures—more in fact than any other remedy put up for sale, through druggists, especially for woman's use. You do not have to take Dr. Pierce's word alone for this, because the ingredients of which the "Favorite Prescription" are composed have received the most positive endorsement from the leading medical writers on Materia Medica of all the several schools of practice. All the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper enclosing the bottle, so that if you are an invalid woman and make use of the famous medicine you know exactly what you are taking. Dr. Pierce takes his patients into his full confidence, which he can afford to do as the formula after which the "Favorite Prescription" is made will bear the most careful examination.

You do not have to experiment when taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as with the many fake, cheap John Medicine that are sent out on trains composed of cheap and often harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce resorted to Nature's Laboratory to get the ingredients for his "Favorite Prescription," believing that the indigenous, or native, medicinal roots of our country are endowed by Providence with the most marvelous curative powers.

The only rational way to attempt to cure disease is by assisting the natural functions of the body, and to do that there is nothing like Nature's remedies which act in Nature's way, toning and invigorating the digestive organs, the liver, the stomach and bowels and the nervous system, which always suffers to a great extent in all the various derangements of the organs distinctly feminine. The medicine of known composition is the one to rely upon—the one that has a record of nearly forty years of cures—the one devised and manufactured by a regularly graduated and experienced practitioner of medicine. By addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., you may secure, free, a little pamphlet giving numerous extracts from many medical writers of prominence, extolling the various ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is worth looking over if you are a sufferer.

Dr. Pierce does not claim for his "Favorite Prescription" that it is a "cure-all." It is recommended as a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments. So uniform are the results which follow the use of this remarkable remedy, that it can be truly affirmed of "Favorite Prescription" that it always helps and almost always cures. Ninety-eight per cent. of the women who give this medicine a fair and faithful trial are cured and remain cured.

It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down" or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proven a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving powers.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve-line, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea, or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womanly organs. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Cures obstinate cases. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions and irregularities, prolapse or falling of the pelvic organs, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration, inflammation, more or less pain and tenderness over the lower abdomen accompanied with "internal heat."

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made from harmless but efficient medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. The Indians knew of the marvelous curative value of some of these roots and imparted that knowledge to some of the pioneer whites, and gradually some of the more progressive physicians came to test and use them, and ever since they have grown in favor by reason of their superior curative virtues and their safe and harmless qualities.

Your druggist sells the "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page illustrated book "The Common Sense Medical Advisor," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
